

WOBURN JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1877.

NO. 27.

Florists.

S. W. Trowbridge & Sons, FLORISTS,
161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 17

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODMAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:

At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P.M. 18

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

7 Court St., Boston, 175 Main St., Woburn.

Residence—Central House, Woburn.
Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and to personal injuries, and to all complaints against corporations, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 20

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 22
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4-NIERS BLOCK, BOSTON,
Entrance from Court Street and 3d School Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 23

Room 2, BOSTON.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

J. H. POTTER,
Practical Watchmaker and Adjuster,
AT B. BRADLEY'S CLOCK STORE,
259 WASHINGTON ST., BOSTON.

The repairing and Adjusting of Fine Watches will receive the closest and most careful attention.
Fine American and Swiss Watchers, Chains, Seals,
&c., &c., For Sale. 130

Business Cards.

JOHN O. SYLVANIE,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of Joining
promptly attended to. 25

Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 26

WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE

Livery, Hack & Boarding

S T A B L E,

212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

G. F. JONES, 27 Proprietor.

E. K. WILLOUGHBY,

House and Job Carpenter,

WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.

28

A. BUCKMAN,

Dealer in.

Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.

160 Main Street, Woburn.

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

29

WOBURN JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1877.

NO. 28.

Florists.

S. W. Twombly & Sons,
FLORISTS,
161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODHULL, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
7 Court St., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 P. M., 6 P. M., 9 A. M.

Residence—Central House, Woburn.
Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, insurance, and State Court cases. Acc-counts adjusted, and general law business attended to
with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—53 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 17
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 State Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18
ROOM 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of
the United States and Canada.

J. H. POTTER,
Practical Watchmaker and Adjuster,
AT B. BRADLEY'S CLOCK STORE,
259 Washington St., BOSTON.
The repairing and Adjusting of Fine Watches will receive his closest and most careful attention.

W. C. COOK,
Watchmaker and Swiss Watcher, Chain,
Seals, &c., &c. For Sale. 19

Business Cards.

JOHN O. SIVCLIFFE,
Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker,
WHITEWASHING and all kinds of JOBBING
promptly attended to. 20
Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

George H. Conn,
INSURANCE AGENT,
NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 21
WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE
Livery, Hack & Boarding
S T A B L E,
212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,
G. F. JONES, 22 Proprietor.

E. K. WILLOUGHBY,
House and Job Carpenter,
WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

23
Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.

A. BUCKMAN,
Dealer in
Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.
180 Main Street, Woburn.
24 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on hand.

WILLIAM SLATER,
PLAIN AND DECORATIVE
SIGN PAINTER,
EVERETT ST., - Woburn. 25

M. ELLIS & CO.
BUILDING MOVERS
—AND— 26
CONTRACTORS.
WINN STREET, WOBURN.

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence,
No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,
Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES,
a prepared to receive orders for Co
ing at
the low price of 65 cents per

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE,
No. 139 Main Street. 30

BILLHEADS, Cards, Circulars, Note and Letter
Heads, and every variety of printing neatly and promptly executed at this office.

Business Cards.

DAVID C. HOSKINS,

Furniture and Job Wagon

WOBURN, MASS.

Order Box at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main street.

Residence, Canal St. 31

All orders promptly attended to.

Hartwell, Taylor & Co.,

Dealers in all kinds of

PROVISIONS,

Fruits and Vegetables.

PICKLES, SAUCES AND CANNED FRUITS.

Orders called for. Goods delivered free of charge.

Thankful for former patronage of this market, the new proprietors respectfully solicit a share of public favor. 32

163 Main Street, - Woburn.

JOHN BRYANT,

PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSMINING,

PAPER HANGING, &c.,

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass.

33

GEO. P. SIMMONS,

Woburn Fish Market,

190 Main Street, - Woburn.

Mr. Simmons having had a large experience in the fish business, is fully capable of supplying the wants of the public with satisfaction. 34

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor,

Office—HUTCH'S COAL OFFICE, WINCHESTER.

Streets surveyed and graded.

All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR,

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main street, promptly attended to. 36

G. F. SMITH & CO.,

Watchmakers and Jewelers,

DEALERS IN

Watches, Clocks & Jewelry.

No. 187 Main St., Woburn, Mass.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry promptly repaired and satisfaction guaranteed. 37

WE HAVE ON HAND, AND INTEND TO
KEEP THE

Best assortment of Ranges

to be found in town, and at lowest prices. We shall also promptly attend to Tin Roofing, Jobbing, &c., as usual. 38

E. Stoves stored for the season.

C. M. STROUT.

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST.

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN. 39

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St.,

BOSTON. 40

Grinding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paint of all kinds constantly on hand.

Residence: Washington Street, Winchester.

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,

AUCTIONEER,

BURLINGTON. 41

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL OF FICE, Woburn, promptly attended to. 42

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

Office: 29 Court St., Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main

Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 43

GREAT REDUCTION IN RATES.

You can now send a

Telegram of Ten Words

for 25 Cents,

UNIVERSAL HISTORY,

Commencing with the earliest periods, closing March

1871. 3 volumes. The World's greatest, Grand History of All Ages. Mental, Moral, Political, and Social History. Numerous and beautiful illustrations.

Quick Sales. Extra Terms. Circulars free. Address

J. C. McCURDY & CO., Philadelphia, Pa., Cincinnati, O., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo. 44

Agents Wanted $50 TO $200 PER MONTH

A New, Clear and Concise

SPARROW HORTON,

Manager Western Union Telegraph Office, at Wo-burn Bookstore, next door to Post Office. 45

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES,

a prepared to receive orders for Co

ing at

the low price of 65 cents per

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE,

No. 139 Main Street. 46

BILLHEADS, Cards, Circulars, Note and Letter
Heads, and every variety of printing neatly and promptly executed at this office.

Poetical Selection.

PAPAS LETTER.

I was sitting in the study,
Writing letters, when I heard,

"Please, dear mamma, Bridget told me
Mam—mustn't be disturbed,

"But I've tired of the kitty,
Want some oozier fudge to do;

Writing letters, is 'on, mamma?
Tan't I write a letter, too?"

"Not now, darling, mamma's busy;
Run and play with kitty now."

"No, no, mamma, me wife letter, Tan't you will show me how?"

I would paint my darling's portrait
As his sweet eyes searched my face—

Hair of gold and eyes of azure,
Form of childish, witching grace.

But the eager face was clouded,
As I slowly shook my head,

Till I said, "I'll make a letter
Of you, darling boy, instead.

So I parted back the tresses
From his forehead high and white,

And a stamp in sport I pasted
'Mid the waves of golden light.

Then I said, "Now little letter,
Go away and bear good news."

And I smiled as down the staircase
Clattered loud the little shoes.

Leaving me, the darling hurried
Down to Bridget in his glee.

"Mamma's writing lots of letters;
I'll write, Bridget—see!"

No one heard the little prattle,
As once more, he climbed the stair,

Reached his little cap and tippet,
Standing on the entry chair.

No one heard the front door open,
No one saw the golden hair,

As it floated o'er his shoulders
On the crisp October air.

Down the street the baby hastened,
Till he reached the office door,

"Tis me, Mr. Postman;
Is there none for any more?"

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents. Special notices, 15 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. Extraordinary notices, 10 cents a line. The name of the subscriber's name on this paper, to show to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page	Col.	No.
Collector's Sale	3	1
Found	3	1
Found	3	1
F. S. Express	3	2
Home To Let	3	1
Mortgage's Sale	3	1
Report National Bank	3	1

BOATING.—There are now twenty boat houses on Horn Pond, and half as many more boats. And yet there is nothing on the Pond that will aid in saving life, such as life buoys, planks, poles or ropes, and not a grapnel. At the swimming hole on the west shore, there is nothing that could be laid hold of to help a drowning person. A year seldom passes but some one is drowned in Horn Pond, and for a short time afterwards the subject of life-saving apparatus is agitated, but it soon dies out. The recent accident has revived the subject, and we hope something will come of it. The boat house on the west side of Beacon street is Barnum's, and on the east side Cormack's. The houses follow in the following order:—Winn, Brown, Wood, Randall & DeLoria, Bryant, Willoughby, Smith, Lewis, Hunt, Kendall, Melendy, Perham, Dickinson, Eaton, Taylor, Cummings, Mehan, Richardson.

THE President's order in relation to federal office holders occupying places upon political committees received the first fruits in Massachusetts. Major Merrill, a member of this city, commemorated Independence Day by forwarding to Hon. John E. Sanford his resignation as secretary of the Republican State Committee. Major Merrill has been secretary of this committee eight years, and has given it a large amount of gratuitous service. Hon. C. C. Dame, collector of Internal Revenue, Newburyport, has also resigned as a member of the committee. Lawrence American.

The retirement of Major Merrill will be no small loss to the State Committee, of which he has been a very efficient officer. It will hardly seem regular to see any one else rise at Worcester this fall, and call the Convention to order.

Ex-Congressman Tarbox in a recent letter to the Lawrence American, deprecates the practice of some who feel called upon to say that they do not acknowledge the authority of the President. He says—Mr. Hayes is President by a legal title fraudulently won, it is true, but unimpeachable by any course of legal procedure. And the American people owe it to the dignity of their government and the credit of their civil institutions, to yield him the obedience and the civility which the authority and dignity of the chief Magistrate demands. The wrong done the elective principle of free government by the late Presidential settlement is not to be avenged by personal insult, or disrespect to the constituted authority. A better mode of redress will be found.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNICS.—Thursday was a charming day for picnics, and the Orthodox and Baptist Sunday Schools took the occasion to go to picnics. The former went to Maolis Garden, in the barges Commonwealth, Farnsworth, Queen of Winchester, Gov. Brooks, Empire and Enterprise, besides private carriages, and by the steamboat from Dorchester, in all about three hundred. The Baptist went by rail to Haggard's Pond in Andover, carrying about 200. The latter were accompanied by Barrett's Band, and marched from the depot to the church in fine style. Both parties had a splendid time and reached home without accident.

CENSUS.—Mr. E. E. Thompson gives the following figures as the result of his canvas of the town for school children. The whole number between the ages of 5 and 15 inclusive is 2112, and are divided as follows:—Between five and six, 227; six and seven, 219; seven and eight, 221; eight and nine, 195; nine and ten, 196; ten and eleven, 203; eleven and twelve, 171; twelve and thirteen, 183; thirteen and fourteen, 166; fourteen and fifteen, 183; fifteen and sixteen, 147. The number under the age of five who are not registered, was found to be 131.

PROF. C. D. C. W.—This well known mesmerist has been giving entertainments in Lyceum Hall, on several evenings during the past week. Last evening he gave another, and this Friday evening he will again exhibit his power over persons in the audience, compelling them to do various laughable things.

WOBURN DIRECTORY.—The Woburn Directory for 1877 is now in the hands of the binder and will be issued in a few days. It makes a volume of 168 pages, and contains 3650 names. The full list of voters is given in addition to information contained in previous directories. Copies of the directory will be for sale at one dollar each.

THESE old boys who stood on the summit of the Orthodox steeple when the church was being built, do not care to repeat the experiment now, for in order to do so they would have to climb from stage to stage, an operation requiring a steady nerve and stout muscle.

THE blueberry season has arrived, and the pastures are full of the pickers, who do not always wait until the berries are ripe before they coax them into their pails.

THE building operations at the First Congregational Church last week, were said to have been an effort to elevate the stage.

IN answer to frequent inquiries, we will state that the First Congregational church was dedicated Oct. 31, 1860, and the spire is 196 feet high.

THE proposed hall of the St. Charles Society will have a good foundation, for it will be built upon a rock.

Boarding house keepers and others in want of choice Teas at low prices, should go to Smith's. Bargains in 60 ct. teas.

SAVINGS BANK.—The annual meeting of the Woburn Five Cents Savings Bank was held last Saturday, and the following officers were re-elected:—President, Stephen Dow; Vice-Presidents, James Tweed, Thos. Richardson; Trustees, Stephen Nichols, G. R. Gage, A. E. Thompson, Wm. T. Grammer, Wm. Winn, John D. Tidd, Nathan Wyman, P. L. Converse, Samuel Cook, J. D. Taylor, Alfred A. Dow, John R. Carter; Secretary and Treasurer, James N. Dow. The following statistics for the year are given:—Whole amount deposited, $54,230; $1; amount of withdrawals paid depositors since Jan. 1, $47,050.74; total, $507,180.07. Interest received on above, divided expenses and reserved fund, $15,967.21; Reserved fund to Jan. 1, 1877, $637.18; Reserved fund to July 1, 1877, $646.57; total capital June 30, 1877, $524,431.03. Investments have been made as follows:—Bank stock, $300.00; Government Bonds, $1,800.00; Mortgages, $237,611.16; Personal, $49,650.00; Real, $5,730.00; Cash on hand, $16,930.79.

THE RIFLE.—The return match between the Walpole Amateur Rifle Club and the Massachusetts Rifle Club was shot on Saturday at the Walnut Hill range. At the first match the Massachusetts Club carried off the honors by 26 points, and the Amateurs came determined to retrieve their fortunes if possible. The day was an excellent one for shooting, the south-east wind being light and steady, but the contestants were a little troubled by shadows. The firing was at 800, 900 and 1000 yards, each competitor having ten shots at the shorter distances and fifteen at 1000 yards. During the day the visiting club was furnished with a dinner by the Massachusetts Club, and the men returned home as well pleased with the day's sport as was possible for a defeated club to be. For the Massachusetts men won the match by 22 points.

FOURTH OF JULY EXPENSES.—We are able to give the courtesy of Capt. G. W. Hall, to lay before our readers the following statement of receipts and expenditures of the celebration on the Fourth:—

W. W. HALL, Tr., in account with the Woburn Cash Receipts of P. Kenney, $132.50; " " M. Allen, 69.25; " " A. B. Bradford, 22.00; " " T. H. H. 4.50; " " for Gloves and Bands, 15.75; $243.75

Paid for Field Sports, $11.50; " " Regatta, 40.00; " " Auto Procession, 7.00; " " Rosettes, Mrs C. M. Allen, 3.00; " " Gloves and Hat-bands, 27.43; " " M. A. T. 12.00; " " J. L. Parker, 4.50; " " Postage, 6.65; " " S. H. Miller, posting bills, 6.00; " " J. H. Littlefield & Sons, Lumber, 4.00; " " R. S. Spaulding, Labor and Teaming, 4.00; " " G. F. Jones, Carriages, 117.82; Woburn National Band, $243.75

POLICE COURT.—Peter Crayton, pasturing animal on street, fined $5 and costs. Martin and Bridget Tierney were arrested for disturbing the peace, the former being discharged, and the latter fined $3 and costs. Frank G. Birney, drunk, fined $3 and costs. John Curley, pasturing horse on street, fined $5 and costs. James Graves, Joseph Dolan, Edward P. Crosby and John Wren were each fined $3 and costs for being drunk. Charles W. Leathie, drunk, sentenced to House of Correction. Frank O'Brien, assault and battery, fined $15 and costs, and put under $100 bonds to keep the peace for six months, appealed.

BASE BALL.—On Saturday the General Worths of Stoneham played with the Creightons of Somerville. The game was given on the eighth inning the score standing 7 to 7. The game was played on East Woburn ground.

Saturday afternoon, July 14, the Shamrocks of Woburn will play the Unions of Wilmington, on the grounds of the latter.

Wednesday, July 18, the Shamrocks will play their second game with the Clippers of Stoneham, on the grounds at East Woburn. Last Saturday the Somersets of Woburn Centre beat the Clippers of North Woburn, the score standing 16 to 8.

LECTURE.—We call special attention to Dr. Sara C. Chase's lectures announced in this issue. The flattering testimonials of her ability and past work as a physician, lecturer and orator in advancing temperance and reform in living, are of the highest order.

LONDON CIRCUS.—The great London show is coming next Tuesday with all its old attractions and some that are new. It will pitch its tent on the corner of Main and New Boston streets. Two full performances will be given each day, and the entertainment will be even better than that which drew such crowds in Boston. See advertisement on third page.

CONCRETE.—Walter Bates looks right after his concrete walks, and when they get a little worn he gives them a top dressing which is elastic, and easy to walk over. He has just fixed up the walks on Main Street.

HON. J. S. POTTER, United States Consul at Stuttgart, Wurttemburg, and an old resident of Arlington, arrived from Germany on Tuesday last. He is on a brief vacation from his foreign duties.

MR. E. B. HASKELL, editor of the Advertiser, arrived at Liverpool yesterday morning, and offered the first newsboy he met five sovereigns for an American newspaper.

FIRE.—Wednesday evening a gauze curtain in the window of the Woburn Clothing Store, caught fire from a gas jet, but was extinguished before any damage was done.

ICE CHESTS.—Thomas Morris, at 196 Main Street, is selling ice chests at reduced rates, and parties desiring a good article at a low figure will do well to give him a call.

MEDICAL EXAMINER.—Among the additional appointments of Medical Examiners, we notice the name of Dr. John C. Irish, of Lowell, for Middlesex county.

RUNAWAY.—A horse belonging to Moore & Morris ran away last Saturday, and damaged their grocery wagon to some extent.

A MODEL CORRESPONDENT.—We learn from the Charleston Courier that the Cheraw, S. C., Argus and Observer, recently sent a special correspondent to spy out the condition and surroundings of the family of Hon. B. F. Whittemore. He speaks of East Woburn as a small town on the Boston & Maine R. R. For his information we will record that East Woburn is not a town, but a portion of the town of Woburn which is one of the largest towns in the State, and that it is not on the Boston & Maine, but on the Boston & Lowell R. R. To come so far and learn so little, quite remarkable, and our advice to the Argus is to let that young man practice nearer home before he is sent out so important a mission. We append his letter:—

Having found the residence of Mr. Whittemore, we lingered around for a while making a general survey of the premises, passing to stroll through the elegantly grounds and inspect the richly cultivated lawns, the beautiful trees and shrubbery, and gaze upon the miraculous triumphs of art, in the shape of statuary, scattered among rare exotic plants. But this could not be, for Mr. Whittemore, although a white man, has rights which must be respected. While pondering a proper and convenient solution of the problem, there fortunately appeared a citizen of the town, who proved to be a neighbor and friend of Mr. Whittemore, and him we had the following interview.

Correspondent: "Is this the residence of Mr. B. F. Whittemore?"

Citizen: "It is."

Correspondent: "How is the health of Mrs. Whittemore?"

Citizen: "Mrs. Whittemore is in the enjoyment of excellent health."

Correspondent: "Did she not have, about a month or six weeks ago, a severe attack of cerebro spinal meningitis?"

Citizen: "There must be some mistake about that, for never in my world of it, am I intimately acquainted with Mr. Whittemore and family—have seen Mrs. Whittemore and other members of the family frequently during the spring, and I am sure had there been any serious illness in my family, I would certainly have known it."

Correspondent: "Is Mr. Whittemore at home now—if so, how long has he been here?"

Citizen: "Mr. Whittemore came home about a month or six weeks since."

Correspondent: "Will he return to the South again?"

Citizen: "I think not. I heard him say a short time ago that he did not expect to return, as times were dull, and there was nothing more to do out there."

Correspondent: "Does Mr. Whittemore preach now?"

Citizen: "I think not. Preach! I never heard of his preaching out here, and don't think he ever preaches anywhere."

Correspondent: "Is Mr. Whittemore engaged in any business, now?"

Citizen: "No, he is well off, and there is no need of his doing anything."

Correspondent: "How long has Mr. Whittemore owned the place, and what did he pay for it?"

Citizen: "He purchased this place some four or five years ago, but I can't say what he paid for it. If I ever knew it have forgotten."

Correspondent: "What is this property worth now?"

Citizen: "That is very hard to answer, all kinds of property, especially real estate, have depreciated so much in value within a few years that it is now almost impossible to form a correct estimate of the value of any property. Thirty or thirty-five thousand dollars would I presume, be the limit of its value. Do you wish to purchase this property?"

Correspondent: "I have no such desire."

Citizen: "Why, then, are you so much interested in it?"

Correspondent: "I am a taxpayer in South Carolina, and have some stock in this property."

This incisive remark of your correspondent made the hitherto communicative citizen very reticent, and he refused to answer any more questions.

Finishing that he had gleaned all I could about the Whittemore property, I wended my way to the depot, and took the next train for Boston.

TO NAHANT.—Mr. Perkins's East Woburn party take their annual excursion to Nahant this Friday morning in the Commonwealth.

A GOAL DAY is in prospect.

A GOOD TEAM.—Jones of Woburn, with his Commonwealth, has the name of driving the best team into Nahant that visits that place.

RAIN.—It has rained very easy several days this week, and parties who were out in open carriages got more than they wanted of it.

FELL.—The ceiling in Miss Kelley's millinery store fell down Thursday night, smashing a show case and doing other damage.

WORK ON THE PUBLIC LIBRARY is progressing quite rapidly. Several Woburn artisans are employed on the work.

ALBERT F. JOY has been convicted of the murder of Gilman, and will be hung on the 19th of October.

CUT.—Monday, Rosa O'Donnell lost a portion of her right forefinger in a cutting machine at Russell's.

DOGS.—Chief of Police Tidd is giving the owners of unlicensed dogs fair warning.

LONGFELLOW QUOTED IN COURT.—A man in England wanted, the other day, to register a certain Greek word as a trade-mark for an ink which he manufactured, but the registrar refused on the ground that "a mere word" could not be a trade mark according to law, which defines it as "a distinctive device," etc. The case was carried into court where the plaintiff's counsel quoted Longfellow's authority for the word "excisor" being "a strange device," but the practical judge declined to recognize the poetical precedent, and judgment was given in favor of the defendant.

WALTER BATES looks right after his concrete walks, and when they get a little worn he gives them a top dressing which is elastic, and easy to walk over. He has just fixed up the walks on Main Street.

HON. J. S. POTTER, United States Consul at Stuttgart, Wurttemburg, and an old resident of Arlington, arrived from Germany on Tuesday last. He is on a brief vacation from his foreign duties.

MR. E. B. HASKELL, editor of the Advertiser, arrived at Liverpool yesterday morning, and offered the first newsboy he met five sovereigns for an American newspaper.

FIRE.—Wednesday evening a gauze curtain in the window of the Woburn Clothing Store, caught fire from a gas jet, but was extinguished before any damage was done.

ICE CHESTS.—Thomas Morris, at 196 Main Street, is selling ice chests at reduced rates, and parties desiring a good article at a low figure will do well to give him a call.

MEDICAL EXAMINER.—Among the additional appointments of Medical Examiners, we notice the name of Dr. John C. Irish, of Lowell, for Middlesex county.

RUNAWAY.—A horse belonging to Moore & Morris ran away last Saturday, and damaged their grocery wagon to some extent.

WICHITA.

SUMMER BOARDERS.—Never before have there been so many summer boarders in town as during the present season. At Mr. Samuel Oakman's, formerly the Everett mansion, there are some twelve or fifteen; at Mr. M. W. Oliver's, formerly the Eaton house, there are quite a number, as also at Mr. C. C. Cook's. Many others are scattered through the town, and among them is Rev. C. W. Wendte, a prominent Unitarian clergyman from the West, who is stopping at Harrison Parker's. J. H. Butler, Esq., a lawyer of Boston, and his wife, are at Mrs. French's on Washington Street.

Special Notices.

WOBURN PUBLIC LIBRARY.
No books will be delivered from the library after Saturday, the 7th of July, and all books must be returned on or before Saturday the 21st. The Library will then be closed one week for examination.

Per order of LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

July 3, 1877. 4

For Sale and To Let.

HOUSE TO LET.—5 rooms, on Main Street, 10 Horn Pond water. Also the Carroll House opposite to the street, containing 9 rooms. Also a room in Kelley's Block. Inquire of JOSEPH KELLEY.

102

HOUSE TO LET.—A House on Pleasant Street, to let. Inquire of W. H. Winn. 97

TO LET.—Cottage House of 9 rooms, large lot of land, great variety of fruit. Situated on Franklin Street. For particulars, inquire of E. W. YER, cor. Green and Mt. Pleasant Streets.

For Sale or to Let.

A desirable house and lot with stable, situated on the cor. of East and South Sts., Woburn, owned by Rev. H. C. Townley. The house is thoroughly built of the best materials, and contains fine furniture, furnace, and Horn Pond water. The stable has stalls for two horses. The lot (17,000 ft.) is well stocked with fruit trees, and contains a fine lawn. Apply to C. P. DAYNE, No. 2 Wade Block, Woburn. 94

WANTED.—EXPERIENCED KNITTERS in Woburn and vicinity. Apply to Mrs. C. A. PIERCE, Hovey street, Woburn. 8

Lost, Found, Wanted.

FOUND.—July 3d, a large black Newfoundland dog, with leather collar and tags. The owner can have by applying to W. M. WOOD BERRY. 106

FOUND.—In Woburn, a Shawl, which the owner can have by calling on S. Kinsman, East Woburn, after proving property and paying for this advertisement. 109

SARA B. CHASE, M. D., of New York.

A successful Physician of long experience, a popular lecturer and electioneer, will deliver a free lecture to Ladies and Gentlemen, in

LYCEUM HALL, WEDNESDAY, JULY 18, 1877, AT 8 o'clock, P. M.

Free Tickets at J. W. Hammond's store, 181 Main street, at the corner of Pleasant Street, and at Hovey's Bookstore, 100 Pleasant Street, to the Post Office. Dr. Chase will deliver a course of private lectures to Ladies, illustrated with plates, on Thursday, Friday and Wednesday afternoons, July 19th, 20th and 21st, at 3 o'clock. For particulars see small bills. 105

NOTICE.—Parties who want stone for building purposes, or gravel, are requested to come and take all they want, and leave how much, on Main Street, before the Temperance Hall is going to be erected. 2

By WILLIAM WINN, Auctioneer.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

To Edward E. Reynolds, of Woburn, surviving Mortgagee, and to all others interested in the premises hereinafter described.

NOTICE.—A few days ago, the under and by reason of a conveyance made in a certain Mortgage Deed, dated August 8th, 1870, recorded with Middlesex County, South District Deeds, Lib. 129, Fol. 211, given by Edward E. Reynolds and Sam. M. Reynolds, to W. E. Skinner, and by breach of conditions of said mortgage deed, will be sold at public auction on the premises on Monday, August 13th, 1877, at 10 o'clock, A. M., all the premises conveyed by said mortgagee to wit: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Woburn called Woburn, in said County of Middlesex, bounded easterly by land now or late of Noah Edredgeon, the fence now stands; southerly by land now or late of P. H. Townley, westerly by land now or late westerly by land now or late of John Kelly and Charles C. Fender, also a way formed out, until it comes to a point as now stands; northerly by land now stands, to the road called Ward street, and northerly by said Ward street; meaning hereby to convey the same premises conveyed by John Kelly to come to Burying Ground, and bounded with Middlesex Deeds, in Book 75, Page 39, and the same conveyed by John P. Healy, Executor, to the said Sam. M. Reynolds by his deed dated Dec. 10th, A. D. 1869.

$100 will be required of the purchaser at the time of sale, other terms made known at time and place of sale.

WM. E. SKILTON, Mortgagee.

Woburn, July 10, 1877.

AETNA Improved Sewing Machines THE CHEAPEST AND BEST.

No Canvassers Employed,

But the large commissions usually paid to Agents allowed to customers who purchase for Cash at our office,

$60.00 Dollar Machines for $25.00

All other styles in same proportion. Every Machine Warmed New.

Call and examine, or send for Circular.

H. S. WILLIAMS, Manager,

112 24 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

"Black Fearnought"

Will make the season for mares at 82

Winship's Stock Farm.

Woburn, Mass.

For terms, pedigree &c., apply on the premises.

Board for Horses

At all Seasons of the Year.

Report of the Condition of The First National Bank of Woburn

at Woburn, in the State of Massachusetts, at the close of business, June 22, 1877.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts, $132,260.00

Overdrafts, 1,191.00

U. S. Bonds to secure circulation, 260,000.00

Other bonds and mortgages, 175,000.00

Due from reserve agents, 3,000.00

Real estate, furniture and fixtures, 32,233.73

Current expenses and taxes paid, 25,855.93

Premiums paid, 2,625.00

Checks and other cash items, 1,861.72

Bills of other banks, 8,490.72

Specied gold holding gold Treasury certif. 621.38

Legal-tender notes, 9,722.00

Redeemed funds with U. S. Treasurer, 13,500.00

Due from U. S. Treasurer, either other than 5 per cent. redemption fund, 1,000.00

Total, $789,633.92

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in, $300,000.00

Surplus fund, 93,000.00

Individual deposits, 6,555.05

National Bank Notes outstanding, 270,000.00

Dividends unpaid, 432.99

Individual deposit subject to check, 104,995.73

Checks and other cash items, 5,600.14

Total, $789,633.92

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

Capital stock paid in, $300,000.00

Surplus fund, 93,000.00

Individual deposits, 6,555.05

National Bank Notes outstanding, 270,000.00

Dividends unpaid, 432.99

Individual deposit subject to check, 104,995.73

Checks and other cash items, 5,600.14

Total, $789,633.92

STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS—COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX, SS.

J. R. Green, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. R. GREEN, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of July 1877.

E. E. THOMPSON, Justice of the Peace.

Correct—Attest:

H. D. HADDEN,

JOHN JOHNSON, Directors.

E. N. BLAKE,

BROADWAY SAVINGS BANK,

Mortgagor.

12

Millinery Cheap

—FOR THE—

Best Show in New England for a Dozen Years!

Only Circus that will be in Woburn this Summer.

Woburn, Tuesday, July 17.

COR. MAIN AND NEW BOSTON STS.

2 Grand Performances at 2 and 7:30 P. M.

Large enough in its Overwhelming Magnitude to Cage Shadow and Swallow up any Six Shows on the road.

Coming in three Special Trains!

Has more Respectability and Character than any Show on either Continent.

Flowers from 10 cts. upwards.

The Great London
EVERYTHING MARKED DOWN.

Grand Rush to Close.

SASH RIBBON, 12¢ cents a yard.

“ nice, 25¢

We have just opened a nice assortment of

4-4 Percales at 10 Cents,

The finest quality of goods made, and choicest styles.

In quality and price this is a bargain.

NEVER BEFORE ATTEMPTED.

Foulard Cambries!

In all the new shades. These goods are very scarce.

DRESS LINENS,
SPECIAL BARGAIN AT 25 CENTS.

WHITE GOODS,
MUSLINS, LAUNDS, PIQUES.

Our Prices are Low on these Goods.

Sunshades Marked Down.

Fans Marked Down.

ALL KINDS OF MACHINE SPOOL COTTON 5 CTS.

Good Pins, per paper, 1 cent.

Knitting Cotton, per ball, 4 cents.

Hair Brushes, 10 cents.

German Cologne, 10 cents.

Perfume, 10 cents upwards.

2-button Kid Gloves in all the new shades 50 cents.

Fine Gauze Gloves, 25 cents.

Gold's Cotton Hose, 5 cents.

Children's Hose, 5 cents.

GET THE RIGHT PLACE.

140 Main St., Woburn Center.

SOLES' BLOCK,

JOHN P. FERNALD.

Vacation Days

ARE COMING.

We wish to reduce our stock, and for the next 10 days we shall mark down.

BLEACHED TABLE LINEN

From 62¢ cents to 55 cents.

LANCASTER GINGHAM

From 10 cents to 8 cents.

Remnants yard wide Cambries

From 6 cents to 5 cents.

Black and White Striped Skirts

From 75 cents to 50 cents.

WHITE LAWN WAISTS

From 97 cents to 79 cents.

2-BUTTON KID GLOVES

From $1.00 to 79 cents.

Wrappers for 83 cents, $1.00 and $1.25.

Cambrie Waists 50 cents.

Lady's Hair 4 pair for 25 cents.

Writing Paper and Envelopes, 10 cents per Box.

Coarse Combs, 5 cents.

Fancy Soaps, 5 cents.

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1877.

NO. 29.

Florists.

S. W. Tuomby & Sons,
FLORISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. Woodman, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE: At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

7 Court Square, 117 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M. to 4 P. M., 6 P. M., 9 A. M.
Residence—Central House, Woburn.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. According to the general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—53 State Street, Boston, and 30 Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 Niles Block, Boston.
Entrance from Court Street and 35 School Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18

Room 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 13

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Offices—Huse's Coal Office, Winchester.
Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.
WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL OFFICE, Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Offices: 89 Court St., Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.
JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27

Fairmount Street, Woburn.
Miss J. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence, No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists, &c.
ESTABLISHED 1835.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice.
97, 99, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.
All orders promptly attended to. Partnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
STEAM ENGINES,
Bolters, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.
J. BUEL. J. B. FLINT.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
PLUMBERS,
STEAM AND GAS FITTERS.
And Dealers in 43

Gas Fixtures, Burners, Globes, &c., &c.
Plumbing Materials of all kinds
Constantly on hand. Also RUBBER HOSE, and a good assortment of DRAIN PIPE.

130 Main Street, - Woburn.

DEARBORN'S
DOMESTIC MILK BREAD.
The subscriber has opened the store
No. 146 Main Street,
and will keep on hand

BREAD, CAKE, AND PASTRY,
CRACKERS OF ALL KINDS.

He is the sole manufacturer of Dearborn's Domestic Milk Bread, and will be at his store and by A. B. Harris and E. A. Russell.

Grateful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a share of public patronage. G. W. DEARBORN.

Woburn, Aug. 17, 1876. 94

Business Cards.

JOHN BRYANT,
PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,
PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass.

Poetical Selection.

SITTING AROUND.

They are sitting around upon barrels and chairs,
Debating their own and their neighbor's affairs;
And the look of content that is seen on each face
Seems to say "I've found my appropriate place."

Sitting around.

In bar-rooms and groceries calmly they sit,
And serenely chew tobacco, and spit,
While the stories they tell and the jokes that they crack

Show their hearts grow hard, and undoubtedly black.

While sitting around.

GEO. P. SIMMONS,
Woburn Fish Market,
190 Main Street, - Woburn.

Mr. Simmons having had a large experience in the fish business, is fully capable of supplying the wants of the public with satisfaction. 34

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Satin cleanned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Hose House. 84

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,
TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.
Opposite to the Porter's Cigar Store, 136 Main Street, Opposite to the Hotel, "The Star." Has printed all Bill Boards in town. 22 Orders by mail promptly at ended to. 36

WE HAVE ON HAND, AND INTEND TO
KEEP THE

Best assortment of Ranges

to be found in town, and at lowest prices. We shall also promptly attend to Tin Roofing, Jobbing, &c.
as usual. 38

#2 Stoves stored for the season.

C. M. STROUT.

L. A. BRUCE,
HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So., Market, cor. Commercial St.,
BOSTON. 56

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with keenness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds done on canvas and on hand.

Residence: Washington Street, Winchester.

J. H. POTTER,
Practical Watchmaker and Adjuster,

AT B. BRADLEY'S CLOCK STORE,
255 Washington Street, Woburn.

The repairing and Adjusting of Fine Watches will receive his closest and most careful attention.

Fine American and Swiss Watches, Chains, Seals,
&c., &c., For Sale. 19

JOHN O. SINCLAIR,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of JOINING
promptly attended to. 20

Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE * AGENT,

NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 21

WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE

Livery, Hack & Boarding

STABLE,

212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

G. F. JONES, PROPRIETOR.

E. K. WILLLOUGHBY,

House and Job Carpenter,

WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

#2 Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.

25

A. BUCKMAN,

Dealer in

Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.

160 Main Street, Woburn.

#2 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on
hand. 24

WILLIAM SLATER,

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE

SIGN PAINTER

EVERETT ST., - Woburn, 25

M. ELLIS & CO.

BUILDING MOVERS

—AND— 26

CONTRACTORS

WINN STREET, WOBURN.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES.

WOBURN, MASS.

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at
the low price of 65 cents per yard.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE,
No. 139 Main Street. 30

G. F. SMITH & CO.,

Watchmakers and Jewelers,

DEALERS IN

Watches, Clocks & Jewelry.

and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL. J. B. FLINT.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Bolters, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL. J. B. FLINT.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

PLUMBERS,

STEAM AND GAS FITTERS.

And Dealers in 43

Gas Fixtures, Burners, Globes, &c., &c.

Plumbing Materials of all kinds

Constantly on hand. Also RUBBER HOSE, and a
good assortment of DRAIN PIPE.

130 Main Street, - Woburn.

BILLHEADS, Cards, Circulars, Note and Letter
Heads, and every variety of printing neatly and promptly executed at this office.

WOBURN, MASS.

44

Poetical Selection.

SITTING AROUND.

They are sitting around upon barrels and chairs,
Debating their own and their neighbor's affairs;

And the look of content that is seen on each face
Seems to say "I've found my appropriate place."

Sitting around.

In bar-rooms and groceries calmly they sit,
And serenely chew tobacco, and spit,

While the stories they tell and the jokes that they crack

Show their hearts grow hard, and undoubtedly black.

While sitting around.

GEO. P. SIMMONS,
Woburn Fish Market,

190 Main Street, - Woburn.

Mr. Simmons having had a large experience in the fish business, is fully capable of supplying the wants of the public with satisfaction. 34

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents.
25 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line.
The figure printed with the subscriber's name on the list, shows to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page	Col.	No.
C. A. Smith & Son,	3	4
Custom Tailor,	3	2
J. P. Fernald,	3	3
Lost,	3	2
Mortgages Sale—Cutler,	3	3
" " Kent,	3	3
" " Judkins,	3	2
Miscellaneous,	3	2
Wanted,	3	2
		7

THE MATTER SETTLED.

The late Jotham Hill, well known as the builder of the First Congregational Church, once told the editor of this paper that the height of the church from the foundation to the top of the steeple was 196 feet. We have always rested on that statement as authoritative, and last week stated that the spire was 196 feet high. The Advertiser of yesterday contained the following:

How is this for high?—The aspiring journalist who has tried to bring past to present in the history of our Middlesex county, in his last issue betrays as usual his ignorance of local matters and what is going on in town, by saying, "in answer to frequent inquiries" that the First Congregational church steeple is 196 feet high. Why, bless your simple soul, Johniny, that steeple was measured a little over a week ago by Mr. L. G. Richardson and the men who were engaged putting up the steeple, and found to be 200 feet high from the ground to the top of the ball.

We interviewed Mr. L. G. Richardson, and learned that he had measured the steeple with a string, and from the concrete sidewalk the height would not vary but little from 200 feet. He did not claim to be strictly accurate however. To settle the question permanently, we determined to have a careful survey made, and we accordingly, with the consent of Mr. Richardson and Mr. Bean, who are in charge of the repairs now in progress, engaged John R. Carter, Esq., the well known civil engineer, and his assistant Mr. Frank B. French to attend to it, instructing them to measure from the top of the underpinning and also from the top of the rail of the horse car track. Mr. French ascended to the top of the steeple and with Mr. Carter took the levels and measurements, and adding the height of the ball, now at the gilders, they secured a result which is given in the following certificate:—

WOBURN, July 20, 1877.

John L. Parker, Esq.—Dear Sir:—At your request I have this day measured the steeple of the First Congregational Church, and find the height from the top of the underpinning to the top of the ball to be 195.31 feet. From the top of the rail of the horse railroad to the top of the ball is 199.16 feet. J. R. Carter, Civil Engineer.

So far as we are concerned we consider the matter settled, and we presume that most of our readers will take the same view of it, and that Mr. Hill was not so very far out of the way when he said the steeple is 196 feet high.

CURIOSITIES OF THE DIRECTORY.—In turning over the pages of the Woburn Directory for 1877, we find 3,650 names. Of these there are 242 which begin with Mc, and 57 with the prefix O'. The name of Doherty has 58 representatives, Richardson 46, Smith 41, Kelley 32, Murray 29, Parker 28, Callahan 23, Johnson 21, Brown, Jones, and Wyman 18 each. There is only one plain John Smith, although a junior is coming along to share his honors, and three other Johns have middle names. There are 362 bearing the name of John. Of animals we have the Buck, Fox, Griffin, Hart, Lamb and Wolf. Of birds, Bulfinch, Crane, Partridge, Teal, Swan, and 15 Fowls. We have Wells, Pools, Brooks, Waters and Flood, with Dolphin, Pollard, Salmon, and other Fish, each well supplied with Gill, Finn and Scales. A Bait suggests Armstrong with his Shield and Spear. Hood with his Bow so Long, following the Chase, over Hill, Dale, and Lee, through the Wood, the Grove and the Field, across the Mead, and the Moor, where Furlongs lengthened into Miles, is recalled by some of the names, An Alley leads into a Lane, over the Ford to the Bower. We have Brown, Gray, Green and White. Bakers, Cooks, and Fishers, to Frye and Boyle, and a Butler to serve Bacon, Beans, Maize and Rice. A Bell to Ring and a Bellows to blow. Of trades there is a Barber, Carpenter, Carter, Clark, Cooper, Cutler, Cutter, Fuller, Gardner, Harper, Mason, Miller, Plummer, Porter, Sawyer, Skinner, Slater, Taylor and Turner. There are eight Kings, a Chamberlain, three Bishops a Prior, a Dean, a Marshal, and a Divine, a Child that is a Darling, a Mann that is Little, a Friend that is Hardy, and a Carr made of Steele. There are Still, Meek, True, Bland, Young, Eager, Noble, Ready, and Strong men. A Cashman, Drew on the Banks, for a Penny and a Pound, and invested in Bonds for which a Price that was Golden was Given. Burns may be Headly by the ancient Leach, Knox on the Head are apt to bring Blood, and a Call for Mercy. There are no dogs, but several Barkers. There is a Hall, a Temple and a Greenwood, Barnes, Mills and a Littlefield. A Piper for the Ball, and Gallants for the dances. Mawn, Noon, Knight, and Day. Walkers, Sleepers, Mowers, Hearts of Flint and Ropes so Strong that Samson could Seaver them Knot. There are persons who can Traverse, Trott, Wade, March, Hunt, and, Converse. Of course there is a Barr, and for billiard players a Cue. Students may Read a Story, or Conn a Page of Grammer by Gass light. Our army in Flanders is said to have sworn when the French took Holland. But a subscriber Beggs our citizens not to put on too many Ayers about the Place, and advises them to Dodge the Wind that blows Cole from the West, look out for the Frost, and Gage their efforts so that they will not have to lower their Flagg.

SMASHED.—On their way to Woburn, Tuesday morning, a trunk belonging to one of the actors attached to the circus was knocked from the cars by the Winter Hill bridge. The trunk was destroyed and the contents thoroughly distributed. The owner revisited the spot next day, and through the courtesy of Station Agent Wade recovered most of his property.

OVERBOARD.—William O'Brien and Henry Fay were out in a boat on Horn Pond last Sunday, and tipping their boat over, treated themselves to a cold bath. After clinging to the boat for a little while they struck out for the shore, which was not far off, and reached it in safety. A man put off to them in another boat, but his aid was not required.

THE STEEPLE.—Work progresses on the steeple, the slating being nearly done. Strout took an excellent photograph of the church, which is on exhibition at F. B. Dodge's. The steeple surrounded with the stage seems in better proportion than when the stage is off.

Where is the fence that was to have been built around the freight yard? And when is the yard to be fixed so that team can be comfortably performed in it?

LECTURE.—Burnham Wardwell will speak at the Congregational Church Vestry, on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, on the subject of Prisons and Almshouses.

FALL.—Tuesday night, Mrs. Michael Manus fell and broke both bones of the right leg.

ELEMENTARY DRILL.—The 5th Regiment has gone to Concord to day for an elementary drill.

PICTURE.—The Methodist Sunday School went to Nahant on Thursday, in the barges Commonwealth and Farnsworth. They visited Maclie Gardens, and had as good time as any of their predecessors.

A NIGHT ALARM.—Early Tuesday morning some of the ladies at the Central House heard some one walking on the gravel road opposite their windows. Their cries quickly aroused the house, and the intruders escaped over Powder House Hill.

The same morning, about 2 o'clock, George E. Flanders, who works at Estabrook's Bakery, was on his way from North Woburn to commence his labors, and saw two men in the yard of Josiah Parker's place, apparently trying to effect an entrance. When he reached the center of the town, he could see no watchman and he fired two shots from his revolver, for the purpose of bringing them. They were near the Common and responded immediately, and when they arrived near the Central House the excitement was at its height. They failed to find any burglars, and are inclined to believe that the danger was an imaginary one, caused by being awakened by the firing of Flanders' pistol. When the excitement at the Central House had subsided it was so late that the officers did not go to Central Square.

THE CIRCUS.—The London Circus was here on Tuesday according to announcement. They arrived in cars of their own at an early hour in the morning and proceeded to the camp ground and spread their tents. About nine o'clock they made one of the finest street shows ever seen in Woburn. Both performances were well attended, and in the evening the tent was literally crowded, many spectators being unable to obtain seats. Unlike many circuses the management exhibited every thing promised by the bills. The animals were an uncommonly fine lot, and the spectacle of a man in a cage of tigers riding through the streets was a remarkable one. The cage of tigers was entered by an intrepid trainer, but it was though in the evening that he had a narrow escape from injury. The wonderful display of the elephants, and their fear of clambering upon pedestals and completing a living pyramid composed of five elephants was strange. A long train of diseases was described as following in its wake, consumption bringing up the ghastly rear. Another cause of physical and moral degeneracy was fisticula—a crime which was spreading its baleful influence over our fair land. This detestable and criminal practice was the crime of the nineteenth century, and none could be more blasting in its results. If the moral indignation of the country was not aroused against it, the nation would become the reproach of the civilized world. Some wholesome advice concerning the training of children was given the necessity for gymnastic exercises being especially dwelt upon. The "thrill of tight lacing" diet and clothing received in turn suggestive references, the lecturer closing by saying that the human form was a shrine which held the sacred fire of Heaven. It was the image of God written in flesh and blood, and, whenever understood and treated rightly, the tabernacle which he dwelt within. At the close of the lecture another free lecture was announced for Thursday evening.

Thursday afternoon Dr. Chase gave a private lecture to ladies.

THURSDAY.—While the circus was proceeding through Main street, Tuesday morning, some one entered W. H. Curtis's Drug Store, through Spaulding's printing office, and taking a file belonging in the office attempted to pry open the drawer in Curtis's desk. The breaking of the file spoiled the game. Curtis was standing in his door at the time, but heard nothing, and only discovered that an attempt had been made when he tried to open the drawer. One of the clerks at Horton's was surprised to see a strange face peering out of the paper hanging room, to which entrance had been gained through the Walnut street door. He finding himself discovered, decamped without taking anything.

A COURAGEOUS WOMAN.—Last week Mrs. Wm. Flanders 2d, was sitting in her house on Pond street awaiting her husband whom she expected in the late train, when she observed two men prowling about in a suspicious manner. As they approached her house she went to the door and asked them, what they wanted. They replied that they wanted a drink of water. She told them that could not be their desire at that time of night, and as they continued to advance she closed and locked the door. She then went up stairs, procured a pistol, and opened fire on them from the window, when they quickly forgot their thirst in their desire to get away from a woman who seemed to have such a prejudice against midnight callers.

INCENDIARY ATTEMPTS.—Last Tuesday evening some one set fire to some combustible material and placed them against the end of the shop of James Houston, between the shop and the dry house. It was discovered by one of his employees living near by, and extinguished before it had done much damage. Later another attempt was made to fire the same premises by lighting a blaze in the tan shed. The watch was redoubled and no further attempts were made. The circus train was loaded at Green Street crossing, near the shop, and probably some one who went there to observe the operations thought it might be a nice thing to give them more light.

SMASHED.—On their way to Woburn, Tuesday morning, a trunk belonging to one of the actors attached to the circus was knocked from the cars by the Winter Hill bridge. The trunk was destroyed and the contents thoroughly distributed. The owner revisited the spot next day, and through the courtesy of Station Agent Wade recovered most of his property.

OVERBOARD.—William O'Brien and Henry Fay were out in a boat on Horn Pond last Sunday, and tipping their boat over, treated themselves to a cold bath. After clinging to the boat for a little while they struck out for the shore, which was not far off, and reached it in safety. A man put off to them in another boat, but his aid was not required.

THE STEEPLE.—Work progresses on the steeple, the slating being nearly done. Strout took an excellent photograph of the church, which is on exhibition at F. B. Dodge's. The steeple surrounded with the stage seems in better proportion than when the stage is off.

Where is the fence that was to have been built around the freight yard? And when is the yard to be fixed so that team can be comfortably performed in it?

LECTURE.—Burnham Wardwell will speak at the Congregational Church Vestry, on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, on the subject of Prisons and Almshouses.

FALL.—Tuesday night, Mrs. Michael Manus fell and broke both bones of the right leg.

ELEMENTARY DRILL.—The 5th Regiment has gone to Concord to day for an elementary drill.

PICTURE.—The Methodist Sunday School went to Nahant on Thursday, in the barges Commonwealth and Farnsworth. They visited Maclie Gardens, and had as good time as any of their predecessors.

DR. SARA B. CHASE'S LECTURES.—A fair audience assembled in Lyceum Hall, on Wednesday evening attracted by the announcement that Sara B. Chase, M. D., would deliver a lecture to ladies and gentlemen on "Avoidable Causes of Disease." She commenced by referring to the importance of the injunction, "Man know thyself," saying that while in our institutions of learning all sorts of sciences were taught, the great laws which affected our personal well-being were practically ignored. The temple of man was holier than the temple of wood and stone, and a reverence for it better than a reverence for chancel or altar. It was the highest earthly receptacle of the Holy Spirit, and its health and cleanliness should be one of our chief concerns. God was not responsible if we did not live out half our strength. He is merciful to the heart, but He does not forget the stomach, nor postpone judgment upon it until Judgment Day. The lecturer then proceeded to refer to intoxicating drinks as an avoidable cause of disease, dwelling upon its terrible effects upon the human system. The madness and death which it induced would, however, she thought, be of little importance if confined alone to the individual who indulged to excess, but the truth was that the sins of the parent descended with horrible effect upon the children, entailing upon them the most hopeless of fates. The opium used in Mrs. Winslow's soothng syrup and other compounds of a similar character, were also a prolific source of disease, and so far from the great mortality among infants being strange, it would be unnatural under the circumstances, were otherwise. Tobacco was next taken up and handled with equal severity. A long train of diseases was described as following in its wake, consumption bringing up the ghastly rear. Another cause of physical and moral degeneracy was fisticula—a crime which was spreading its baleful influence over our fair land. This detestable and criminal practice was the crime of the nineteenth century, and none could be more blasting in its results. If the moral indignation of the country was not aroused against it, the nation would become the reproach of the civilized world. Some wholesome advice concerning the training of children was given the necessity for gymnastic exercises being especially dwelt upon. The "thrill of tight lacing" diet and clothing received in turn suggestive references, the lecturer closing by saying that the human form was a shrine which held the sacred fire of Heaven. It was the image of God written in flesh and blood, and, whenever understood and treated rightly, the tabernacle which he dwelt within. At the close of the lecture another free lecture was announced for Thursday evening.

THE SECOND BRIGADE ENCAMPMENT.—The following order has just been issued from Gen. Sutton's Headquarters:—

Headquarters Second Brigade,
Mass. Volunteer Militia,
Boston, July 16, 1877.

GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 6.

In accordance with General Orders, No. 6, Adjutant General's Office, the Second Brigade will go into camp for five days at State Camp Ground, on Tuesday, the 21st day of August next.

II. The camp will be designated and known as "Camp at Framingham."

III. Commanders of regiments, battalions, and companies of artillery will report with their commands at the 6 o'clock, P. M., on the day specified, to the Assistant Adjutant General, at Brigade Headquarters on the field.

IV. Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons will report immediately upon their arrival in camp to the Medical Director, who will have general supervision of the Medical Department.

V. Officers and enlisted men reporting for general or special duty, will be in full uniform, armed and equipped. The wearing of any article of civil dress at any time during the encampment is strictly prohibited.

VI. The camp baggage will be on the field, ready for delivery to the several Quartermasters in the Brigade, on Monday, August 20.

VII. The marking or defacing of tents in any manner whatsoever is strictly forbidden, and any officer to whom such property is delivered, will be held accountable for the same.

VIII. Fires will not be allowed on the field, except for cooking purposes, without the permission of the Commanding General.

IX. A sufficient number of men will be detailed in each Regiment and Battalion of Cavalry, and Company of Artillery, for Police Duty, and for Provost Guard within the limits of their respective quarters.

X. Companies of Infantry will be equalized as follows:

Reviews, Brigade and Battalion Drills, and at Brigade Drills Parades.

XI. Enlisted men will not be allowed to leave the camp without a pass signed by the Commander of the brigade, battalion or company to which they belong, and countersigned by the Commanding General; such passes will be issued only in cases of urgent necessity, and will be presented at head quarter by the Adjutant.

XII. The Provost Marshal for the Brigade will be authorized to maintain order in the camp and vicinity, and to arrest all enlisted men found outside the lines without a proper pass.

XIII. Commanders of regiments, battalions and companies of artillery are charged with the promulgation of this order.

By command of Brigadier General Sutton.

ROBERT G. SHAW,
Lieut. Col. and Asst. Adj't. Gen.

RECESSION.—Judge Pettingell's decisions are generally sustained by the upper courts, and evil does not bear his mark. One morning this week, F. C. Nichols, a splitter at Crane's tannery, discovered a quantity of Paris Green, which had been placed during the night, on the edge of a dipper used by him for drinking. It looked as if some one had dipped a finger in the poison and then rubbed it entirely around the dipper so that to use the dipper would insure the taking of the poison. There was poison on a towel nearby, where the poisoner probably wiped his hands. No reason for such an attempt is known to exist, and the author of the outrage and his motive are both unknown.

POLICE COURT.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—The Provost Marshal for the Brigade will be authorized to maintain order in the camp and vicinity, and to arrest all enlisted men found outside the lines without a proper pass.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

RECESSION.—Police Court.—Frank O'Brien, assault, $15 and costs; appealed. James Foley, Michael Cooney, Stephen Loughlin, Herman Richberg, Thomas Kelley, Martin Connolly, Wm. J. Gillespie, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Reddy were each fined $3 and costs.

lyed not yet discovered in the vast regions here described. While the coarse fare, travel and out-door life may serve to improve health and furnish many scenes of amusement and much information that may be of benefit in the future, the task is by no means an easy one, and few will be found able to cope with its many obstacles in the way of a successful journey through this wild and inhospitable region. The daring exploits and hair-breadth escapes of our young heroes, described in the interesting style of the author, make it a truly welcome addition to the series which we trust will increase in favor with each succeeding volume.

St. Nicholas for August follows close upon the superb issue for May, that so fitly heralded the Spring. It is a capital Midsummer Holiday number—a feature in children's magazines, which St. Nicholas was the first to bring out. Specially adapted to the wants and longings that prevail in summer weather, it is full to the brim of refreshment and interest, and sparkles like cool water from a deep well. Its array of great and familiar names speaks of high quality as well as of variety and attractiveness. Henry W. Longfellow, the foremost of American poets, has in this number a poem of which the form and spirit are alike admirable, and appropriate for St. Nicholas. As a special contribution, it is evidence of the appreciation given to the magazine in the highest circles. Charles Dudley Warner contributes "John's First Party," a story of country life, in the author's own lively vein of gentle humor. Celia Thaxter is represented by some wonderfully sweet and melodious verses, entitled, "Robin's Rain Song." H. H. Diodor, "A Letter about the Toucan," something about Japanese Music," supplementary to Miss Kellogg's sketch, and two poems—a sonnet on "Keats" and "The White and the Red Rose." Other articles in the departments deal with "Blue India China," "Budding Fruit-Trees," "Self-Trimming Collars," "Double Boats," etc., etc.

A NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED ON MOUNT WASHINGTON.—The first number of the daily newspaper, "Among the Clouds," projected by Henry M. Burt, editor of the New England Homestead, to be printed on the summit of Mount Washington, has been issued. This is an eight-page paper, and will be printed during the season. Mr. Burt has a full equipped newspaper office, including a cylinder press. This is the first time that a daily newspaper has been printed in any mountain in this country, if not in the world.

The Nursery for August opens with a picture of a day at the beach, and a story of the day spent there. Buttercup and Daisy, Aunt Mary's Bulfinch, and the funny story of the Drake and the Lobster will please the children. Little Spitfire and our dog Tasso, Corporal Hans drilling his troops, and the boys with the kite will all be read with pleasure. The number closes with a song called Madam Quack.

AN EPISODE.—On Saturday last, just as a train of cars was stopping at the Market street station on the Eastern Railroad, a woman, accompanied by four small children, one of whom she carried in her arms, alighted from a barge at the corner of Market and Murray streets, and made an attempt to reach the shore, which she just as it began to move. In her efforts to get on board, she lifted one child upon the steps of a car, and was making an effort to get on with the others, when a gentleman held her back, and the train moved away, bearing one member of the group, and leaving the rest in a demoralized state, one little girl screaming frantically at the thought of her brother or sister—the case may have been—being carried away. The train was duly signalled, however, and the separated woman re-joined the others. By her efforts as she moved with the train, she averted what might have been a serious accident.

The rapidly increasing crowd to that Mecca of summer pilgrims, the great lake and mountain regions of Maine, will find in this work the information needed to ensure a successful trip. It contains a large and reliable map of the lakes and rivers, and is illustrated with fine views of hotels, camp life and wild scenery. The different routes are fully described, and from it the expense of the trip can be counted close. For hunting and fishing this region is not excelled by any, and for beautiful scenery, pure water, invigorating air, and pleasant climate, it stands unrivaled. In this revised edition many corrections and additions have been made since last year, and several new engravings from photographs taken expressly for it.

FARHAR'S ILLUSTRATED GUIDE TO RICHARDSON AND RANGLAY LAKES. Paper. pp. 150. Price 50 cents.

The rapidly increasing crowd to that Mecca of summer pilgrims, the great lake and mountain regions of Maine, will find in this work the information needed to ensure a successful trip. It contains a large and reliable map of the lakes and rivers, and is illustrated with fine views of hotels, camp life and wild scenery. The different routes are fully described, and from it the expense of the trip can be counted close. For hunting and fishing this region is not excelled by any, and for beautiful scenery, pure water, invigorating air, and pleasant climate, it stands unrivaled. In this revised edition many corrections and additions have been made since last year, and several new engravings from photographs taken expressly for it.

"SWEET FORGET ME NOT."—This is the title of a new and magnificent song with a remarkably pretty waltz chorus, composed by "Bobby Newcomb," of minstrel fame. It is sung by Primrose and West, of Haverly's Minstrels; Delightfully and Hengler, of the "Tony Pastor Troupe;" Adah Richmond, and other first class artists, all over the country. This song will surely be admired by everybody. Price, 40 cents per copy; can be had from any music dealer or from the publisher, F. W. HELMICK, 50 West 4th Street, Cincinnati, O.

RAND'S NEW YORK CITY BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR 1877.—The second volume of this valuable and well-known work, published by the publishers, Messrs. Walter Hough & Co., of 3 Park Place, New York.

No pains or expense has been spared in the production of the present volume, to make it complete and reliable. In typographical appearance and binding, certainly it is a fine specimen of book-making. It contains over one hundred pages more matter than the last year's volume, which has added largely to the cost of the production of the work, and compelled the Publishers to issue heretofore only the full cloth bound edition at One Dollar per copy, upon the receipt of which sum they will forward the work to any address in the United States or Canada, by mail, postage prepaid.

In pursuance of the custom introduced last year by Scribner's Monthly, the August number is issued as a special Midsummer Holiday number. Among the material put forth to vindicate this title are illustrated papers on the following subjects: "North American Grouse," by Charles E. Whitehead; "American Sports," dealing chiefly with Lacrosse, Snow-shoeing and Tobogganing, by Dr. Beers; "Babes in the Wood," an account of a trip through the Maine forests to Canada, in a birch-bark canoe, made by the family of the author, Mrs. Hoyt, who is a daughter of the late Chief-Justice Chase; and a fourth paper on "A Railroad in the Clouds," by Major J. E. Montgomery, describing the highest railway in the world, which, by the way, was built by American enterprise. There is also a horseback review on "The Old Boston Road," by E. S. Nadel (who has just been re-appointed to the place on the American legation at London, which he held under Mr. Motley), and John Burroughs has one of his characteristic talks on "Strawberries," which will doubtless prolong the season of that delightful fruit. Of the noteworthy new contributors, Berthold Auerbach has a story of German peasant life, entitled "Adam and Eve at the Agricultural Fair," with illustrations by Professor Thumann, of the Berlin Academy; Miss Clara Louise Kellogg writes about "Some Japanese Melodies," the scores of which are given, and the author of "Dide" has a three-page poem of "Reflection," about American authors, inscribed to Dr. Holmes. Other stories of a light character are "Smurthers," by Mrs. Burnett, the author of "That Lass o' Lowries," told in Cockney dialect, by the wax-works man; "Swart among the Buckeyes," a study of Ohio village life, by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, and a character-sketch, by Mary E. Wyeth, of "Moses an' Aaron," who it must be told, is one person and not two. Other poems adapted to the season are a "Madrigal," by Edmund Clarence Stedman; "Summer Thoughts," by D. S. Foster; and "Guests," by Celia Thaxter; Bayard Taylor contributes an "Assyrian Night-Song;" and R. H. Stoddard a long poem entitled "Two Kings." The first installment of Miss Trafton's new serial, "His Inheritance," is given in this number. The scene is laid on the south-western frontier twenty-five years ago, and the opening of the story is said to be very attractive. Dr. Holland's "Nicholas Minturn," it is announced, will be completed in the October number. In the Editorial departments, Dr. Holland writes about "More Protestant Vaticanism" and "The Tax for Barbarism," apropos of the war in the East. "The Old Cabinet" has "A Letter about the Toucan," something about Japanese Music," supplementary to Miss Kellogg's sketch, and two poems—a sonnet on "Keats" and "The White and the Red Rose." Other articles in the departments deal with "Blue India China," "Budding Fruit-Trees," "Self-Trimming Collars," "Double Boats," etc., etc.

A NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED ON MOUNT WASHINGTON.—The first number of the daily newspaper, "Among the Clouds," projected by Henry M. Burt, editor of the New England Homestead, to be printed on the summit of Mount Washington, has been issued. This is an eight-page paper, and will be printed during the season. Mr. Burt has a full equipped newspaper office, including a cylinder press. This is the first time that a daily newspaper has been printed in any mountain in this country, if not in the world.

The Nursery for August opens with a picture of a day at the beach, and a story of the day spent there. Buttercup and Daisy, Aunt Mary's Bulfinch, and the funny story of the Drake and the Lobster will please the children. Little Spitfire and our dog Tasso, Corporal Hans drilling his troops, and the boys with the kite will all be read with pleasure. The number closes with a song called Madam Quack.

AN EPISODE.—On Saturday last, just as a train of cars was stopping at the Market street station on the Eastern Railroad, a woman, accompanied by four small children, one of whom she carried in her arms, alighted from a barge at the corner of Market and Murray streets, and made an attempt to reach the shore, which she just as it began to move. In her efforts to get on board, she lifted one child upon the steps of a car, and was making an effort to get on with the others, when a gentleman held her back, and the train moved away, bearing one member of the group, and leaving the rest in a demoralized state, one little girl screaming frantically at the thought of her brother or sister—the case may have been—being carried away. The train was duly signalled, however, and the separated woman re-joined the others. By her efforts as she moved with the train, she averted what might have been a serious accident.

The rapidly increasing crowd to that Mecca of summer pilgrims, the great lake and mountain regions of Maine, will find in this work the information needed to ensure a successful trip. It contains a large and reliable map of the lakes and rivers, and is illustrated with fine views of hotels, camp life and wild scenery. The different routes are fully described, and from it the expense of the trip can be counted close. For hunting and fishing this region is not excelled by any, and for beautiful scenery, pure water, invigorating air, and pleasant climate, it stands unrivaled. In this revised edition many corrections and additions have been made since last year, and several new engravings from photographs taken expressly for it.

"SWEET FORGET ME NOT."—This is the title of a new and magnificent song with a remarkably pretty waltz chorus, composed by "Bobby Newcomb," of minstrel fame. It is sung by Primrose and West, of Haverly's Minstrels; Delightfully and Hengler, of the "Tony Pastor Troupe;" Adah Richmond, and other first class artists, all over the country. This song will surely be admired by everybody. Price, 40 cents per copy; can be had from any music dealer or from the publisher, F. W. HELMICK, 50 West 4th Street, Cincinnati, O.

RAND'S NEW YORK CITY BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR 1877.—The second volume of this valuable and well-known work, published by the publishers, Messrs. Walter Hough & Co., of 3 Park Place, New York.

No pains or expense has been spared in the production of the present volume, to make it complete and reliable. In typographical appearance and binding, certainly it is a fine specimen of book-making. It contains over one hundred pages more matter than the last year's volume, which has added largely to the cost of the production of the work, and compelled the Publishers to issue heretofore only the full cloth bound edition at One Dollar per copy, upon the receipt of which sum they will forward the work to any address in the United States or Canada, by mail, postage prepaid.

In pursuance of the custom introduced last year by Scribner's Monthly, the August number is issued as a special Midsummer Holiday number. Among the material put forth to vindicate this title are illustrated papers on the following subjects: "North American Grouse," by Charles E. Whitehead; "American Sports," dealing chiefly with Lacrosse, Snow-shoeing and Tobogganing, by Dr. Beers; "Babes in the Wood," an account of a trip through the Maine forests to Canada, in a birch-bark canoe, made by the family of the author, Mrs. Hoyt, who is a daughter of the late Chief-Justice Chase; and a fourth paper on "A Railroad in the Clouds," by Major J. E. Montgomery, describing the highest railway in the world, which, by the way, was built by American enterprise. There is also a horseback review on "The Old Boston Road," by E. S. Nadel (who has just been re-appointed to the place on the American legation at London, which he held under Mr. Motley), and John Burroughs has one of his characteristic talks on "Strawberries," which will doubtless prolong the season of that delightful fruit. Of the noteworthy new contributors, Berthold Auerbach has a story of German peasant life, entitled "Adam and Eve at the Agricultural Fair," with illustrations by Professor Thumann, of the Berlin Academy; Miss Clara Louise Kellogg writes about "Some Japanese Melodies," the scores of which are given, and the author of "Dide" has a three-page poem of "Reflection," about American authors, inscribed to Dr. Holmes. Other stories of a light character are "Smurthers," by Mrs. Burnett, the author of "That Lass o' Lowries," told in Cockney dialect, by the wax-works man; "Swart among the Buckeyes," a study of Ohio village life, by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, and a character-sketch, by Mary E. Wyeth, of "Moses an' Aaron," who it must be told, is one person and not two. Other poems adapted to the season are a "Madrigal," by Edmund Clarence Stedman; "Summer Thoughts," by D. S. Foster; and "Guests," by Celia Thaxter; Bayard Taylor contributes an "Assyrian Night-Song;" and R. H. Stoddard a long poem entitled "Two Kings." The first installment of Miss Trafton's new serial, "His Inheritance," is given in this number. The scene is laid on the south-western frontier twenty-five years ago, and the opening of the story is said to be very attractive. Dr. Holland's "Nicholas Minturn," it is announced, will be completed in the October number. In the Editorial departments, Dr. Holland writes about "More Protestant Vaticanism" and "The Tax for Barbarism," apropos of the war in the East. "The Old Cabinet" has "A Letter about the Toucan," something about Japanese Music," supplementary to Miss Kellogg's sketch, and two poems—a sonnet on "Keats" and "The White and the Red Rose." Other articles in the departments deal with "Blue India China," "Budding Fruit-Trees," "Self-Trimming Collars," "Double Boats," etc., etc.

A NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED ON MOUNT WASHINGTON.—The first number of the daily newspaper, "Among the Clouds," projected by Henry M. Burt, editor of the New England Homestead, to be printed on the summit of Mount Washington, has been issued. This is an eight-page paper, and will be printed during the season. Mr. Burt has a full equipped newspaper office, including a cylinder press. This is the first time that a daily newspaper has been printed in any mountain in this country, if not in the world.

The Nursery for August opens with a picture of a day at the beach, and a story of the day spent there. Buttercup and Daisy, Aunt Mary's Bulfinch, and the funny story of the Drake and the Lobster will please the children. Little Spitfire and our dog Tasso, Corporal Hans drilling his troops, and the boys with the kite will all be read with pleasure. The number closes with a song called Madam Quack.

AN EPISODE.—On Saturday last, just as a train of cars was stopping at the Market street station on the Eastern Railroad, a woman, accompanied by four small children, one of whom she carried in her arms, alighted from a barge at the corner of Market and Murray streets, and made an attempt to reach the shore, which she just as it began to move. In her efforts to get on board, she lifted one child upon the steps of a car, and was making an effort to get on with the others, when a gentleman held her back, and the train moved away, bearing one member of the group, and leaving the rest in a demoralized state, one little girl screaming frantically at the thought of her brother or sister—the case may have been—being carried away. The train was duly signalled, however, and the separated woman re-joined the others. By her efforts as she moved with the train, she averted what might have been a serious accident.

The rapidly increasing crowd to that Mecca of summer pilgrims, the great lake and mountain regions of Maine, will find in this work the information needed to ensure a successful trip. It contains a large and reliable map of the lakes and rivers, and is illustrated with fine views of hotels, camp life and wild scenery. The different routes are fully described, and from it the expense of the trip can be counted close. For hunting and fishing this region is not excelled by any, and for beautiful scenery, pure water, invigorating air, and pleasant climate, it stands unrivaled. In this revised edition many corrections and additions have been made since last year, and several new engravings from photographs taken expressly for it.

"SWEET FORGET ME NOT."—This is the title of a new and magnificent song with a remarkably pretty waltz chorus, composed by "Bobby Newcomb," of minstrel fame. It is sung by Primrose and West, of Haverly's Minstrels; Delightfully and Hengler, of the "Tony Pastor Troupe;" Adah Richmond, and other first class artists, all over the country. This song will surely be admired by everybody. Price, 40 cents per copy; can be had from any music dealer or from the publisher, F. W. HELMICK, 50 West 4th Street, Cincinnati, O.

RAND'S NEW YORK CITY BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR 1877.—The second volume of this valuable and well-known work, published by the publishers, Messrs. Walter Hough & Co., of 3 Park Place, New York.

No pains or expense has been spared in the production of the present volume, to make it complete and reliable. In typographical appearance and binding, certainly it is a fine specimen of book-making. It contains over one hundred pages more matter than the last year's volume, which has added largely to the cost of the production of the work, and compelled the Publishers to issue heretofore only the full cloth bound edition at One Dollar per copy, upon the receipt of which sum they will forward the work to any address in the United States or Canada, by mail, postage prepaid.

In pursuance of the custom introduced last year by Scribner's Monthly, the August number is issued as a special Midsummer Holiday number. Among the material put forth to vindicate this title are illustrated papers on the following subjects: "North American Grouse," by Charles E. Whitehead; "American Sports," dealing chiefly with Lacrosse, Snow-shoeing and Tobogganing, by Dr. Beers; "Babes in the Wood," an account of a trip through the Maine forests to Canada, in a birch-bark canoe, made by the family of the author, Mrs. Hoyt, who is a daughter of the late Chief-Justice Chase; and a fourth paper on "A Railroad in the Clouds," by Major J. E. Montgomery, describing the highest railway in the world, which, by the way, was built by American enterprise. There is also a horseback review on "The Old Boston Road," by E. S. Nadel (who has just been re-appointed to the place on the American legation at London, which he held under Mr. Motley), and John Burroughs has one of his characteristic talks on "Strawberries," which will doubtless prolong the season of that delightful fruit. Of the noteworthy new contributors, Berthold Auerbach has a story of German peasant life, entitled "Adam and Eve at the Agricultural Fair," with illustrations by Professor Thumann, of the Berlin Academy; Miss Clara Louise Kellogg writes about "Some Japanese Melodies," the scores of which are given, and the author of "Dide" has a three-page poem of "Reflection," about American authors, inscribed to Dr. Holmes. Other stories of a light character are "Smurthers," by Mrs. Burnett, the author of "That Lass o' Lowries," told in Cockney dialect, by the wax-works man; "Swart among the Buckeyes," a study of Ohio village life, by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, and a character-sketch, by Mary E. Wyeth, of "Moses an' Aaron," who it must be told, is one person and not two. Other poems adapted to the season are a "Madrigal," by Edmund Clarence Stedman; "Summer Thoughts," by D. S. Foster; and "Guests," by Celia Thaxter; Bayard Taylor contributes an "Assyrian Night-Song;" and R. H. Stoddard a long poem entitled "Two Kings." The first installment of Miss Trafton's new serial, "His Inheritance," is given in this number. The scene is laid on the south-western frontier twenty-five years ago, and the opening of the story is said to be very attractive. Dr. Holland's "Nicholas Minturn," it is announced, will be completed in the October number. In the Editorial departments, Dr. Holland writes about "More Protestant Vaticanism" and "The Tax for Barbarism," apropos of the war in the East. "The Old Cabinet" has "A Letter about the Toucan," something about Japanese Music," supplementary to Miss Kellogg's sketch, and two poems—a sonnet on "Keats" and "The White and the Red Rose." Other articles in the departments deal with "Blue India China," "Budding Fruit-Trees," "Self-Trimming Collars," "Double Boats," etc., etc.

A NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED ON MOUNT WASHINGTON.—The first number of the daily newspaper, "Among the Clouds," projected by Henry M. Burt, editor of the New England Homestead, to be printed on the summit of Mount Washington, has been issued. This is an eight-page paper, and will be printed during the season. Mr. Burt has a full equipped newspaper office, including a cylinder press. This is the first time that a daily newspaper has been printed in any mountain in this country, if not in the world.

The Nursery for August opens with a picture of a day at the beach, and a story of the day spent there. Buttercup and Daisy, Aunt Mary's Bulfinch, and the funny story of the Drake and the Lobster will please the children. Little Spitfire and our dog Tasso, Corporal Hans drilling his troops, and the boys with the kite will all be read with pleasure. The number closes with a song called Madam Quack.

AN EPISODE.—On Saturday last, just as a train of cars was stopping at the Market street station on the Eastern Railroad, a woman, accompanied by four small children, one of whom she carried in her arms, alighted from a barge at the corner of Market and Murray streets, and made an attempt to reach the shore, which she just as it began to move. In her efforts to get on board, she lifted one child upon the steps of a car, and was making an effort to get on with the others, when a gentleman held her back, and the train moved away, bearing one member of the group, and leaving the rest in a demoralized state, one little girl screaming frantically at the thought of her brother or sister—the case may have been—being carried away. The train was duly signalled, however, and the separated woman re-joined the others. By her efforts as she moved with the train, she averted what might have been a serious accident.

The rapidly increasing crowd to that Mecca of summer pilgrims, the great lake and mountain regions of Maine, will find in this work the information needed to ensure a successful trip. It contains a large and reliable map of the lakes and rivers, and is illustrated with fine views of hotels, camp life and wild scenery. The different routes are fully described, and from it the expense of the trip can be counted close. For hunting and fishing this region is not excelled by any, and for beautiful scenery, pure water, invigorating air, and pleasant climate, it stands unrivaled. In this revised edition many corrections and additions have been made since last year, and several new engravings from photographs taken expressly for it.

"SWEET FORGET ME NOT."—This is the title of a new and magnificent song with a remarkably pretty waltz chorus, composed by "Bobby Newcomb," of minstrel fame. It is sung by Primrose and West, of Haverly's Minstrels; Delightfully and Hengler, of the "Tony Pastor Troupe;" Adah Richmond, and other first class artists, all over the country. This song will surely be admired by everybody. Price, 40 cents per copy; can be had from any music dealer or from the publisher, F. W. HELMICK, 50 West 4th Street, Cincinnati, O.

RAND'S NEW YORK CITY BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR 1877.—The second volume of this valuable and well-known work, published by the publishers, Messrs. Walter Hough & Co., of 3 Park Place, New York.

No pains or expense has been spared in the production of the present volume, to make it complete and reliable. In typographical appearance and binding, certainly it is a fine specimen of book-making. It contains over one hundred pages more matter than the last year's volume, which has added largely to the cost of the production of the work, and compelled the Publishers to issue heretofore only the full cloth bound edition at One Dollar per copy, upon the receipt of which sum they will forward the work to any address in the United States or Canada, by mail, postage prepaid.

In pursuance of the custom introduced last year by Scribner's Monthly, the August number is issued as a special Midsummer Holiday number. Among the material put forth to vindicate this title are illustrated papers on the following subjects: "North American Grouse," by Charles E. Whitehead; "American Sports," dealing chiefly with Lacrosse, Snow-shoeing and Tobogganing, by Dr. Beers; "Babes in the Wood," an account of a trip through the Maine forests to Canada, in a birch-bark canoe, made by the family of the author, Mrs. Hoyt, who is a daughter of the late Chief-Justice Chase; and a fourth paper on "A Railroad in the Clouds," by Major J. E. Montgomery, describing the highest railway in the world, which, by the way, was built by American enterprise. There is also

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

359.

PRIZE CHARADE.

There was an old whale of Burlington,
Who found a huge second in a bun;

It crept into his first,

Which made things the worst,

And caused him to yell and to run.

A fine stereoscopic view for the first correct answer.

Danbury, Conn.

NUTMEG.

360.

AMPUTATIONS.

Behead and curtail a journey and leave abroad.

A room, and leave a girl's name.

To swarm, and leave a rank.

An animal, and leave to rest.

A color, and leave to strike.

Wilmington. OLD HUNDRED.

361.

CHARADE.

My first is a weapon; my second is a plant; my whole is a highly explosive substance.

Burlington, Mass.

G. OLOGY.

362.

CROSS WORD ENIGMA.

In pie, not in cake,

In fire, not in bake,

In pea, not in onion,

In corn, also in bunion,

In base, not in balls,

In theatre, not in hall.

Now if you look just right,

A bird will appear in sight.

Burlington, Mass.

GEO. G. RAPHY.

363.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

My 4, 5, 3 a fish.

My 6, 2, 1 an esculent root.

My whole an animal.

Lynn, Mass.

GEO. G. RAPHY.

364.

CROSS SQUARE WORD DIAMOND.

A consonant; a vowel; a cloth; three vowels; an insect; three vowels; a viscer; a vowel; a consonant.

Danbury, Conn.

VIOLA VERNE.

365.

WORD SQUARE.

A fruit; a bird; an Austrian town; a girl's name; a boy's name.

Winchester, Mass.

WINEGAR.

366.

DOUBLE ACROSTIC AND DOUBLE WORDS SQUARE.

Across: A machine; a measurement; an animal.

Down: A fish; a masculine name; gain.

Primals and finals name a gem.

Danbury, Conn.

NUTMEG.

367.

REVERSED RHOMBOID.

Across: A bird; a money of account; an animal; a staff; language.

Down: A consonant; a verb; a poad; a wig; a piece of timber fitting into another; a token; misery; a prefix; a consonant.

Woburn.

ANNA GRAM.

ANSWERS.

352.

C A R P

T F A L

D R O P

E P I C

353.

S a m u e l J o n e s T i l d e n .

354.

C

B A R

C U R E S

C A R A P O P

M O R A T E L I C

S E W E T E N O T A P

L G R I S E R E S I N E W

T I N C E D E W E D A W

T T T L L

355.

Behold the book whose leaves display, Jesus, the life, the truth, the way; Read it with diligence and prayer, Search it and you will find Him there.

356.

Prissage.

357.

Composition.

358.

L

S A P

M A B E L

T O N

R

PRIZES.

Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Boston Weekly Globe for second complete list.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

EDITOR'S DESK.

Accepted contributions have been received from LORINE and NUTMEG.

OLD HUNDRED. Yours nearly finished, please replenish.

R. E. PORTER. A contribution from you will be acceptable.

THE VALUE OF A WIFE.—"How do you get along?" said a wife to her husband, in the midst of the panic. "Oh, I shall weather the storm, but I wish I had a few hundred dollars more." "Don't you wish you had married a rich wife?" said she in a teasing way; then going to her room, she returned with rather more than the amount required in United States bonds. "Why, where in the world do you get this?" said the husband. "Well, my dear, you went to a champagne supper, seven years ago, and on your return, finding navigation around the room rather difficult, deposited hat, shoes, gloves and a large roll of bank bills on the carpet. I put the money away and waited three weeks for you to inquire if I had seen it, when finding that you were ashamed to do so, I invested it, and here you have it." The wife is well; we don't know what it is, unless that if you will get drunk and lose your money, do it at home under the eye of your wife.

Adam and Eve, we suppose, were the first to start "turning over new leaves." They did it to keep up the fashion.

HOW TO SAVE PERSONS FROM DROWNING.—As the season is upon us for drowning accidents from bathing, falling overboard, and being capsized in boats, we deem the following from St. Nicholas for July, to be of special importance, and command it to the careful attention of our readers:

The true plan to follow, when safety is the call, is to swim with everything below the chin well down under water, the head well back and resting centrally on the floating power of the lungs. But what will you do when your companion is tired out and drowning? That depends. If he is cool and reliable, get him front of him, let him place his hands on your hips (not your shoulders) and you can carry him quite a distance. That supposes that both parties, rescued and rescuer, understand fair play. The weaker party is the one that ought to drown, if he shows any disposition to drown his friend by a miserable, cowardly death-clutch at the only floating thing around him. In the case of the death-clutch, go to the bottom with your man and leave him there. There may be an unpleasant wrestle, but the real drowning man is ready to quit his prey when he strikes bottom. The better man has his right to come to the surface and swim ashore. But in a considerable swimming experience, and some rescues, there comes one absolute rule: Never face a drowning man. He welcomes rescue so eagerly that he will hug you around the neck and take you down. The safest and best thing to do is to get behind him, and unless you are left-handed, put your left hand under his right arm-pit. The litt you give him will be enough in ordinary water. He can be coaxed to help himself, and if he is a reasonable being you can bring him to shore. If he is insane with fright, recollect that you are to be both prudent and heroic. Get away from him, clutch his ankle with one hand, and tow him ashore. If the bank is near, he is not likely to drown on the way. If he does, it is not your fault. But a brave swimmer is master of his element.

BE BRAVE.—Young man, be brave! Many people imagine that courage is confined to the field of battle. There could be no greater mistake. Even contentions with men—unavoidable contentions, are not by any means limited to the public battle-fields. And there are other struggles in private life—struggles, it may be with habits or appetites or passions—all of which require as much of courage, and more of perseverance than the brief, exciting encounter of battle. Enough to struggle against, enough to overcome, enough to contend with, lies in the way of every young man. It may be kind of difficulty or it may be another, but plenty of difficulty of some kind every man just starting in life may be sure that he will find. And the essential thing about it to him is whether he will have the courage to look all difficulties resolutely in the face to meet it bravely and to persevere until he conquers; in other words, whether he will be a coward and succumb, or be what the Indians significantly name a "brave." He who never falters, no matter how adverse the circumstances, always enjoys within himself the consciousness of a perpetual spiritual triumph, of which nothing can deprive him.—Universal Magazine.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS consist of silver and zinc plates, carefully attached together and imbedded in a medicated Porous Plaster. (See cut.) When the plaster is placed upon the skin, the zinc plate is the most convenient and convenient as with the ordinary plaster—this is by means of the heat of the hand—the natural warmth of the body causing the zinc to give out a current of electricity so gentle that it is scarcely possible to feel it otherwise than by the soothing and grateful warmth produced, yet so perfectly that it will not be noticed by the sensitive skin. The plaster is applied to the skin, and the electric current, which is a powerful antiseptic, removes sores, lassitude, and rheumatism, and cures all sorts of skin diseases, and cures every other known remedy has failed.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents. Sent by mail on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1.25 for six, $5.00 for twelve, carefully wrapped and warranted, by WEEKS & POTTER, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER, for the removal of lassitude, rheumatism, and the languor of the skin, liver, spleen, bowels, bladder, heart, and muscles, is equal to an army of doctors and acres of plants and shrubs.—The secret of the plaster is the zinc, which is imbedded in the plaster, and paralyzes and vivifies the weak and paralyzed muscles and vigor to the greatest and soothed and soothed that once used in the above ailments every expert application, and every other known remedy, will be superseded. Even in paralysis, epilepsy or fits, and nervous maladies, this plaster, after a few applications, soon restores the natural functions of the body, and cures every disease.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER, for the removal of lassitude, rheumatism, and the languor of the skin, liver, spleen, bowels, bladder, heart, and muscles, is equal to an army of doctors and acres of plants and shrubs.—The secret of the plaster is the zinc, which is imbedded in the plaster, and paralyzes and vivifies the weak and paralyzed muscles and vigor to the greatest and soothed and soothed that once used in the above ailments every expert application, and every other known remedy, will be superseded. Even in paralysis, epilepsy or fits, and nervous maladies, this plaster, after a few applications, soon restores the natural functions of the body, and cures every disease.

CHIRLIE J. JONES, (of the firm of Kilborn Whitman & Co.)

34

Canal and 33 Merrimac streets

BOSTON.

Solicits orders from Woburn parties, and is prepared to show a full line of

PARLOR FURNITURE.

Also, a full assortment of CHAIRS.

MARBLE AND WOOD TOP TABLES.

Also, a full assortment of CHAMBER FURNITURE,

Side Boards, Hat Trees, &amp;c.

GREAT REDUCTION IN RATES.

You can now send a

TELEGRAM of Ten Words for 25 Cents,

SELLING AT

Lowest CASH Prices!

AT—

HORTON'S

Woburn Bookstore.

REMOVAL.

Mrs. C. M. Allen

HAS REMOVED HER

Milinery Store,

TO—

123 Main Street, Allen's Block.

Where she will be pleased to receive her old customers and all who desire good work in her line at prices to suit the times.

Tribulations of a Country Editor.—If we published jokes, people say we are rat-tled-headed. If we printed jokes they say we are an old fossil. If we give original matter they blame us for not giving selections. If we publish selections, folks say we are lazy for not writing something they have not read in some other paper. If we give complimentary notices, we are censured for being partial. If we do not give complimentary notices, folks will say we are jealous. If we do not cater to the wishes of the ladies the paper is not fit to tie up a parcel or make a bustle. If we remain in our office and attend to our business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with our fellows. If we go out they say we never attend to our business. If we wear poor clothes they say business is bad. If we wear good clothes, they say we never paid for them. Now what are we to do?—Hudson (Wis.) Republican.

When beefsteak gets up to 50 or 60 cents a pound, people will begin to think this war in Europe is a big thing.

PENSIONS no matter how slightly disabled, increase. Pensions now paid. Ad

T. McMICHAEL, Attorney, 701 Samson Street,

95 PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Estimates promptly furnished free of charge.

PICKS! PICKS!

Large Arrival

Spring Styles

OP—

73

HOUSE PAPER

SELLING AT

True Blue

REAL INDIGO

Made soluble by Patent Process.

Packed in Patent ready-made

BAGS and BOXES.

The only

"True Blue"

for the Laundry.

TRY IT.

S.M. Bixby &amp; Co. 173 &amp; 175 Washington St. N.Y.

PRICE, 10 CTS.

For Sale by A. Ellis, Woburn.

66

WOOLEN CARPETS.

As low

WOBURN JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

NO. 30.

Florists.

S. W. Tiomby & Sons,
FLORISTS,
161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOOD-MAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P.M. 14

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
7 Court Sq., Boston | 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 P.M., 6 P.M., 9 A. M.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18
Room 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canadas.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST.
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 13

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—Husk's Coal Office, Winchester.
Estates settled and laid out to the best advantage.
Surveyed and graded.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS.
Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL OF FACT, Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Offic: 89 Court Stit, Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 164 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.
JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence, No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.
ESTABLISHED 1855.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.
Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving, Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice. 37

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.
All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
STEAM ENGINES,
Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29
130 MAIN STREET.

Hotel & Restaurants.
Central House,
MAIN STREET, WOBURN,
LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light and airy rooms, and a commodious dining Hall and everything required by the traveling public. Boards will also find good accommodations. Special attention given to transient parties. Hacks connect with all trains. 56

Business Cards.

JOHN BRYANT,
PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,
PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass. 33

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Satins cleansed.

WILLY STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Ilse House. 84

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,
TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR,

WOBUURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 130 Main street, promptly attended to. 85

Has Control of all Bill Boards in town. 86

Order by mail promptly at 36

16

GEO. W. NORRIS,

COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,

OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON.

Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho Street.

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

55 So. Market, cor. Commercial St., BOSTON. 86

Cutting, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.

Residence: Washington Street, Winchester.

JOHN O. SLYCLER,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of Jobbing

promptly attended to. 20

Residence, cor. Main and Mann Streets, Woburn.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canadas.

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST.

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor.

Office—Husk's Coal Office, Winchester.

Estates settled and laid out to the best advantage.

Surveyed and graded.

All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 21

WOBUURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE

Livery, Hack & Boarding

STABLE,

212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

G. F. JONES, 22 Proprietor.

E. K. WILLOUGHBY,

House and Job Carpenter,

WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

23

Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.

24

WILLIAM SLATER,

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE

SIGN PAINTER,

EVERETT ST., - Woburn, 25

M. ELLIS & CO.

BUILDING MOVERS

—AND— 26

CONTRACTORS.

WINN STREET, WOBURN.

Concrete.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES.

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at the low price of 85 cents per yard.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE, No. 130 Main Street. 30

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

Offic: 89 Court Stit, Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 164 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27

Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,

desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence, No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1855.

Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving, Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice. 37

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,

MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light and airy rooms, and a commodious dining Hall and everything required by the traveling public. Boards will also find good accommodations. Special attention given to transient parties. Hacks connect with all trains. 56

WOBUURN, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1877.

Poetical Selection.

SUMMER'S GOING.

Leaves are shrinking on the trees,

Where the nests are hidden;

The birds are gone, the bees,

As to garden forbidden;

There's the silk of corn that shows

Faded tangles blousing;

So that everybody knows,

Darling, summer's going.

There's the mist that haunts the night

Into morning sailing,

Leaving fliny webs of light

On the grasses trailing;

There's the fierce red sun that glows,

Through the vapor showing;

So that everybody knows,

Darling, summer's going.

There are insects' wings that gleam;

Child, for vanished roses,

For each season going by,

Something sweet discloses;

And if in your heart has grown

Truth to fair blowing,

Summer will be your own,

Spite of summer's going.

It was

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance.
Single copies, 5 cents.
Reading notices, 25 cents a line. Special notices, 50 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line.
The figures printed with the subscribers' names on the show to what time the subscription is paid.
If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
Page Col. No.
Administrator's Notice, 3 2 9
Fonda, 3 2 1
John G. Maguire, 3 2 1
John P. Fernald, 3 3 1
Orga Matine, 3 2 8
Propane Notice, 3 2 8

THE STRIKES.

The topic of interest the past week has been the great strike, or perhaps more properly the strikes, for they have run all over the country like an epidemic, breaking out in localities quite remote from each other, and for causes not always similar. The beginning of the strike on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad had a semblance of right for it, for the men already poorly paid, were to be subjected to a reduction, and rather than submit to that they quit work. Up to this point they acted properly, for labor is a commodity, and if the purchaser will not pay a fair price, the owner can withdraw from the trade. There is no law compelling one man to work for another against his will, and none to compel a man to hire another against his will. The agitators call these sentiments platitudes, and think that a sufficient answer; but the facts remain the same, and in cooler moments even they will admit their force. The men showed a proper spirit in refusing to submit to the reduction, but they were lacking in wisdom that they did not reflect that labor such as theirs was within the ability of almost any one possessed of sufficient muscle, and thousands of enforced idlers, men who were obliged to beg because they could not obtain work, stood ready to take their places. But the strikers determined that no one should fill their places; they said, We will do this work at our own price, and no one shall interfere. Here they took their first wrong step, and having taken that the others were easy. Enforcing their law on those who would gladly fill their places, collisions occurred, passions were aroused, they were joined by the idle and irresponsible, always glad of an opportunity to vent their spite on whatever is peaceful or civil, and fire and murder soon followed. The acts of the strikers the past week have placed them entirely outside of sympathy. Without caring for the consequences they have precipitated upon the country disaster and death, which is little short of the misfortunes of actual war. The travel of the country has been impeded, the regularity of the mails has been disturbed, and the freight business paralyzed, and all for what? That a few men should be able to wreak their vengeance on those whom they unwisely consider their oppressors. The foolishness of the whole business is so apparent, that the wonder is how men who have sense enough to work at all can ever be drawn into such excesses. Take the case of Pittsburgh. The sympathies of the people seem to have been with the strikers last Sunday morning, and so long as railroad property was being destroyed, they regarded the spectacle in the light of an entertainment, a sort of daylight fireworks display, but when the fire caught their dwellings they were shocked at once, and tried to stop the flames. And yet there must have been hundreds of men on that hillside, who knew that every dollar's worth of railroad property they destroyed they themselves would have to pay for out of their county taxes.

The loss of life has been terrible. It was all right for the mob to stone and club the soldiers, and occasionally fire a pistol shot, and even the policemen attacked those who had come to aid them to keep the peace of the city, but when the soldiers opened fire they saw their great mistake. The soldiers delayed their work too long. There would have been less destruction of life and property had they been led by men who meant business. What is true of Pittsburgh is true of Reading, of Buffalo, and of Chicago. In Philadelphia the police took control, and stopped the riots before they began. In New York the experience of former years led the authorities to make such preparations that the Internationals when they met in Tompkins Square, saw that anything more than talk would not be safe. In Boston, the crowd at the Providence depot remembered Cooper Street, and kept its temper. And so wherever the authorities were ready, the mob hesitated.

And what have the strikers gained? They have gained increased taxes wherever they are liable to be taxed. They have lost places they will never regain. They have increased the price of provisions so that the cost of living will be heavier, and they have brought misery on themselves in many cases, and on others who were innocent. They have aroused suspicion of themselves which will require time to remove, and all the destruction which they have done, and the losses they have indirectly caused, will directly or indirectly act upon themselves. The stock in Pennsylvania railroads is largely owned by people of small means, who seek that form of investment for their little earnings to a greater extent than is common in the east, and these people will suffer on account of the action of those who thought they were injuring only the wealthy. The labor question is an intricate one, and not to be settled by the snap of a pistol or the stroke of a match. As in the case of warfare, when the combatants have exhausted their patience or their resources, resort is had to arbitration, a means of settlement which was at hand before hostilities commenced, but which the contestants were too hot to employ. In the advancement of civilization, however, arbitration is becoming very desirable thing for every one who has writing to do. All sizes are made, and all will be found satisfactory. C. E. Cooper has them for sale.

POLICE COURT.—Jos. T. Prescott, drunk, $5 and costs. Thomas Stephenson, drunk, $3 and costs. Thomas Connolly, drunk, $3 and costs. Thomas H. Harris, drunk, $3 and costs. John Morrison, drunk, $5 and costs; for assaults on Officers Ramsdell and McHugh, $15 and costs, and recognized in the sum of $100 to keep the peace; committed for non-payment.

NEW LAW OFFICE.—John G. Maguire, Esq., whose card appears to-day, paper, has opened a law office at 192 Main Street. Mr. Maguire comes highly recommended from the town where he is well known, and will no doubt command himself to our citizens who may be in want of legal aid. He is at his office throughout the day and evening, and will devote himself entirely to business in Woburn and vicinity.

DR. J. A. FINCH, late of Rutland, Vt., has established himself at the Central House as a specialist for the treatment of dyspepsia and hemorrhoids. He comes well recommended, and all who are afflicted with these diseases will do well to give him a call.

LAVA PEN.—The lava pen made by Kansell & Kansell is non-corroding, and really a very desirable thing for every one who has writing to do. All sizes are made, and all will be found satisfactory. C. E. Cooper has them for sale.

RUNAWAY.—A horse attached to a dump cart, belonging to Walter Bates, ran away Thursday afternoon, and finally brought up in the soft ground in the rear of Whitcher's Lumber yard without serious damage.

W. M. P.—The Phalanx have decided to parade in white pants this season. They have also adopted a new shako with the English visor.

Three thousand pounds of coffee sold at Smith's since Jan. 1st, 1877.

OFF THE TRACK.—The locomotive Pawtucket with the morning freight, climbed the frog at the junction of the main and Woburn branch tracks, at Winchester on Tuesday, and leaving the rail, ran on the sleepers about thirty rods before it was stopped. It took about an hour to get righted. There were seventy-five freight cars in the train, which was being pushed up by the Pawtucket and Milo. The Pawtucket alone got off. The Eagle came up with 25 ice cars and helped push up the grade, and the strange sight was witnessed of three engines pushing 75 and pulling 25 cars. The 10.15 train to Boston did not go, but a car was sent down to Winchester at 11.15, and returned with the passengers from Boston. No damage was done except to a few sleepers, and the 11.35 train went as usual.

SUNDAY EXCITEMENTS.—Last Sunday morning the attention of church goers was attracted to a man on top of the Orthodox steeple, who had climbed to that lofty height (195.31 feet above the foundation) and was calmly taking observations while other people were going to church. The Repairs Committee were much annoyed, having requested the police to arrest any unauthorized person found going up the steeple, and the man paying no attention to their calls or signals, they suspected that he meant mischief, and sent for the police. Before the officers had arrived, however, they had gone down as far as the cock loft of the steeple, and finding that he was a well disposed man, who had thoughtlessly gone up, he was discharged with an admonition not to attempt it again. Rumor had it that the man was locked up, but such was not the case.

In the afternoon, John Morrison was found drunk on Buckman street, and ordered home by Officer McHugh. The man refused and continuing noisy and insulting, McHugh arrested him and started up town. The man fought desperately, and officer John Murphy went to McHugh's assistance, soon followed by Constable Ramsdell, and the officers with the aid of a fourth man had hard work to get their man to the lock up. Although his hands were secured he assaulted the officers with his head and feet quite severely. A large crowd followed, encouraging Morrison and threatening the officers, but the latter secured their man.

THE RIFLE.—The third competition for Sharps' long-range rifle, distance 200 yards, and for the Ballard mid-range rifle, distance 800, 900 and 1000 yards, occurred at the Walnut Hill Range Thursday. It will be remembered that Mr. John A. Lowell won the rifle of the long-range contest twice at the last competition, and that the 200 yards range rifle was won respectively by Messrs. Rabbeth and Lowell. Mr. Jackson and Mr. Kirkwood won the honors Thursday, one and the other winning the Ballard rifle once. Mr. Jackson's shooting was admirable, particularly in the long-range competition. Early in the afternoon a breeze made good shooting rather difficult, but, nevertheless, most of the competitors endeavored to do their best. The 800 and 900 yards' competition was finished about 1 o'clock, the long-range of 1000 yards immediately following. This trial was finished shortly after 4 o'clock, the short-range match of 200 yards following. This was concluded about 5 o'clock.

BURNHAM WARDWELL.—Last Sunday afternoon a very good audience gathered in the Congregational vestry to listen to Mr. Mills, the Baptist Church presided. Mr. Wardwell paid a very flattering compliment to the Woburn Almshouse, saying that of all he had visited in the State, no one exceeded it in neatness and general appearance.

THE LIBRARY.—The walls are up to the first floor, and a course of brown stone has been started on the west end. The floor timbers are in the library, and on the museum, with a temporary boarding. A steam engine is on the library door for use in hoisting. The work is progressing very rapidly, though it has had a little check owing to the railroad strike the past week.

COMPRESSED YEAST.—The women folks say that the compressed yeast put up by the Mt. Vernon Compressed Yeast Company, is the best thing of the kind they ever used. Mr. W. H. Pattee, the well known Arlington baker, is introducing it in this vicinity.

SENTENCED.—Hutchinson, the man who stole the harnesses from A. V. Haynes, got eighteen months in the House of Correction.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

SENTENCED.—Hutchinson, the man who stole the harnesses from A. V. Haynes, got eighteen months in the House of Correction. Leighton, who embezzled funds of C. H. Pollard & Co., got one year.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

SENTENCED.—Hutchinson, the man who stole the harnesses from A. V. Haynes, got eighteen months in the House of Correction.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

ROBBERY.—The residence of Dr. Stephen Cutter, in Lowell, was entered by burglars, Wednesday night, and a dozen silver teaspoons and two silver dessert spoons were stolen.

</div

perils of that scene of destruction. The work is written in school-girl style, and appears a very fair and truthful history of the workings of the institution and the cause which led to its destruction, by a mob most of whom without any particular sectarian bigotry, were led to the rash act by the sympathy which reports of cruelty and tyranny always excite whether true or false.

No. 3 of "Ditson's Musical Monthly" is at hand. This magazine takes the place of the one published for a number of years by J. L. Peters. The present publishers, having large numbers of valuable copyrights, will undoubtedly furnish monthly a rich feast to subscribers and purchasers. The 20 music pages are, in No. 3, occupied by: "The Old Gate on the Hill," by Will S. Hays, in his best style. Sells for 35 cts.; "Down among the Daisies," by C. H. Whiting. A charming song; sells for 30 cts.; "My Father's House," by F. Gumbert. A beautiful German Gem about the "Vatchaus," sells for 30 cts. "Old Massa's Dead," by J. E. Stewart. In popular minstrel style. Sells for 30 cts. "The Flash," Galop de Concert, by Carl Mora, perfectly blazes with brightness; sells for 50 cts. "Time's Up Quickestop," by Kinke. Easy and pleasing. Sells for 40 cts. But these fine pieces are all included in this number of the Musical Monthly, which sells for 25 cents. Order of any news dealer.

PHOTOGRAPHIC NEWS.—The second volume of Munson's Photographic News commences with the July number. It comes enlarged from an eight to a sixteen page, with cover, and will be issued monthly. Every student of the art of photography, and we are glad to know that the number of them is increasing, ought to see this monthly publication of Mr. Munson's. The publisher announces a phrase book in course of preparation. James E. Munson, publisher, 261 Broadway, N. Y.

WHOSE LOSS IS IT?—A Pittsburg dispatch announced that the rioters took good care not to desecrate private property, and fraud other wise like sportsmen do. The Pittsburg reader is rather credulous about the conscientious scruples of a reckless mob which only destroyed the property of the railroad corporations to "get even with them." But now comes the question: Who is to bear this loss? The mad rioters were sure that it would fall upon the companies. It will not. It will fall upon the property owners and the people of Pittsburg in that city who pay poll taxes. Tammany's draft will cost the tax-payers of New York City $1,500,000 for buildings and property destroyed. The states of nearly every State will be taxed over every building or other real or personal property shall be destroyed or injured in consequence of any mob or riot, the city or county in which such property is situated shall be liable therefor. This is but just. Property is taxed to support a government which guarantees safety from violence. When such government fails to do so, it should pay the damages on the same principle that insurance companies pay the losses of their policy holders.

At least $4,000,000 of the property of the railroad was destroyed or stolen, and every dollar of that sum will fall upon a city unable to bear it. The loss is one-fourth of the valuation of the city, and to pay it will require a levy of $30 per head upon its entire population. To pay the interest on this property wantonly destroyed will require a tax equal to $2 a year on every inhabitant. Every railroad in the country might be destroyed without loss to the company. Such destruction would practically amount to the whole of the property of the railroads of which they run. Messrs. Green, Scott and Vanderbilt can calmly look on while their property is burned by mobs led by communistic leaders and trades union agitators. They will lose their current business while a tax-burdened people will pay for their property destroyed.

Nominally this tax is assessed upon the property owner, but in the end the burden will fall upon the masses who rent houses, occupy stores, or purchase food and raiment in any form. The tax will be high, and rents go together, and are paid by the same occupants. The man who buys his daily labor cannot escape it. It touches him in every purchase he makes as a consumer. In short, that sort of striking which culminates in the destruction of property ends in burdening industry and in a further levy upon the slender incomes of the laboring classes.

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC IN A WHALE-BOAT.—The arrival of Captain Crapo and wife in the whaleboat "New Bedford" at Penzance, after an Atlantic voyage of forty days, has already been chronicled. The undertaking was certainly most hazardous. The boat is a little more than nineteen feet and a half long, and six feet and a half wide, built with more "sheer" than a whaleboat, and deeper than most boats of her class. Her forecastle is eighteen feet from the deck, and her mainmast seventeen feet high. She has a fore sail, mainsail, and a square sail and staysail to take advantage of light winds. Of course the little vessel was made in the most substantial manner, so as to ride out the rough seas. There are no bulwarks, and only life lines were rigged, and in the Atlantic voyage the water often came over the deck. Captain Crapo steered, sitting in the bows, and the wife protected by a canvas boat in rough weather. Of course when the sea was very high, the boat was allowed to lay to with a drag. Three heavy gales were experienced during the passage, and for fifteen days the two passengers were compelled to wait for the violence of the storm to subside. A good deal of their clothing was washed overboard, and much discomfort was endured, but the little craft rode out the storms nobly. Several times the venturesome captain and his wife were spoken of as having agreed to increase additional to the provisions of the New Bedford, all such meetings. Captain Crapo kept his longitude regularly by dead reckoning, and did not go far out of the course of the transatlantic steamers. His wife was as enthusiastic as himself in carrying out the project and in the latter part of the voyage did much to help the Captain, whose left hand had become almost useless from constant steering. At 11 o'clock Saturday night, the coast of Cornwall was seen by the weary voyagers, and the adventurous Captain and his equally daring wife landed at Penzance on Sunday morning. Wind and waves forcing them proposed to proceed to London Wednesday, and doubtless "the merry mariners of England" will give them a hearty welcome to the great metropolis.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

TO LET.—On Green St., a dwelling-house, six rooms, perfect order, reasonable rent. Enquiry of S. H. COCHRAN, cor. Green and Mt Pleasant Streets. Woburn, July 24th, 1877.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the actual world and its transpiring events. Urge her to read newspapers, particularly family papers, for their character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance; but the past is dead—we have nothing to do with it. Let her have an intelligent idea of the mental, moral and religious improvement of our time. Let the gilded annuals and poems on the centre table be covered with daily and weekly journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the news papers.

LAIDES SHOULD READ NEWSPAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a lady's time and attention devoted only to

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

368.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

The answer contains 8 letters and names an animal.

The 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 is an animal.

The 6, 7, 8 is an animal.

Danbury, Conn. NUTMEG.

369.

HOUR GLASS.

Part of a flower; to address with kindness; a verb; five; a small part; to prolong; frightful to the sight. Centrals, slavish.

Harwichport, Mass. W. L. K.

370.

CHARADE.

When clover fields are rich with bloom, I hasten to sip their nectar sweet; And when the summer harvest comes, I leave my home, and nimily greet The white-sleeved mowers as they go, Tossing the green grass to and fro.

Now read me backwards, and you'll find A precept for all human kind, Which, if obeyed, brings exaltation To all of every rank and station. Winchester, Mass. WINEGAR.

371.

DECAPITATION.

If a certain animal you behead, An Eastern custom you'll have instead. Danbury, Conn. HARRY A. MILTON.

372.

TRIPLE ACROSTIC.

A fish; a girl's name; a mechanical contrivance; an officer; to sprinkle; a measure. Primals: A group of insects. Finals: Loss. Centrals: An animal. Woburn. ANNA GRAM.

373.

CHARADE.

When from the Lord's creative hand, The sphere rolled into space, My first then took up its stand, Just in the central place.

And when upon his third command, The land rose from the sea; My second, then, by zephyr fanned, Adorned the verdant lea.

374.

DOUBLE DIAGONALS.

Down: A male name; a male name; a male name; a bird; a male name. Diagonals, read down: a bird; an animal. Lynn, Mass. LIV. OAK.

375.

DROP LETTER RHOMBOID.

—E—E
—E—E
—E—E
—E—E

Woburn, Mass. BROWNE.

376.

REVERSIBLE TRIPLE ACROSTIC. One that loses; extraordinary; three vowels in beautiful; a bird.

Primals: Down, a plant. Up, to navigate. Centrals: Down, to bespeak. Up, animals. Finals: Down, a bird. Up, a falifer. Burlington, Mass. MOLE.

ANSWERS.

359.

Book-worm.

360.

R—O U T—E
E—L L A—R
C—R O W—D
W—E A S—E
W—H I T—E

361.

Gun-cotton.

362.

Planet.

363.

M A R G A Y

364.

P

O

S A T I N

A A A

P O T A T O B U G

T O O

N A B O B

U

G

365.

P E A C H

E A G L E

A G R A M

C L A R A

H E M A N

366.

G I N

A R E

R A T

367.

T O P E T

T E M I N

B A T O N

L E D E N

PRIZES.

Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Boston Weekly Globe for second complete list.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

A SCOTCH CLERGYMAN was seen by a neighbor trudging homeward on Monday morning with a stout cod he had just bought, and was accosted with, "Mr. Duncan, did you know that fish was caught on Sunday?" The minister, with his characteristic blunt manner, said, "Well, well, the fish is not to blame for that, my man."

A CARD.—A young lawyer of this city dropped down to his office accidentally today, and found on a card pinned to his door, probably by some impatient client who had previously failed to find him in these words: "Why do you squander your money in rent?"

ORIGIN OF THE POSTAGE STAMP.—The postage stamp was born in London on the tenth of January, 1840, and England employed it alone for ten years. It was a curious incident that gave rise to the idea of postage stamps. A traveller was crossing, about forty years ago, a district in the north of England. He arrived at the door of an inn where a postman had stopped to deliver a letter. A young girl came out to receive it; she turned it over and over in her hand, and asked the price of the postage. This was a large sum, and evidently the girl was poor, for the postman demanded a shilling. She sighed sadly, and said the letter was from her brother, but that she had no money, and so she returned it to the postman. The traveller was a man who rambled about the earth for instruction and observation. Having a good heart, he offered to pay the postage of the letter, and in spite of the resistance of the young girl he paid the shilling. This resistance made him reflect. Scarce had the postman turned his back when the young inn-keeper's daughter confessed that it was a trick between her and her brother. Some signs marked on the envelope had told her all she wanted to know, but the letter contained no writing.

"We are both so poor," she added, "that we invented this mode of corresponding without paying for our letters." The traveller, continuing his road, asked himself if a system giving place to such frauds was not a vicious one.

The sun had not set before Mr. Rowland Hill (that was the name of the traveller) had planned to organize the postal service upon a new basis. He said that in England where family ties are strong, and where the members often live apart,—where, too, the spirit of commerce knows no limits, the correspondence was only limited by the cost of the post; and that by lowering this barrier, a great service would be rendered to society without hurting the resources of the treasury. These views were agreed to by the English government, and on the 10th of January, 1840, not more than a penny was paid for letters which circulated over the whole extent of the British Isles. This bold scheme soon surpassed the hopes of the legislators. Ten years later, in 1850, the number of letters increased from 1,500,000 to 7,239,962. Mr. Rowland Hill occupied in England the post of secretary to the postmaster-general.

With its Millions of Pores, It is the great purifier of the body. Draw the impurities and poisons from the Lungs, Liver, Spleen, Bowels, Bladder, Heart, and Muscles through the skin with COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS, and health and happiness are yours. They are the greatest medical discovery of the century, and utterly surpass all other plasters.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS consist of silver and zinc plates, carefully selected and imbedded in a medicated Porous Plaster. (See cut.) When the plaster is placed upon the affected part, which can be done as quickly and conveniently as any other plaster, the heat that is by mere pressure of the hand,—the natural warmth and moisture of the skin causes the plasters to become warm, and the electric current is scarcely possible to feel it otherwise than by the soothing and grateful warmth produced, yet so penetrating as to stop the most violent pains. The most effective way to remove septic lumps and draw inflammation from the lungs, liver, kidneys, spleen, bowels, bladder, heart, and muscles. A single

"But," said the student, "that would be impossible for any man."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the practical man. "Why, there are few words that could be mentioned that I wouldn't be perfectly at home with."

"I should like to give you a few samples," replied the student. "I believe I could commence with the beginning of Webster, and stump you before we go through the A's."

"Go on with your sample A's," demanded the self-confident one, "and then tackle the B's and run on to the Z's."

"I'll try," said the student, calmly, "by first giving you a few sentences in A."

And squaring off for the work, the student asked the practical man to please bear in mind and translate, when he had done, his few simple sentences following:—

"Approach, adorers at Alliteration's altar. Assemble abdals and abderian adepts, and analyze an ambagitory and amphibiological allusion. Accept, as an apparently cataleptic and absonous arrangement, an alliterative aggregation, actually anagogetical. As an acrophil, abjure all acclititious arts and adventitious aids as addititious; and ardently advance. Ablepys and audacity are alike anantric and adiaphorus, as adjutants and anamnestic addititions at abstringing and ablaqueating all astrinsic anacrustos and anagogics, as all adepts are aware. Avoid anastrophes as anacoluthic and anisomeric; and abandoning additivities advance against apparently antiphrasical anagrams. Apply apomoneometry, and arrive at an apodeictic anagnorisis; and accept an author's acknowledgement."

"There," demanded the students, "translate that, and I'll commence with the B's and run on to the Z's."

But the practical man who was so intimate with his own language had fled.

DANBURY NEWS PHILOSOPHY.—It is utterly impossible for a man to go into a clothes-closet without knocking down every hat hung up there. It is terribly exasperating to hear them go down and to feel them knocking against one's legs, and it is surprising that no one has thought to invent a hook which will hold a hat with the grasp of death. Some people run an iron rod through the hat and secure the rod with a bolt on the outside of the house. This is a sure device, but requires considerable time, and mars the appearance of the house. When a woman has hung up three hats in a row and got a broken-ribbed umbrella with a hook handle to lay across them, she has struck one of the deadliest blows ever given to domestic peace."

A MISTAKE.—Outside barbers think all newspaper men are dead-heads, and envy them the fine time they have in the way of free dinners and free tickets to all manner of shows. There never was a greater mistake. People do not seem to realize that on the part of the journalist, it is merely a matter of business; that the editor or reporter goes to these places, so attractive to the outsider, much as the horse goes to the plow—because he must do so; and that for everything he eats, or drinks, or sees, he pays for his stock in trade, at least twice, and often ten times what it would cost him in cash, provided he was properly paid for his part of the exchange.

THE DIFFERENCE.—Some suppose that every learned man is an educated man. No such thing. That man is educated who knows himself, and takes accurate, common sense views of men and things around him. Some very learned men are the greatest fools in the world. The reason is, they are not educated men. Learning is only the means, not the end. Its value consists in giving the means of acquiring, the use of which properly managed, enlightens the mind.

A CARD.—A young lawyer of this city dropped down to his office accidentally today, and found on a card pinned to his door, probably by some impatient client who had previously failed to find him in these words: "Why do you squander your money in rent?"

$500 REWARD will be paid for a bottle of Gin if found to equal it in flavor, purity, and prompt medicinal effect, Sanford's Jamaica Ginger.

SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER

is prepared from the true Jamaica Ginger, combined with choice aromatic in genuine French Brandy, and is vastly superior to every other extract or essence of Ginger before the public, all of which are prepared with alcohol by the old process. It instantly relieves

DISEASES of the BOWELS, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Cramps and Pains, Chronic Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and Cholera Infantum, Diarrhoea in Teething, and all Summer Complaints,

DISEASES of the STOMACH, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Sluggish Digestion, Want of tone and Activity in the stomach and Bowels, Oppression after Eating, Rising of Food, and Similar Ailments, CHILLS and FEVERS, Colds and Chills, Feverish Symptoms, Pains in the Bones, Catarrhal Symptoms, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Symptoms, Soreness and Pains in the Muscles and Joints.

ELEGANTLY FLAVORED, purely medicinal, it should be in every family, on board every ship, and the constant companion of every traveler. It utterly surpasses all the common household remedies in the cure of the most of external fatal diseases. Ask for SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER, the only preparation of Jamaican Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy.

Sold by all wholesale and retail Druggists, Grocers, and Dealers in Medicine. Price 50 cents. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston.

371.

THE SKIN,

With its Millions of Pores, It is the great purifier of the body. Draw the impurities and poisons from the Lungs, Liver, Spleen, Bowels, Bladder, Heart, and Muscles through the skin with COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS, and health and happiness are yours. They are the greatest medical discovery of the century, and utterly surpass all other plasters.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS consist of silver and zinc plates, carefully selected and imbedded in a medicated Porous Plaster. (See cut.) When the plaster is placed upon the affected part, which can be done as quickly and conveniently as any other plaster, the heat that is by mere pressure of the hand,—the natural warmth and moisture of the skin causes the plasters to become warm, and the electric current is scarcely possible to feel it otherwise than by the soothing and grateful warmth produced, yet so penetrating as to stop the most violent pains. The most effective way to remove septic lumps and draw inflammation from the lungs, liver, kidneys, spleen, bowels, bladder, heart, and muscles. A single

"But," said the student, "that would be impossible for any man."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the practical man. "Why, there are few words that could be mentioned that I wouldn't be perfectly at home with."

"I should like to give you a few samples," replied the student. "I believe I could commence with the beginning of Webster, and stump you before we go through the A's."

"Go on with your sample A's," demanded the self-confident one, "and then tackle the B's and run on to the Z's."

"I'll try," said the student, calmly, "by first giving you a few sentences in A."

And squaring off for the work, the student asked the practical man to please bear in mind and translate, when he had done, his few simple sentences following:—

"Approach, adorers at Alliteration's altar. Assemble abdals and abderian adepts, and analyze an ambagitory and amphibiological allusion. Accept, as an apparently cataleptic and absonous arrangement, an alliterative aggregation, actually anagogetical. As an acrophil, abjure all acclititious arts and adventitious aids as addititious; and ardently advance. Ablepys and audacity are alike anantric and adiaphorus, as adjutants and anamnestic addititions at abstringing and ablaqueating all astrinsic anacrustos and anagogics, as all adepts are aware. Avoid anastrophes as anacoluthic and anisomeric; and abandoning additivities advance against apparently antiphrasical anagrams. Apply apomoneometry, and arrive at an apodeictic anagnorisis; and accept an author's acknowledgement."

"There," demanded the students, "translate that, and I'll commence with the B's and run on to the Z's."

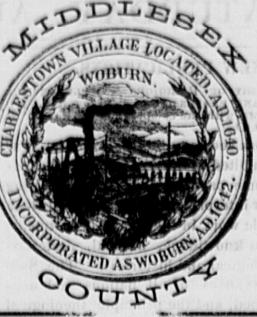

But the practical man who was so intimate with his own language had fled.

DANBURY NEWS PHILOSOPHY.—It is utterly impossible for a man to go into a clothes-closet without knocking down every hat hung up there. It is terribly exasperating to hear them go down and to feel them knocking against one's legs, and it is surprising that no one has thought to invent a hook which will hold a hat with the grasp of death. Some people run an iron rod through the hat and secure the rod with a bolt on the outside of the house. This is a sure device, but requires considerable time, and mars the appearance of the house. When a woman has hung up three hats in a row and got a broken-ribbed umbrella with a hook handle to lay across them, she has struck one of the deadliest blows ever given to domestic peace."

A MISTAKE.—Outside barbers think all newspaper men are dead-heads, and envy them the fine time they have in the way of free dinners and free tickets to all manner of shows. There never was a greater mistake. People do not seem to realize that on the part of the journalist, it is merely a matter of business; that the editor or reporter goes to these places, so attractive to the outsider, much as the horse goes to the plow—because he must do so; and that for everything he eats, or drinks, or sees, he pays for his stock in trade, at least twice, and often ten times what it would cost him in cash, provided he was properly paid for his part of the exchange.

THE DIFFERENCE.—Some suppose that every learned man is an educated man. No such thing. That man is educated who knows himself, and takes accurate, common sense views of men and things around him. Some very learned men are the greatest fools in the world. The reason is, they are not educated men. Learning is only the means, not the end. Its value consists in giving the means of acquiring, the use of which properly managed, enlight

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1877.

NO. 31.

Florists.

S. W. Tucomby & Sons,
FLOREISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

A. P. WOODHIN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler,
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
7 Court Sq., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. 15

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Actions adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

Geo. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES:—33 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 17
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 Niles Block, Boston.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho. Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18
Room 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canadas.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST.
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET, 19
WOBURN.

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—HUBER'S COAL OFFICE, WINCHESTER.
Entered and laid out to the best advantage.
Streets surveyed and graded.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.
WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL Office, Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Off: 89 Court St., Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.
JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence,

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.
ESTABLISHED 1865.

Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shafting,

Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,

Taners and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1871.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Bolters, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work.

29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL. J. H. FLINT.

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,

MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light

and airy rooms, and a commodious dancing Hall and everything required by the traveling public. Boarders will also find good accommodations. Special at- tention given to transient parties. Hotels connect with all trains.

56

Business Cards.

JOHN G. MAGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M.

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats

and Ladies' Sashes cleansed.

WYLY STREET, WOBURN.

Next door to Hose House.

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,
TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street; promptly attended to.

9 P. M.

CHARLES HURD,
HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St.,

BOSTON.

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.

JOHN O. SIVCLIMIR,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of

PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

RESIDENCE:—Washington Street, Winchester.

JOHN O. SIVCLIMIR,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 101 MAIN STREET, 21

WOBURN, MASS.

PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

CENTRAL HOUSE

LIVERY, HACK & BOARDING

STABLE,

212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

G. F. JONES, 22 Proprietor.

E. K. WILLIOUGHBY,

HOUSE and Job Carpenter,

WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN,

22 Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.

A. BUCKMAN,

Dealer in

BOOTS, SHOES and RUBBERS.

180 Main Street, Woburn.

24 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on hand.

WILLIAM SLITER,

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE

SIGN PAINTER,

EVERETT ST., - Woburn.

26

M. ELLIS & CO.

BUILDING MOVERS

—AND—

CONTRACTORS

WINN STREET, WOBURN.

Concrete.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES.

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at the low price of 65 cents per yard.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE, No. 139 Main Street.

30

MACHINISTS.

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shafting,

Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,

Taners and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1871.

78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Bolters, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work.

29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL. J. H. FLINT.

Apparatus for Cooking

At less than one quarter the expense of

WOOD and COAL,

FOR SALE BY

L. THOMPSON, Jr.,

Dealer in

Hardware, Cutlery,

Cooking and Parlor Stoves,

Manufacturer of 58

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

213 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

56

Poetical Selection.

SUMMER.

Lo! lazy Summer, swarthy, in the sun
Lies panting, with bare breasts, upon the hills,
Swathing her limbs in haze warp and dun,
Where splendor into dusky splendor runs,
And sultry glory all the heaven o'erflies.

Not a white dimple stirs amid the corn,
Nor a ripples shivers through the leaves—
Since, wrapped in gold and crimson gleams unshorn,
Came flashing through the east the regal morn;
But the throat twitters gurgle round the gales.

</

WOBURN JOURNAL, SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1877.

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor,
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents.
Reading notices, 25 cents a line. Special notices, 50 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line.
The figures printed with the subscriber's name on this paper, show to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

Page	Col.	No.
T. A. B. Norris	3	6
O. D. Parker	3	6
J. A. Sleat	3	7
Water stuf off.	3	7
C. A. & Son	3	7
J. P. Fernald	3	7
Mortgage's Sale.	3	7
Dr. J. A. Finch.	3	2

SHALL WE HAVE SEWERAGE?

It will be seen by reference to another column that the city of Boston is about to build a sewer from Railroad street in Woburn to tide water in the Mystic River. The sewer they propose to build, however, is a very small one, only ten inches in diameter at the beginning, and increasing to fifteen at Green street. The purpose of the sewer is simply to purify the brook which is a feeder of Mystic pond, and the size adopted is sufficient for that purpose. Two years or more ago, when the sewer scheme was first broached, it was opposed by parties in Woburn, because it contemplated the forcing of Woburn to join Boston and build a large sewer, in which it was feared Woburn would have to bear too heavy a part in the expense. The theory of some of the Mystic water men was, that Woburn ought not to foul the stream, but we should seek an independent outlet for the sewage from the tanneries. We are not sure that the opposition at that time was not a mistake. Sewerage is one of the great wants of this town, and the direction taken by the proposed drain is the natural course through which Woburn would carry off its refuse. If that water course is made clear, as it undoubtedly will be by the plan proposed, any further fouling of the water will be a hazardous proceeding. The wisest course for Woburn to pursue at this juncture is to make some arrangement with Boston whereby their sewer can be enlarged and carry off the town drainage as well as that from the tanneries. That we must soon adopt a system of sewerage is beginning to be admitted by all classes of our citizens, and the nearness of the accomplishment of the Boston plan, has given the subject new life. To join with Boston is the cheapest way we can begin the work, and to make a beginning is the thing most desired. The digging and the land drainage, two important elements in the calculation, for a sewer that would serve for a main sewer in any system we might adopt, would not be much more than for the one proposed, and the land damage would not be any more. We believe that our town ought to take some action in this matter, that unless she does it will not be many years before it will be admitted that a serious mistake was made. When sewerage is adopted, we must seek an outlet for the sewage. It has seldom been the fortune of the town to have its citizens so unanimous in favor of a public improvement as they are to-day in the matter of sewerage, and we hope the present opportunity will not be allowed to pass.

ORGAN RECITAL.—Mr. F. H. Lewis gave a very satisfactory organ recital at the Unitarian Church last Saturday afternoon. The audience was a little too select, but the music was good. The following programme was given:—Prelude and Fughetta in C; Fugue in A minor; Fantasia in E minor; Nuptial March; Variations, "Aunnie Laurie"; Fanfare; Canon in F sharp, Home, Sweet Home; Passacaglia.

TRANFERRED.—Rev. E. L. McClure, of the Catholic Church, leaves Woburn after next Sunday, the 5th inst., to take charge of a mission in Essex county, with headquarters at Georgetown. Father McClure has taken a great interest in the young people of his parish, being active in temperance work, and in the literary societies connected with his charge. He will leave many friends in Woburn.

ATTEMPT AT BURGLARY.—An unsuccessful attempt was made Sunday night to enter the dwelling of J. Foster Deland. A noise aroused the family and they remarked upon it, and it is thought the burglars hearing voices went away. A window in the dining-room was found broken in the morning.

IMPROVED.—Horse car No. 1, of the N. W. S. R. R. appeared on Sunday with a new coat of paint, and lettered "North Woburn" and "Central Square." The work is well done, and is a credit to the painter, Mr. T. A. Norris.

SELECTMEN.—Regular monthly meeting Thursday, all present but Cummings and Grammer. The muster roll of Co. G, 5th M. V. M., was received. The application of John K. Doherty for a license of the fifth class laid on the table. On application of Baader, Adamson & Co., Owen Kerrigan was appointed a special policeman without pay.

NEW STORE.—Fernald has fitted up the store 185 Main Street, under Lyceum Hall, and moves in this Friday evening, and at 8 o'clock will open it to the public with a splendid line of dry goods and small wares. There will probably be a crowd there this evening.

WE learn that our Postmaster, S. O. Upham, Esq., has resigned his position as Chairman of the Republican Town Committee, and as a member of the Middlesex County Republican Committee.—Waltham Free Press.

BURBANK HALL.—The new hall, 192 Main Street, fitted up for the Burbank Post 33, G. A. R., will be open for public inspection Saturday evening. The boys hope to see their friends.

STATE CONVENTIONS.—The Democrats will hold their State Convention at Worcester, on Thursday Sept. 13, and the Republicans at the same place on Tuesday, Sept. 18.

SAFE HOME.—Hon. John Cummings arrived home from Europe on Tuesday. He had a pleasant passage, although two days were quite rough.

ACCIDENTS.—As W. McCarty was practising on a horizontal bar last Saturday, the bar broke and let him down, and in the fall he broke his collar bone.

LOOK OUT FOR THE WATER.—The water will be shut off at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, last Saturday morning, bruising it severely.

DAMAGES.—W. B. Erwin, who is still suffering from his fall of two weeks ago, intends to bring a suit against the owner of Pleasant Street, Sunday night, wantonly broke off some young shade trees near Mrs. Frost's.

TO REVERE.—Calais' girls went to Revere Beach in the Gen. Sherman, last Saturday.

MASSACHUSETTS made one-third more boots and shoes in 1875 than in 1865, but one-third less people were employed in making them. That is what machinery effects.

THE MYSTIC VALLEY SEWER.—The Board of Aldermen Monday passed the final orders for taking the necessary land for the Mystic valley sewer. The object of this improvement, as is well known, is to purify the Mystic water by relieving it from the refuse of the tanneries at Woburn and Winchester. The outlet will be into the lower Mystic, at a point near the Mystic lake dam in the town of Medford. From here it follows the bed of the old canal through the property of the Gorham Brooks heirs to the point where the canal is in close proximity to the Boston, Lowell, and Nashua Railroads. It passes under the railroad a short distance below Bacon's crossing in Winchester, thence along through private property and across the Abajona river, just above its mouth. It then follows the railroad to the Mystic station, where it passes by a curve through private estates. Continuing, it takes the course of the railroad and crosses it at Main Street in Winchester. It runs through Main Street to a point beyond Lake Street, and through private property till it strikes the Woburn Branch Railroad. It then follows the branch to Woburn Centre, stopping at Railroad Street, opposite Walnut Street. A branch sewer runs to Pollard's tannery, and there are lateral branches all along connecting with the principal tanneries. The main sewer will be of brick, 26x28 inches from the mouth to a point opposite Mosley's tannery, some two miles. From here it will be fifteen-inch drain pipe for about two miles, to a point beyond Green Street in Woburn. The rest of the way to Walnut Street, a fourth of a mile, the pipe will be ten inches in diameter, except the branch to Pollard's tannery, which will have a diameter of six inches. The length is in the neighborhood of four and one-half miles. The estimated cost, including land damages, is about $125,000; without land damages, $70,000.

LIST OF BOOKS.

Added to the Public Library during the month of July, 1877.

7841 The Princess Ophelia. Henry Greville. 264
7842 Miss M. Mrs. Foster. 264
7843 Her Sacrifice. By H. 264
7844 Other People's Children. Sequel to "He- 264
7845 His Habits." 264
7846 New England History and General Regis- 264
7847 ter. 1876. 264
7848 Herodotus. Strange History. Author of "Men" 265
7849 Nora's Love Test. Mary Cecily Hay. 265
7850 La Garrote.—The Sea Gull. Fernan Cab. 265
7851 G. T. T., or The Wonderful Adventures of a Painter. Rev. E. E. Hale. 265
7852 The Little Pages, or Tales of Virtue. 265
7853 Translated by Mrs. Kate E. Hughes. 265
7854 Canaries; the Fortunes of a Partisan of '81. 265
7855 Villa Olive, or Young Americans in Spain and Portugal. Oliver Optic. 265
7856 The Scripture Club of Valley Rest. Au- 265
7857 Biographical Sketches by the Graduating Class of St. John's Academy, Flushing, Long Island. 265
7858 Wm. Caxton, the First English Printer. Charles Knight. 265

Any person wishing books not now in the Library, will please make a list of them, giving authors and titles, and hand it to the librarian, and if suitable, they will be purchased.

POLICE COURT.—Patrick Sweeney, larceny of sand from C. W. Dorr, $5 and costs; Edward Phillips, assault and battery, $5 and costs; Edward McElhaney, assault and battery, $5 and costs; same man for drunkenness, $3 and costs, committed for non payment of fine; Mary Chambers, drunk, second offence, three months in House of Correction; William E. Hunt, drunk, $3 and costs.

HARD TRAVELLING.—The other day a family party went on a berrying excursion, and on their way home caught a wheel of their carriage in the horse car track at Charles street, and broke down. Procuring a second team, they travelled to a point on Prospect street, where the horse shied and the occupants of the carriage feared a repetition of their spill, but they finally reached home without further accident.

MEDICAL.—Attention is called to the advertisement of Dr. J. A. Finch in another column, who is located permanently at the Central House, Woburn, and makes a specialty of the treatment of dyspepsia and hemorrhoids. He comes well recommended by some of the best physicians in Vermont, and those afflicted with these complaints will do well to consult him.

SELECTMEN.—Regular monthly meeting Thursday, all present but Cummings and Grammer. The muster roll of Co. G, 5th M. V. M., was received. The application of John K. Doherty for a license of the fifth class laid on the table. On application of Baader, Adamson & Co., Owen Kerrigan was appointed a special policeman without pay.

PERSONAL.—Charles K. Conn and Frank B. Woodward arrived home from Texas on Thursday. They have been on the road since the sixth of May.

Mr. Thomas Emerson, form rly Superintendent of Schools, is in town.

DRY GOODS.—C. A. Smith & Son announce "the best bargains yet," in a lot of navy blue cambric suits, which they offer for the ridiculously low figure of two dollars. Their store is well stocked, their prices are low, and the ladies need not go to Boston for the best bargains in dry goods.

MUSICAL CHART.—We invite attention to the advertisement of a musical chart, by means of which any one, without any previous knowledge of music can learn to play accompaniments on the piano or organ in 15 minutes. It can be seen at this office.

FIGHT.—A lively fight on Conn Street, Sunday night, was one of the incidents of the day.

Specie cigars" in light, dark, and medium colors, at Smith's Tea Store.

A peanut stand on the Post Office corner has a very metropolitan look.

North Woburn

BRUISED.—Chessman Wright dropped a twenty-five pound stone upon one of his feet, last Saturday morning, bruising it severely.

DAMAGES.—W. B. Erwin, who is still suffering from his fall of two weeks ago, intends to bring a suit against the owner of Pleasant Street, Sunday night, wantonly broke off some young shade trees near Mrs. Frost's.

TO REVERE.—Calais' girls went to Revere Beach in the Gen. Sherman, last Saturday.

MASSACHUSETTS made one-third more boots and shoes in 1875 than in 1865, but one-third less people were employed in making them. That is what machinery effects.

E.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A DICTIONARY OF RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE FOR POPULAR AND PROFESSIONAL USE, by Rev. Lyman Abbott, with the co-operation of Rev. J. T. Comant, D. D.

This work seems to be free from the tendency, exhibited by most compilers of learning, to some particular questions affecting doctrine or interpretation, and is a full clear and reliable work in the several departments of religious knowledge, biblical, ecclesiastical, theological and historical. The Sabbath observances of all nations and ages are described, and the principle theological beliefs of the various sects. Even Rationalists and Romanists will probably take little exception to the editor's representation of their positions. It covers the ground ordinarily needful to be mastered by either laymen, clergymen or scholars, and in a volume combines an account of all in the domains of biblical and theological dictionary, without any of the uninteresting features common in most of the kind.

In many particulars it is especially adapted to the use of Sunday School teachers and in fact there is no place where a work on the Bible is used, that it will not be found a most valuable aid. The principal editor has been engaged on this for fifteen years, and he is not a member of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, his winning the rifle competition will occur Tuesday, August 14. Mr. Arnold made two entries in Tuesday's shoot, but was not entitled to but one winning score. The contest for the Remington rifle was most spirited, and resulted in favor of O. M. Jewell, who made a commendable record at 500 yards shooting, winning ten bull's-eyes in succession. He was declared owner of the rifle, having won it three times.

It will be seen by reference to another column that the city of Boston is about to build a sewer from Railroad street in Woburn to tide water in the Mystic River. The sewer they propose to build, however, is a very small one, only ten inches in diameter at the beginning, and increasing to fifteen at Green street. The purpose of the sewer is simply to purify the brook which is a feeder of Mystic pond, and the size adopted is sufficient for that purpose. Two years or more ago, when the sewer scheme was first broached, it was opposed by parties in Woburn, because it contemplated the forcing of Woburn to join Boston and build a large sewer, in which it was feared Woburn would have to bear too heavy a part in the expense. The theory of some of the Mystic water men was, that Woburn ought not to foul the stream, but we should seek an independent outlet for the sewage from the tanneries. We are not sure that the opposition at that time was not a mistake. Sewerage is one of the great wants of this town, and the direction taken by the proposed drain is the natural course through which Woburn would carry off its refuse. If that water course is made clear, as it undoubtedly will be by the plan proposed, any further fouling of the water will be a hazardous proceeding. The wisest course for Woburn to pursue at this juncture is to make some arrangement with Boston whereby their sewer can be enlarged and carry off the town drainage as well as that from the tanneries. That we must soon adopt a system of sewerage is beginning to be admitted by all classes of our citizens, and the nearness of the accomplishment of the Boston plan, has given the subject new life. To join with Boston is the cheapest way we can begin the work, and to make a beginning is the thing most desired. The digging and the land drainage, two important elements in the calculation, for a sewer that would serve for a main sewer in any system we might adopt, would not be much more than for the one proposed, and the land damage would not be any more. We believe that our town ought to take some action in this matter, that unless she does it will not be many years before it will be admitted that a serious mistake was made. When sewerage is adopted, we must seek an outlet for the sewage. It has seldom been the fortune of the town to have its citizens so unanimous in favor of a public improvement as they are to-day in the matter of sewerage, and we hope the present opportunity will not be allowed to pass.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best work of its kind in this language; and Rev. Dr. March, whose ability to judge it correctly from personal acquaintance in Biblical lands is known to all, pronounces it the best of its kind.

REV. W. H. WILCOX, of Reading in a very strong recommendation of it says it is the best

From the Weymouth Gazette.

Letter From Martha's Vineyard.

After a rainy season of three weeks the sun shines clearly and everybody lives out of doors. Not that the rain has kept us shut up. It has been a warm season and the fanciful piazzas of the pretty cottages have been thronged with happy groups. Do you know that this place is the great American Sanitarium?

No one who has visited Martha's Vineyard in the summer time can have failed to note the delicious purity and softness of the air. Inhalation is like taking a spicy draught of nectar. Its exhilarating yet sooths power upon the nervous invalid, is something marvelous. People come here laden with the accumulated aches of the long cold season; oppressed with a debility that makes them agree with Jonah that it is better to die than live. Neuralgia has had its own sweet will with them and it spurs control and riots in any part of the system it pleases. Nervous prostration and its untold horrors is the result and the poor invalid becomes a torment to himself and everybody around him. To get rid of himself he comes to this beautiful "city by the sea," hoping against hope for an alleviation of his sufferings. The out-door life, the innocent amusements and the genial society divert his mind at the outset. There is rest and pleasure combined. He is not afraid of east-winds or any other wind. He can sit down to rest anywhere without danger from the soft air. He finds to his surprise that he sleeps well at night, and rises refreshed in the morning. His appetite need no coaxing. He begins to think of baked blue-fish and broiled sea-trout and to appreciate the beauty of baked clams. Strength and courage and hope come to him and he begins to feel and act like common people. As I raise my eyes from my writing, I see a young man who came here just a week ago in the care of his brother. He has been suffering from cough and weak lungs since last winter and has become feeble and emaciated. He does not cough at all here, but he eats. He has gained four pounds of flesh already. Ah, there is nothing like the Vineyard for chronic invalidism.

Our exemption from the foolish trammels of society make life here particularly enjoyable. Fashion does not keep one dressing and undressing half of the time. A lady does not lose caste if her pretty print wrapper is made to serve for an all day dress. Of course among such a multitude of people there are elegant costumes, but these are exceptions. Plain, serviceable attire is the rule. A suit of gray or brown for walking and church-going with a couple of print or gingham wrappers will take a lady through a month very comfortably and creditably; though a thin dress for very warm days is a convenience. Gloves are scarcely worn at all. The hands soon get a lovely brown tint that answers every purpose. Comfort and common-sense over-rule fashion, and the good qualities of the mind and heart rule above conventional cramps and stateliness. Not that we are wholly free from shoddy. We should have to go out of the world to get rid of that. Even the savage Indians have their specimens of it, and Mrs. Big Buffalo will swell as immensely upon a foundation of nothing as her civilized sister. But this element of society makes our comedy at the Vineyard and would not willingly be dispensed with.

Most of the cottages are open, and impromptu concerts occur at any hour of the day. These musicals afford fine treats to the lovers of melody. They are especially delightful in the evenings.

Rev. Mr. Gracey and his family are established in their cottage on Clinton Avenue. They are as cheery and cordial as ever, and he is still able to sing his favorite song, "Hold the Fort."

There have been a number of Temperance meetings besides the Convention, but as we are not in particular need of reform here, there is not much enthusiasm in regard to it. Great crowds attend the religious meetings on the Sabbath; more than can be accommodated with seats anywhere outside of the Tabernacle. And so the pleasant summer drifts by, and the happy peaceful pleasures will soon be among the things that are past. For this reason I must not waste another moment writing.

H. C. G.

Mr. Beecher's hay fever is over this Summer, and the Hawkeye man says his religious friends will be pleased to know that he is down on his sneeze more than ever. —Globe.

HOW IT IS DONE.—The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich," the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second (good health) by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as SICK Headache, Palpitation of the heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer any longer. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Sold by W. W. Hill.

Died.

Date, name, and age, inserted free; all other notices 10 cents a line.

In Lexington, July 29th, Daniel Cummings, aged 80 years, 1 month, 7 days.

In Woburn, July 30th, Martha Weston, aged 47 years, 1 month, 7 days.

In Woburn, Aug. 2nd, James J. Harlan, aged 71 years, 1 month, 7 days. Funeral in First Congregational Church, Woburn, on Saturday, Aug. 4th, at 2 o'clock. Friends and relatives invited without formalities.

In Woburn, July 30th, Mrs. Sarah P., wife of John L. Leahy, aged 39 years, 10 months.

In Woburn, July 31, Sarah, daughter of Walter and Bridget Cook, aged 4 months.

Special Notices.

WOBURN WATER WORKS.

WATER SHUT OFF.

In order that the necessary repairs may be made on the Main Supply Pipe of the Woburn Water Works, Horn Pond Water will be entirely shut off from the Town on SUNDAY next, Aug. 5th, at 4 o'clock, A. M., and remain shut off during the day.

Per order of the Water Commissioners.

E. E. THOMPSON, Registrar.

Woburn, August 1, 1877.

For Sale and To Let.

HOUSE TO LET.—5 rooms, on Main Street Horn Pond water. Also the Carroll House opposite Kelly street, containing 9 rooms. Also three houses in Kelly's Block. Inquire of JOSIAH KELLEY.

TO LET.—On Green St., a dwelling-house, six rooms, perfect order, reasonable rent. Enquire of S. H. COCHRANE, cor. Green and Mt. Pleasant Streets. Woburn, July 24th, 1877.

MUSIC! MUSIC! MUSIC!

YOU CAN LEARN TO PLAY PIANO AND ORGAN AND INSTRUMENTS IN ONE DAY, BY USING MASON'S.

PIANO & ORGAN CHARTS, which are so simple that a child of ten years without the slightest idea of music, can readily understand them. Price 100. For examination, exhibit at the "Journal" Office, and B. DODGES, 142 Main Street, Woburn, Mass. Will be forwarded to any address by enclosing One Dollar, to J. A. SLOAT.

Agent for Mason's Piano and Organ Charts, Woburn Post Office, Mass. Lady or Gentleman Canvassers wanted. Address J. A. SLOAT, as above.

135

T. A. B. NORRIS,

Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

133 NO. 17 WINN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

RE-OPENING!

Having re-fitted the store,
No. 185 Main Street,

UNDER LYCEUM HALL,

We are now enabled to serve our patrons with better and increased facilities.

We shall signalize the opening of our new store by a

Closing-Out Sale

OF SEASONABLE GOODS, and some

SPECIAL BARGAINS

WHICH WE ENUMERATE.

We shall place on our counters

The Best Lot of 5-CENT PRINTS

we have ever shown.

This lot includes some yard wide Cambrics, both light and dark styles, and should be examined early.

We have added to our stock a line of

STAPLE DRY GOODS,

and shall make a specialty of

Black Alpacas &amp; Cashmeres

And as a special bargain we shall offer a 48-inch CASHMERE at $1. which cannot be equalled.

All we ask is examination.

We shall offer a small lot of

LADIES FINE STRIPE FINISHED HOSE

AT 35 CENTS PER PAIR.

These goods cost $5.00 per dozen to import, and would be a great bargain at 50 cents.

We also mention a bargain in Blue, Mixed and White Woolen

YARN,

FULL 2-OZ. SKEINS, at 12¢ ets. per skein.

COME AND SEE US.

All our Goods are MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES, and are strictly

ONE PRICE ONLY.

140 JOHN P. FERNALD,

No. 185 Main Street,

UNDER LYCEUM HALL, WOBURN.

H. C. G.

Mr. Beecher's hay fever is over this Summer, and the Hawkeye man says his religious friends will be pleased to know that he is down on his sneeze more than ever. —Globe.

ONE PRICE ONLY.

140 JOHN P. FERNALD,

No. 185 Main Street,

UNDER LYCEUM HALL, WOBURN.

H. C. G.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet of 300 pages, containing list of 200 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

SEND 25¢ to G. P. ROWELL &amp; CO., New York for pamphlet

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

377.
PUZZLE.
100-1-5-1-50

Woburn. LONNIE.

378.

HALF WORD SQUARE.
A fine granite; a proclamation; exanthem; a termination; two-thirds of a plant; a vowel.

Lynn, Mass. ED. U. KATE.

379.

DOUBLE ACROSTIC.
Across: A period of life; a girl's name; a bird; a chimney; an imaginary monster; a boy's name.

Primals, a color. Finals, to work. Primals and finals connected, a bird. Woburn. ANNA GRAM.

380.

HOOT GLASS.
An animal; an animal; an animal; a number; a play; a bird; a vegetable.

Centrals, a bird. Danbury, Conn. VIOLA VERNE.

381.

BROWNIE'S COMBINATION.
• • • • •

Top Pyramid. Across: A consonant; a genus of grasses; a plant. Down: a consonant; a relation; a measure; an animal; a consonant.

Bottom Pyramid. Across: To restore; an animal; a consonant. Down: a consonant; a termination; a fish; a preposition; a consonant.

Double Diamond. Across: A consonant; one half of the nose; language; to dip; a consonant. Down: a consonant; uncultivated; standard; part of a Greek letter; a consonant.

Rhomboids. Across: A plant; a boy's name and a genus of animals; an apartment of a house, and a coin; a kind of cloth; and animal; a song; and a plant; a plant, and a geographical name; a pair, and divided; pastoral, and to mock; to give back. Down: a consonant; well; and a preposition; a date, and to go; to despise, and always; to expose; an animal, and two consonants; to trust; a dam, a part of a common adverb, and a prefix; an animal, and to wrap; a girl's name, and in weight; a city, and grandly; a mite, and to be ruled by; to vex, and to swell; a musical plant, and a man's nick-name; a consonant.

A year's subscription to Puzzler's Own for every correct solution. Ed.

Woburn, Mass. BROWNIE.

382.

WORD SQUARE.
A tree; bitter; part of a tool; a feminine name; a masculine name.

Winchester, Mass. WINEGAR.

383.

PRIZE CHARADE.
There was a young whale in Woburn, Who discovered a second in a churn, It struck up a fine first.

Which made things the worst, And caused him to curse and to spurn. Danbury, Conn. NUTMEG.

384.

DIAMOND.
A numeral; a wry mouth; a mover; a bird; pustules; a rush, curtailed; a numeral.

Burlington, Mass. G. OLOGY.

ANSWERS.

368.

Civet-cat.

369.

BLOSSOM GREET ARE V B.I.T. DELAY HIDEOUS

370.

Humble-bee. Be humble.

371.

L-L A M A

372.

COD I N A C A M A G A D E G A R E 373. Sun-Flower.

374.

S E H C L I E I O A L L R L B A I A I A S X M N N

375.

B E N E R E V E W E R E R E D E E

376.

L O S E R E X T R A E A I K U R I L

377.

P R I Z E S. Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Puzzler's Own one year for every complete list.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

EDITOR'S DESK.

PRIZE WINNERS. First complete list, H. A. FOSTER, Burlington, Mass.

No. 354, BROWNIE. No. 359, S. R. DINE. Accepted contributions have been received from NUTMEG.

WINEGAR. Would be pleased to have you send answers.

NUTMEG. Your contributions are first class.

How Miss Martineau began to write. It was at the age of nineteen that Harriet Martineau felt the sensation that is so delightful to most authors, of seeing her first contribution to literature in print. The account of her entrance upon the vocation of an authoress is full of interest. For some years, it seems, she had aspired to that vocation. It happened that her brother James, who was going to leave home for college, perceiving that she was far from happy, advised her to turn her attention to some fresh pursuit which would distract and engage her mind, and suggested writing for the press. The next morning, before six o'clock, she was at her desk composing an article on "Female Writers on Practical Divinity," a ponderous theme for a girl of nineteen, which, when finished, she sent to a small Unitarian periodical called the Monthly Repository. Keeping her design a secret from the family, she carried the article to the post-office, and awaited with palpitating heart the next number of the Repository. It came just before service Sunday morning, and when she turned the sheet her heart "thumped prodigiously" on seeing her article on the page. In the evening her elder brother by chance, read the article aloud in his family circle, where Harriet was taking tea, praising it as the best. When he had ended it, he turned to her and said:

"Harriet, what is the matter with you? I never knew you so slow to praise anything before."

He replied in utter confusion—

"I never could baffle anybody. The truth is, that paper is mine."

"He made no reply, read on in silence and spoke no more till I was ready to come away. He then laid his hand on my shoulder, and said, gravely—

"Now, dear, leave it to other women to make shirts and darn stockings, and do you devote yourself to this?"

"I went home," she adds, "in a sort of dream, so that the squares of the pavement seemed to float before my eyes. That evening made me an authoress."

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

THE EAST RIVER BRIDGE.—The vast network of wires and cables that are to enter into the construction of the suspension bridge between New York and Brooklyn are being slowly spun, with spider-like patience at the iron works in Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, and it is believed that 1880 will be reached before all the material will be ready for the builder, and the bridge up. The work of these four of these supporting cables, each consisting of nineteen strands, with 330 wires to the strand, and weighing 800 tons apiece. The cables are 154 inches in diameter, and their supporting power is calculated to be altogether 44,800 tons. Other interesting statistics concerning the bridge are that its total length, including land approach, is 5989 feet, the river span being 1595 feet; it is 85 feet wide; the towers rise 277 feet above the water level, while the centre of the river span is 135 feet above the water level, and the estimated cost is $12,500,000.—$9,000,000 for the bridge itself, and $3,500,000 for land damages.

IT is a beautiful starry night, and the Seniors are out singing. First Senior (who studies astronomy)—"Look up there and see how beautiful Orion looks." Second Senior (who does not study astronomy, but who has a streak of Irish blood)—"Is that O'Riordan? Thank the Lord, there is one Irishman in heaven, anyhow."—Cornell Bulletin.

HOW HARD.—Books go first; the book trade flattens under a panic; illustrated papers next, and then daily papers. If the panic continues, the trade in pianos and fine furniture fall off, but the laboring classes begin to contract on furniture from the start. Next we begin to cut off the fine clothes and jewelry, and then it is getting tight. Put on another turn of the screw, and tea and coffee suffer; then all our finer groceries; and then the nicest kind of produce. If the screw still tightens, when the worst comes the worst, and when there is no help from God or man, then whiskey and tobacco begin to be cut off. But the dog is about dead when it comes to that.

The Newark Call says:—If you want to find a Newark policeman, strike the first trail of peanut shells you come across and follow it up.

"If you are stung by a wasp while picnicking," says a floating item, "apply the end of a cigar, which has been chewed for a few moments to the wound." Young ladies should remember this, and always chew the "weed" in their pockets before starting on a picnic. The chewing process will make them so sick that they will not want to go to the picnic, and thus they will escape being stung by a wasp.—Norristown Herald.

A man who will order a fifteen-cent ticket, throw down a quarter and never wait for the change, will get down on his knees in street car and claw around in the straw for two miles and a half, hunting for a cent he has dropped.

After a boy is tired out hoeing potatoes, nothing seems to rest him more than to dig over a few square rods of greensward in search of bait.

A man who had a Frenchman to teach him the cornet always referred to the instructor as his French tooter.

THE JEW.—The Jew still walks the earth, and bears the stamp of his race upon his forehead. He is still the same being as when he started forth from the hills of Judea. If his name is associated with avarice and extortion, and spoken bitterness and scorn, yet, in the morning of history, it gathers round it recollections sacred and holy.

The Jew is a miracle among the nations. A wanderer in all lands, he has been a witness of the great events of history for more than eighteen hundred years. He saw classic Greece when crowned with intellectual triumphs. He lingered among that broken but beautiful architecture that rises like a tombstone over the grave of her departed splendor.

The Jew saw Rome, the "mighty heart" of nations, sending its own careless life's throb through all the arteries of its vast empire. He, too, has seen that heart cold and still in death. These have perished, yet the Jew lives on—the same silent, mysterious, indestructible being. The shadow of the crescent rests on Palestine, the signet of a conqueror's faith—still the Jew and his religion survive. He wanders a captive in the streets of his own once queenly Jerusalem, to meditate sad and gloomily on the relics of ancient power. Above him shines the clear sky, fair as when it looked down on the towers of Zion; but now, alas! beholds only a desolate city and an unhappy land. The world is his home. The literature of the ancient Hebrew triumphs over all creeds, schools and sects. Mankind worship in the sacred songs of David and bow to the divine teachings of Jesus of Nazareth, who also was a son of Abraham. Such is the Jew. His ancient dreams of empire are gone. How seldom do we realize, as we see him in our city streets, that he is the creature of such a strange, peculiar destiny. Neither age, nor country, nor climate, have changed him. Such is the Jew, a strange and solitary being, and such the drama of his long and mournful history.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

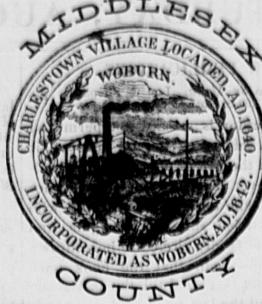

The man told her to make out a bill of items and he would settle it; if he had to sue her husband for his store bill to raise the money, for such business promptness is not so common that employers overlook it.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.—She was fixed up in her prettiest, and had just started out to make her calls, determined to let lady friends know that other people could wear new bonnets as well as themselves. The man who was going to wet down the street with the hose turned on the water just as she passed his store. For a moment she did not know whether it was a cloud burst or the second deluge; but when the man humbly said:

"Excuse me, madam," her emotion found vent in words.

"Excuse you!" she said. "Yes, I'll excuse you when you go down in your clothes and bring up seventeen dollars for a new bonnet. When you pay four dollars for this dress; when you yield up eleven dollars and a quarter for that polonaise; when it ceases raining down my spinal column; when you purchase me a box of bronchial troches, and six patent mustard plasters; when you recognize my claim to nine dollars damages for injury to my feelings—then I'll excuse you."

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 11, 1877.

NO. 32.

Florists.

S. W. Tucomby & Sons,
FLORISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

A. P. WOODHAY, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:

At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Charles Day Adams,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

10 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. 15

Residence, Central House, Woburn.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity.

16 GEO. W. NORRIS,

COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,

OFFICES—53 State Street, Boston, and a Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Streets, Woburn.

17 A. B. COFFIN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

No. 4 Niles Block, Boston.

Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho-

Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,

General Collection Office,

61 COURT STREET, 18

Room 2, BOSTON.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of

the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST.

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN. 19

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor.

Office—Huber's Coal Office, Winchester.

Excellently fitted and laid out to the best advantage.

Surveys surveyed and graded.

All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,

AUCTIONEER,

BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on

reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL of Office, Woburn, promptly attended to.

20

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

Offic: 89 Court St., Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27

Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss J. A. Campbell,

desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to u the times. For particulars call at her residence,

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks,

Shaving, Pulleys and Gearings, Water and Gas Fittings,

Tampering and Currying. Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership

formed January 1st, 1878.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL. J. R. FLINT.

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,

MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light

and airy rooms, and is ever ready for the traveling public. Boarders will also find good accommodations. Special attention given to transient parties. Hacks connect with all trains.

56

Business Cards.

JOHN G. MAGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M. 127

JOHN BRYANT,

PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,

PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass. 33

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSING, REPAIRED AND DYEING. Felt Hats and Ladies' Saucers cleansed.

WYNN STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Hox House. 84

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St., BOSTON. 86

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.

T. A. B. NORRIS,

Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

13 No. 17 WINN STREET, WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 36

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St., BOSTON. 86

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.

JOHN O. SIVCLIFF,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of Jobbing

promptly attended to. 20

Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 21 WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at the JOURNAL of Office, Woburn, promptly attended to.

23

A. BUCKMAN,

Dealer in

Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.

160 Main Street, Woburn.

24 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on hand.

WILLIAM SLATER,

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE

SIGN PAINTER,

EVERETT ST., - Woburn, 25

M. ELLIS & CO.

BUILDING MOVERS

—AND— 26

CONTRACTORS.

Winn Street, Woburn.

Concrete.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES,

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at the low price of 65 cents per yard.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE, No. 139 Main Street. 30

Watchmakers, &c.

G. F. SMITH & CO.,

Watchmakers and Jewelers,

DEALERS IN

Watches, Clocks & Jewelry.

No. 187 Main St., Woburn, Mass.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry promptly repaired and satisfaction guaranteed. 37

KEROSENE OIL STOVES,

A COMPLETE

Apparatus for Cooking

At less than one quarter the expense of

WOOD and COAL,

FOR SALE BY

L. THOMPSON, Jr.,

Dealer in

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

385.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

The 9, 4, 3 is a tree.

The 2, 8, 6, is a grief.

The 7, 11, 12, 13 is to hunt.

The 4, 5, 1, 10 is to hunt.

The whole is an author.

Danbury, Conn. VIOLA VERNE.

386.

WORDS SQUARE.

A sea fish; a feminine name; a covering; cut.

Winchester, Mass. WINEGAR.

387.

DECAPITATION.

Whole, I am very keen;

Behead, sharp will be seen.

Burlington, Mass. SNIFFINS, JR.

388.

DIAMOND.

A consonant; an animal; tender; an animal; a consonant.

Danbury, Conn. HARRY A. MILTON.

389.

CONNECTED DIAMONDS.

First: A consonant; a small bird; an animal; an adjective; a consonant.

Second: An adjective; to obscure; a girl's name; in whale. Connected, a plant. Arlington, Mass. CUTE.

390.

SYNOPSIS.

If a certain bird you synopcate,

A red, or red it will clearly state.

Danbury, Conn. KUEER KUSS.

391.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

I am composed of 15 letters. My 1, 4, 9, 7, 2 is a small blurbinal animal.

My 8, 12, 4, 3 is not now.

My 1, 6, 15, 15 is a name for dress.

My 1, 13, 10 is very sticky.

My 11, 9, 14 is a boy's nick-name.

My whole is a general who never fought a battle.

Woburn, Mass. LONNIE.

392.

PRIZE QUADRUPLE DOUBLE DIAMONDS AND DOUBLE WORDS SQUARE.

0

0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1877.

NO. 33.

Florist.

S. W. Trowbridge & Sons,
FLORISTS,
141 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS.

Professional Cards.
A. P. WOODMAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler,
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M.

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

7 Court Sq., Boston, 179 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 to 2 P. M. 6 P. M., 9 A. M.
Residence—Central House, Woburn.
Special attention given to legal and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Ac- counts adjusted, and general law business attended to
with promptness and fidelity.

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Resi- dence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 17
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 41 State Street, Boston.
Entered from Court Street and 33 School Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18

Room 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of
the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET, 73
WOBURN.

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,

Offices—Huse's Coal Office, Winchester.
Estates settled and laid out to the best advantage of estates situated in New England.
All orders guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.
WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,

BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL OF FACT, Woburn, promptly attended to. 33

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,

Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.
JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss J. A. Campbell,

desires a few pupils on the

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to all the times. For particulars call at her residence,

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

Glasing, Stoning,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mills and Steam work of all kinds. Shating,

Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,

Tanneries and Currying. Shop fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership

formed January 1st, 1877.

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work.

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL.

J. H. FLINT.

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,

MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light

and airy rooms, and a commodious dancing Hall and everything required by the travelling public. Boarders will also find good accommodations. Special atten- tion given to transient parties. Hacks connect with all trains.

Business Cards.

JOHN G. MIGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M.

JOHN BRYANT,

PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,

PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass.

CLEANSED, REPAINTED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Satin-cleansed.

WILLIAM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to House.

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Order left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street,

promptly attended to. 40th His contract of all Bills

Boards in town. 40th Orders by mail promptly at 35

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St.,

BOSTON.

56

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds con- stantly on hand.

Residence: Washington Street, Winchester.

T. A. B. NORRIS,

Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

133 No. 17 WINN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

PAINTER,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker,

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of JOINING

promptly attended to. 20

Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 161 MAIN STREET, 21

WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE

Livery, Hack & Boarding

STABLE,

212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

G. F. JONES, 22 Proprietor.

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

It is not vain in that he has trod

This lonesome and weary way,

It is not vain in that he has wrought

In the vineyard all the day;

The soul that gives is the soul that lives;

This is given to him to keep—

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

It is not vain in that he has trod

This lonesome and weary way,

It is not vain in that he has wrought

In the vineyard all the day;

The soul that gives is the soul that lives;

This is given to him to keep—

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

It is not vain in that he has trod

This lonesome and weary way,

It is not vain in that he has wrought

In the vineyard all the day;

The soul that gives is the soul that lives;

This is given to him to keep—

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

It is not vain in that he has trod

This lonesome and weary way,

It is not vain in that he has wrought

In the vineyard all the day;

The soul that gives is the soul that lives;

This is given to him to keep—

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

It is not vain in that he has trod

This lonesome and weary way,

It is not vain in that he has wrought

In the vineyard all the day;

The soul that gives is the soul that lives;

This is given to him to keep—

Rejoice with those that do rejoice,

And weep with them that weep."

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 50 cents a line. Special notices, 15 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. The figure printed with the subscriber's name on the back show to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page	Col.	No.
J. P. Fernald	3	3
New Advertisements	3	7
Probate	3	2
Notice to Pensioners	3	1
In Bankruptcy	3	1
Dr. J. A. Finch	3	3
Free Press Co.	3	1
Town Warrant	3	1

THE QUESTION OF SEWERAGE.

The City of Boston is moving rapidly in the matter of their Mystic Valley Sewer, and has this week put up shingles along the line, appointed a superintendent, and expects to be actively at work until the completion of the enterprise. They are working under Chapter 202 of the Laws of 1875, and the Sections of the chapter in which the people of this locality are mostly interested is as follows:—

Secr. 7. No corporation, person or persons, shall hereafter discharge any sewage, drainage or pollution of any kind, which they have not the legal right so to discharge at the date of the passage of this act, and no city or town shall, in its discretion, allow any sewage in the said upper Mystic Pond, or any head-water, pond or stream running into, or connected therewith, or into the said main sewer or any of its branches, or into any drain or sewer directly or indirectly connected therewith, or into any stream or water-course diverted into said sewer, or into the branches thereof, or into any drain, sewer or conduit emptying into said stream or water-course or its branches, without the permission of the city of Boston; but any such town, corporation, person or persons, may, with the permission of the city of Boston, enter a claim or cause to have such main sewer or any of its branches, upon giving six months' notice to said city of Boston of their desire so to do, and upon payment of a reasonable compensation to said city for the use of the same.

If the city of Boston and said town, corporation, person or persons shall be unable to agree upon said compensation, either party may petition the supreme judicial court for the appointment of a commission of three suitable persons, who shall hear the parties and determine the compensation to be made to the city of Boston. Said compensation may consist of a sum in gross, or of a yearly payment to be made to said city, as said commissioners may decide; and the report of said commissioners, or a majority of them, being subject to a revision of, and being accepted by the supreme judicial court, shall be final, and judgment shall issue thereon.

The entry of any drain or sewer into said main sewer or any of its branches, shall be made under the direction of the city of Boston, and subject to such reasonable rules and regulations as may be made by the city council thereof.

Upon the establishment by the towns of Woburn, or Winchester, or Melford, of any system of sewerage or drainage, the sewers established by said towns to the northward and eastward of said system of sewers of the city of Boston, and through territory which naturally drains toward said main sewer of the city of Boston or any of its branches, shall be entered into said sewers of said city of Boston, and compensation therfor shall be made to the said towns, and the city of Boston, and shall be determined, if the parties shall be unable to agree, in the manner herein before set forth: provided that in all cases under this section, no such town, corporation, person or persons shall be entitled to make such entry except by permission of the city of Boston, or upon such terms as shall be determined by the supreme judicial court.

Secr. 8. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to impair the rights heretofore granted to the towns of Woburn and Winchester for laying their sewers with pure water, or for prohibiting the laying and use of sewage and drainage matter for fertilizing purposes, or making any local disposition of the same, which shall not pollute the waters of said upper Mystic Pond.

The sewer which Boston will build, and which we have a right, under certain restrictions, to enter, will be only ten inches in diameter at Railroad street, and if we entered it it would be of no value. To be of any value to our town it should be bigger, but if it is completed at ten inches, we would find it very difficult to secure its enlargement. If enlarged at all, it must be now. We believe that Boston would be willing to receive a proposition from Woburn, and would accede to a request for a short delay, and a change of plan sufficient to accommodate us, if requested so to do by the town. There has never yet been an opportunity for a popular expression on this matter, but on next Monday there will be, and we hope every voter will be at the meeting.

THE DUMB SPEAK.—Professor Bell, the inventor of the telephone, is a man of great and varied genius; he is remarkable for his success in teaching deaf mutes. He lately married Belle, the second daughter of Hon. Gardiner Green Hubbard, one of the wealthiest citizens of Cambridge. Scarlet fever made her deaf and dumb when a small child. All that medical skill could devise, both in this country and abroad, was done to restore her hearing, but of no avail. Professor Bell succeeded in teaching her to converse with others very readily. She understands what others say by the motion of their lips when talking. For a long time she could not be made to understand how to modulate her voice when she spoke, but would shriek out her words in a very erratic and discordant manner, for she cannot hear at all. But now she appears as prettily as any lady; she is very observing and interesting. Professor Bell's success in her case is most remarkable, and he has given the highest proof of his satisfaction with the results. Soon after their marriage they sailed for Europe.

A GENEROUS GIFT.—Mr. Henry C. Gray, our predecessor at this editorial chair, now editing the Malden Mirror, has offered to the Selectmen of Malden, two hundred volumes of books as the nucleus of a public library. This public spirited action on the part of Mr. Gray, ought to stimulate the citizens of Malden to similar generosity, and a town so large and wealthy should not longer suffer from the want of a good public library. Mr. Gray, not to do the thing by halves, also offers to cover and catalogue the books without expense to the town.

RE-UNION.—The eleventh re-union of the 29th Regiment, will be held at Quincy, on the 28th inst.

Rev. Mr. Kelsey and wife were in town, last week.

Rev. Dr. Stebbins is in town.

ANOTHER DROWNING ACCIDENT IN HORN POND.—Last Wednesday forenoon the report was circulated that two men were drowned in Horn Pond. It seems that James Daley living on Conn street, hired a boat of James Kelley on Richardson street, and went out on the Pond, about eight o'clock. A little later, some boys heard noises that seemed to proceed from men quarreling in the boat which was rocking violently near the island, and then a man was seen swimming between the boat and the island; subsequently an empty boat was discovered drifting about in the Pond. The boat drifted ashore, and was found to contain Daley's cap, coat, pipe, handkerchief, and an empty bottle. No other trace of the man or men was found, and during the afternoon some attempts to find the bodies were made, but without success. It was reported that Daley had been seen in Cummingsville, but as he did not turn up during the night, Chief of Police Tidd determined to institute an active search for the bodies, and accordingly Thursday he had a drag and grapples constructed, and set about dragging the Pond between the Island and the Swimming Hole. The searchers worked all the forenoon without results. Resuming their search in the afternoon, they were rewarded about four o'clock with the sight of what they sought. Chief Tidd's grapple caught in Daley's boat and brought him to the surface, and the body was towed to land. Medical Examiner Winsor was summoned from Woburn, but on inquiry he was satisfied that Daley was alone in the boat, and that there had been no foul play, and the body was taken in charge by Mr. Reade, the undertaker. Daley had on when found, two shirts, a pair of drawers and boots, and the drawers were down about his feet. It came overboard without his clothes can only be surmised, though the empty bottle may afford a hint at the first cause. Daley was about 45 years old, a carrier by trade and leaves a wife and three children.

We are reminded that there are two persons in Woburn licensed to sell "intoxicating liquor to be drunk on the premises."

Mr. Peter Kenney was granted a license of the third class, "to sell malt liquors and cider to be drunk on the premises." In times past great efforts have been made to prove that these "soft drinks," as they are sometimes called, were not intoxicating, but we notice that the term "intoxicating liquor," in this act, "shall be construed to include ale, porter, strong beer, lager-bier, cider, and all wines, as well as distilled spirits."

No license allows a man to keep a public bar.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Thursday morning, a man named O'Brien was walking on the Lowell railroad track above Walnut Hill, when the Lowell train and a train from Boston came along together, and caught him between the tracks. He was rolled along by the cars and thrown from one to the other, and the wonder is that he was not killed. Both trains stopped, and the Lowell train carried him to Winchester, and the next train up took him to North Woburn station where he lives. It was thought his ribs were broken. He had a very narrow escape.

SMASHED.—In an unsuccessful attempt to pass the Highland Hose carriage on Conn street, last Tuesday evening, the driver of the L. W. Perham Hose carriage run into the former, taking put two of the spokes from the forward wheel and badly gouging all the spokes of both wheels on the side struck. A two-wheeled jumper has been placed in the Highland Hose House, while the carriage is undergoing repairs.

We would call especial attention to the communication of Mr. G. S. Dodge in another column, wherein he sets forth his side of the recent prosecution for violation of the license law, and gives the views of the apothecaries on the subject of license.

It will be seen also by reference to our report of the Selectmen's doings, that the apothecaries accept the situation.

FIRE.—Tuesday evening an alarm was given from District Five, which after a good deal of running about, the firemen discovered to be in a new house on Arlington street, which Joseph Reau is building for Patrick Fitz. Some one had set fire to the lathing and a small place was burned, damaging the house perhaps $20. The fire was put out with buckets.

PILES.—Dr. Finch is having good success in his specialty, and the well known names of John D. Tidd and Lee Hammond in Woburn, and John Carmichael in Boston, attest to his skill. The doctor has the best of testimonials from those he has cured, and any who are suffering from piles ought at least to give the doctor a trial.

PHOTOS.—Undoubtedly the best picture gallery out of Boston is run by H. E. Stroot, at 143 Main Street, Woburn. His large picture of the Orthodox Church with the reprinting stage around its steeple, is an excellent one. He has a few more copies left.

BUGGY SMASHED.—Tuesday evening as No. 2 was coming down Main street, when near Union street they met a drove of cattle, and the cattle turned out and ran against a buggy, smashing it up.

SELECTMEN.—At the special meeting last Friday evening, it was voted to call a Town Meeting for Monday, Aug. 20, at 4 P. M. Newell Z. Tabor was appointed a special policeman without pay.

COL. W. T. GRAMMER, of Woburn, has been appointed commander of the Middlesex County Division of the Grand Army Parade of the 17th of September.

All dealers are now selling new crop Teas. For real choice grades of Oolong and Japan Teas, go to Smith's.

BASEBALL.—Cummings' Nine beat Maguire's Nine on George Winn's field, last Saturday, 24 to 12.

REV. MR. KELSEY and wife were in town, last week.

REV. DR. STEBBINS is in town.

Communication.
Selling Liquors without a License.

When licenses were offered the druggists at one hundred dollars each, by the present Board of Selectmen, it was felt by us all that they had fixed the price, upon the supposition, that we all did, and all should, sell indiscriminately, and therefore all could afford to pay the highest price. We felt that it was that kind of sales that we were to be taxed for the privilege of making. We felt, and furthermore were advised by some of our best citizens, that public opinion would sustain us in selling for the most strictly legitimate purposes without the license, while the taking of a license at that price would advertise the fact, that we were willing our stores should be known as rum shops. One of our number who has seen more years and business experience than the rest of us, thought it the wiser way to take the license. We all see now that refusing to take one was a business blunder. While as dealers we have no more legal rights than others, we believe there is reason in the generally held opinion, that apothecaries are the legitimate custodians of the article; that we have a moral right to sell it as we would sell tincture of rhubarb or paregoric. This moral right is conceded in legislative permission to sell alcohol without a license; a permission still liable to abuse, for the very worst persons will reduce and drink it. Then while the moral right is thus acknowledged, it is evident that the great impropriety of allowing apothecaries to sell without a license consists in their thus standing in the way of an impartial execution of the law. While we attribute to one malice in the late prosecution, we submit to an unprejudiced public, whether there is not an unfairness in the working of a law, that subjects an apothecary to so great an annoyance for furnishing a very respectable citizen and Christian brother with an article of medicine, while it leaves gallons to be gulped down to gratify depraved appetites.

GEORGE S. DODGE.

G. A. R.—A box containing the following inscription on a copper plate, together with the articles enumerated, has been placed in the Soldiers' Monument on Boston Common:—

"The Grand Army of the Republic is a fraternal, loyal and charitable association of ex-combatants, their dependents and relatives who aided in resisting the attempts of the slaveholding States of the American Union to secede from that Union of the United States of North America, in the great rebellion of the years 1861-65; which rebellion, causing a gigantic civil war, then resulted in the emancipation of 4,000,000 of slaves, the supremacy of the Federal Government and the consequent restoration of the Union.

The motto of this association is 'Fraternity, Charity, and Loyalty,' and the association is divided into departments, coinciding with the several States of the Union, and divided into smaller local organizations called posts, devoted to the charitable care of soldiers and their families, widows and orphans.

The reduction in the price of labor is brought about in many cases almost involuntarily by those who employ laborers. Business becomes depressed and some cannot continue, unless a reduction is made, and it follows that another and still another must do the same or suffer loss. If prices are reduced in New York, they must be in Massachusetts, or business would come to a stand still. If a general understanding throughout the country and the civilized world could be observed in reference to allowing workmen higher wages for their services, employers generally, would not object as it would indirectly rebound to their interest by creating greater demand for goods they were producing. The reduction in wages grows out of an unavoidable competition produced in a great measure, no doubt, by the great and rapid development of labor saving machinery. Although this has tended to depress business for the time being, it has in the past, and will in the future, as its influence becomes adjusted, prove of great benefit to the working people. By improved inventions and methods in the manufacture of boots and shoes, which were introduced in the space of only ten years, it was found that a given number of workmen could produce 25 per cent more of goods in 1870 than in 1860 in the same time.

THE reduction in the price of labor is brought about in many cases almost involuntarily by those who employ laborers. Business becomes depressed and some cannot continue, unless a reduction is made, and it follows that another and still another must do the same or suffer loss. If prices are reduced in New York, they must be in Massachusetts, or business would come to a stand still. If a general understanding throughout the country and the civilized world could be observed in reference to allowing workmen higher wages for their services, employers generally, would not object as it would indirectly rebound to their interest by creating greater demand for goods they were producing. The reduction in wages grows out of an unavoidable competition produced in a great measure, no doubt, by the great and rapid development of labor saving machinery. Although this has tended to depress business for the time being, it has in the past, and will in the future, as its influence becomes adjusted, prove of great benefit to the working people. By improved inventions and methods in the manufacture of boots and shoes, which were introduced in the space of only ten years, it was found that a given number of workmen could produce 25 per cent more of goods in 1870 than in 1860 in the same time.

AN UNLUCKY JUMP.—A man named Vogel, last Tuesday, found himself on the Lowell train when he wished to go to Woburn, and just above the culvert, he jumped off, striking on his face in the gravel. He broke his nose, and cut his face fearfully and broke several bones in his hand.

A PLEASANT TRIP.—A party of young gentlemen from this place, passed their vacation in an enjoyable cruise along the north shore, in the yacht Iris under the skilful management of Capt. R. W. Elwell; touching at the Isles of Shoals, Old Orchard, Portland, and all places of interest for which that coast is famous.

AN UNLUCKY JUMP.—A man named Vogel, last Tuesday, found himself on the Lowell train when he wished to go to Woburn, and just above the culvert, he jumped off, striking on his face in the gravel. He broke his nose, and cut his face fearfully and broke several bones in his hand.

POLICE.—R. P. Hallowell, Esq., of Bedford, for fishing in Mystic Pond, was fined $3 and costs, and for fishing on the Lord's day the complaint was put on file on payment of costs, sum total, $15.50.

PENSIONS.—Dr. D. W. Wight, has been appointed U. S. Examining Surgeon for Pensions, in place of Dr. Chapin, deceased.

FALL.—Chief of Police Richardson was shot out of the back of his horse, last week.

SIZZLES.—On Tuesday, 6 gallons of ale were seized at Mrs. Michael Quills.

BURLINGTON.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.—About fifty of the relatives and friends of Mrs. James Reed met at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. Fowle, Thursday, Aug. 9th, it being the ninetieth anniversary of Mrs. Reed's birthday.

The weather was very unfavorable, but the company passed the afternoon very pleasantly in doors, enlivening the occasion with music and speeches. Had the weather been propitious, out door amusements would have been a feature. Among the many presents, was a handsome snuff-box made from a deer's hoof, also a jar of snuff from Winslow Nickerson, Esq., of Boston, with the following inscription:

August 9th, 1877.
August 9th, 1877.
AUNT REED.
May you snuff the gentle breeze.
Till—1877 ceases.

Mrs. Reed seems well and hearty, and bids fair to become a centenarian.

MAD DOG.—Quite an excitement in the quiet town of North Burlington. A dog belonging to Mr. Thomas I. Reed, went mad, last Monday, and attacked Mr. Reed's mother, tore the skirt of her dress off, and then caught her by her woolen underskirt, tore that and left, to attack a woman washing, and tore her dress. He then flew at a man in the yard, seized him by the leg, but the boy beat him in the way, no harm was done.

MR. URIAH BEARD, the foreman of the farm, with two men, started with guns, and got in sight of him half a mile on the road to Wilmington, Mr. B. being a good shot, put a ball through him, thus ending what might have been a sad affair.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Abner Shedd, while riding one day last week, was thrown from his wagon and somewhat bruised, fortunately no bones were broken. A broken whitewheeler BISEY.—The Bisey family, of the "Na-Yard," will meet nine Lexington strikers on the battle ground, Lexington, Saturday, Aug. 18th. Game called at three.

REV. DR. STEBBINS is in town.

STATE PRISON.—James Smith, aged some eighty years of age, who was discharged a few days ago, his sentence having expired, is the same person who some twenty-five years ago created quite a sensation by imposing on the Warden of the prison, at that time named Robinson. At that time Smith went by the name of Phillips, and he claimed to know of the existence of a buried treasure at Barnstable, which, if allowed to go to the spot, he would point out and divide with the Warden. The Warden, with one or two of his officers, took Phillips to the place one day, and after a deep hole had been dug, Phillips took his deluded guard into it, and made off, but was successfully recaptured. The term which recently expired was his third in this institution, and he served his first one here some 60 years ago.

SHOT AT.—Mr. Wellington McCabe reports that he was fired at by a foot-pad on Pine street, one evening last week. He escaped unharmed with his team, and notifying the police, searched for the fellow but did not find him.

North Woburn

THE QUESTION OF SEWERAGE.

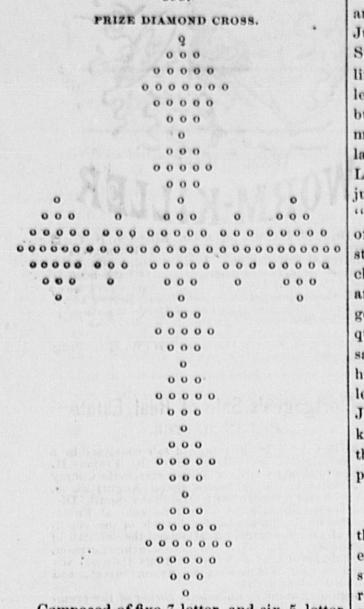

The City of Boston is moving rapidly in the matter of their Mystic Valley Sewer, and has this week put up shingles along the line, appointed a superintendent, and expects to be actively at work until the completion of the enterprise. They are working under Chapter 202 of the Laws of 1875, and the Sections of the chapter in which the people of this locality are mostly interested is as follows:—

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

393.

Composed of five 7 letter, and six 5 letter double diamonds.

Across: A consonant; a cover; a kind of food; a company; a thin plate; a mouthful; a consonant; an animal; a certain number; a consonant; a consonant; a waiter; a consonant; abided; a consonant; a tribunal; a weight; a tropical fruit; a South American tree; to locate; pertaining to origin; a bird; a musical instrument; a molluscan animal; a bird; a flower; a bird; a weight; ventured; united; fatigued; a vehicle; a consonant; irate; a consonant; managed; a consonant; a consonant; a consonant; an animal; an animal; to predominate; a consonant; a mark; a residence; to assume; a consonant; a masculine name; a bird; to acquire; a consonant; to destroy; a county of the old world; an animal; uncovered; a young person; a consonant.

Down: A consonant; part of a wheel; a vessel; an animal; a resinous substance; to prepare; a consonant; even; employment; males; a consonant; a consonant; a consonant; a mineral; a seat; a consonant; a consonant; a consonant; a seat; a vessel; a kitchen utensil; a greeting; a domestic animal; a bird; to tarry; maritime; a plant; a serpent; a color; an instructor; an American bird; unusual; word for wood; covered with stone; machine; conquered; a kind of cloth; a white metal; a small horse; striped; an East Indian plant; a consonant; a child; a consonant; a consonant; a consonant; conducted; a consonant; a consonant; a consonant; an animal; an animal; to venerate; a consonant; an adverb; a plant; a prepose; smoked; a young person; a consonant.

The Sphinx one year for the first correct solution.

Puzzler's Own one year, and The Puzzler one year for the third.

Danbury, Conn. NUTMEG.

394.

Numerical Enigma. 1, 2, 3 a small bird, 4, 5, 6, 7 a bird. Whole a bird.

Burlington, Mass. SNIFFINS, JR.

395.

HALF WORDS SQUARE. A nom de plume sometimes seen in this column; object of worship; a masculine name; an exclamation; precious; a conjunction; in Woburn.

Winchester, Mass. WINEGAR.

ANSWERS.

385. A writer of books.

386.

BASS A N N A S N O W S A W N

387.

A—Cute.

388.

D

D O G

D O W N Y

G N U

Y

389.

N S

T I T T H E

N I G H T — S H A D E

T H E E D A

T E

390.

Crane—Cane.

391.

General Tom Thumb.

392.

D R I B Q U A I L E N D

S G R A T E C

A H A L E V E N E R A

L L A M A G E N T R A I N

E R A M A R S E E N D

K A L T E R E

R A M

P A P A W

T I N

R

393.

P R I Z E S.

Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Boston Weekly Globe for second complete list.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

***

He was making a call, and they were talking of literature. "The Pilgrim's Progress," she remarked, "always seems to me painful. Of course you are familiar with Bunyan?" He said he had one on each foot, and they troubled him a good deal.

WANTED A LAWYER.—The Manchester Mirror tells this story: "A strange man came to town from New York to get a little attorney attended to in court yesterday met a boy on the street and asked what lawyers there were in town. The boy replied: "Well, there's Judge Daniel Clark and Judge Cross, and Judge Morrison, and Judge Clough, and Judge Hunt, and Judge Fellows, and Judge Stanley, and Judge Smith, and Judge Topliff, and Judge Burnham, and Judge Bartlett, and Judge Wilson, and Judge Tewksbury, and Judge Hazen, and—" "Yes, said the man, "but I don't want a court. I want a lawyer, and I was recommended to find Lewis W. Clark. "Where's he?" "He's just been 'pinted a judge," said the boy. "Well, what about a Mr. Bell? I've heard of him. Is he a judge, too?" queried the stranger. "Not exactly; he was 'pinted chief justice once, but he wouldn't take it," answered the youth. "But haven't you got a lawyer who isn't judge?" said the questioner, getting impatient. "Oh! yes," said the boy, "there's Squire Briggs, but he's gone to Congress, and there's Mr. Bartlett, he's Clerk of the Court, and there's James Shaw, but he's been 'pinted some kind of a judge, and there's—" And then the man got mad and went off humming a profane air very vigorously."

WOMEN DOCTORS.—I say that to open the study and practice of Medicine to women folk, under the infallible safeguard of a stiff public examination, will no to rise in respect for human rights to the level of European nations who do not brag about just freedom half as loud as we do, and to respect the constitutional rights of many million citizens, who all pay the taxes like men, and, by the contract with the state imposed in that payment, buy the clear human right they have yet to go down on their knees for. But it will also import into medical science a new and less theoretical, but cautious, teachable, observant kind of intellect; it will give the larger half of the nation an honorable pursuit, toward which their hearts and instincts are bent by Nature herself, it will tend to elevate this whole sex, and its young children, male as well as female, and so will advance the civilization of the world, which in ages past, in our own day, and in all time, hath and doth and will keep step exactly with the progress of women toward mental equality with men.—Charles Read.

CIVIL SERVICE.—My idea of Civil Service would be to have every office-holder know and feel that his place depends not on his doing or leaving undone political work, paying or leaving unpaid political taxes; but on his faithful discharge of official duty. Regarding political work or political assessments, he should be as absolutely free as he is regarding ecclesiastical work. I would no sooner have him forbidden to moderate a convention than to deacon a church. And I would have such men in office that their presence in a convention should be a benefit to politics and a guaranty of fairness and purity, and then they should be left to do exactly what they choose and what the people choose to have them, as is the inalienable right of every American citizen. To conceive this seems to me the simple due to freedom; to exact more affixes the badge of servitude. Mr. Webster once said there was nothing so silly as masonry except anti-Masonry. It seems to me there is nothing so bad as to make political service the condition of holding office except political non-service.—Gail Hamilton.

THE PAY OF RAILROAD EMPLOYEES IN NEW ENGLAND.—On the Boston and Providence Railroad the conductors receive $1,000 per annum; the brakemen, $1.80 per day; firemen, $1 per day; and engineers, $3.38. In 1861 this road paid its engineer $2.50 and its firemen $1.25 per day.

The Old Colony & Newport pays to the conductors of its passenger trains $80 per month; engineers from $3.25 to $4 per day; brakemen, $1.75 per day; firemen, $1.80 per day; and baggage masters, $50 per month. In 1866 the engineers averaged $3.19 per day, the brakemen, $1.65 per day; the firemen, $1.75 per day, and the baggage masters, $1.75 per day.

The Boston & Lowell Railroad the conductors receive from $700 to $1,000 per year; baggage masters and brakemen, $45 per month.

The Boston & Maine pays its employees as follows: Conductors, from $750 to $1,000 per year, and brakemen from $35 to $45 per month.

On the Eastern road conductors are paid from $700 to $1,200 per year, and brakemen from $35 to $45 per month.

The Fitchburg road pay their conductors from $720 to $900 per year, and their brakemen from $35 to $52 per month.

The Boston & Albany Railroad engineers are paid $80 per month for the first year, after which they receive $90. The watchmen are paid from $1.35 to $1.60 per day, according to the location of their stations. The brakemen's wages range from $1.60 to $1.80 per day.

On the Connecticut River road there is not an engineer who is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The drivers of switch engines on short runs are paid $67.50 per month. On the Mount Tom branch the pay is $75 per month. The firemen and brakemen receive $40 per month for three months, after which time they receive $50.

The Erie road averaged in paying their engineers in 1876, $107.90 per month.

With the 10 per cent. reduction the pay now averages $64.57, and at the present time $58.12 per month.

Last year the New York Central engineers received $3.50 per 100 miles; it is now $3.15.

The average trips are about 150 miles, making the pay amount to $25.50, but which, with the present reduction, is $4.72 per day.

THE ART PRESERVATIVE OF ALL ARTS.—This familiar motto is from the inscription upon the facade of the house at Harlem formerly occupied by Lauren Koster or Coster, who is charged among others, with the invention of printing. Mention is first made of this inscription about 1628.

MEMORIE SACRUM

TYPOGRAPHIA

ARS ARTHUM OMNIVM

CONSERVATRIX

HIC PRIMUM INVENTA

CIRCA ANNUM MCCCLX

The Coronet Meant Business.—During the strike in Albany, while Coronet Fiz- henry of that city, who is a member of the Burgess Corp., was guarding the western end of the upper railroad bridge, a man attempted to pass the guard. The coroner commanded him to halt. "Who will stop me from going over this bridge?" asked the man. "I will," said the coroner. "Would you stop the likes of me, who voted for you for coroner?" The coroner replied: "I am put here to shoot, and I get thirty dollars for a corpse. If you don't leave I'll put a bullet through you."

Continued from first page.
been so kind and sweet, not stately and cold as she was to some people, but talking so gently to her, touching her cheek with soft, caressing hand, and calling her "dear child."

But that was dangerous ground, from which Lucia hurried quickly, as Elly was beginning, vehemently, "She could not help loving you—"

"But is that all you have of Lucia's?" she cried hastily.

"No," said Mr. Trevor. "There were some letters, written by her. I wanted you to them, and I have brought them."

Lucia sprang up quickly.

"And I have your uncle's letters," she cried. "Let us read them together."

So, in the soft lamplight, the two bright young heads bent together over those old, faded, yellow "love letters" of Lucia's and Cecil Elliot's.

How quaint and sweet hers were, with their pretty imperfect English, and graceful Italian phrases, their childish gaiety and caprices, and their undercurrent of genuine womanly tenderness! And his, how full of the deep, strong, undying love, with which he held this pretty creature sheltered in his heart.

"Ah, she did love him!" said Lucia looking up from the last of those tender little letters, her eyes dewy with unshealed tears. "I believe—don't you?—that they love each other, now in heaven."

"I hope so!" said Elliot. "He took the little hand, that rested on Lucia's letters, in his, and was looking at her, with grave, anxious eyes.

"Lucia, how could I bear it," he said, "if fate should part us? If you do not love me as dearly as I love you. Tell me, Lucia, my darling, do you love me at all?"

There was no need for Lucia to speak. One glance of her sweet, shining eyes, one shy, fluttering pressure of the little fingers on his, and Elliot Trevor knew she loved him, as tenderly, as truly, as Lucia had loved Cecil Elliot.

But Lucia," said the boy, "is the sweet, old story" is the same through all the ages! Just so, may Cecil Elliot have the beautiful, bright Lucia, and so her dark eyes may have given him their sweet answer through a mist of tears.

"But Lucia," said wondering little Ruth, when the lovers took her solemnly into their confidence, "I thought you meant to be a great singer and make a fortune!"

"I like this best, my little one," was Lucia's quiet answer. "This is my fortune."

"And you are going to Italy," pursued Ruth.

"We are going to Italy," said Mr. Trevor, smiling.

Something in the child's wistful eyes, brought Lucia's face down to hers, quickly.

"Do you think we will leave you behind, dear?" she asked tenderly, with her arms around her cousin.

Ruth gave a satisfied sigh, and rested her head contentedly on Lucia's shoulder.

"It is almost as good," she said presently, "as if you had found that to all Aunt Mercy's property."

"Almost!" said Lucia, gravely—and practical little Ruth wondered why. Mr. Trevor laughed just then, and stooped to kiss Lucia's hand, that he had taken. But then, Ruth, as yet, knew very little about lovers!

—Petersons for September.

ELECTRICITY FOR THE MILLION. AN ELECTRIC BATTERY FOR 25 CENTS.

SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER

This elegant preparation is prepared from the true Jamaican Ginger, combined with choice roots and aromatic Flavors, and is greatly superior to every other Extract or Essence of Ginger before the public—all of which are prepared with alcohol by the old process.

CHOLERA MORBUS,

Cramps, Diarrhea, and Dysentery are instantly relieved by it. It will render an attack of Cholera Morbus impossible if taken when the symptoms of this dangerous complaint first manifest themselves.

CRAMPS and PAINS

whether produced by indigestion, insomina, food, change of water or too free indulgence in ice cream, expostion to sudden change of temperature are immediately relieved by it. One ounce added to a gallon of and sweetened, forms a mixture which, as a cooling, healthy, and refreshing Summer Beverage, has no equal. Barrels of ice water, prepared in this way, will be sold at 25c per gallon.

ICE WATER

DYSPEPSIA,

Flatulence, Sluggish Digestion, want of Tone and Activity in the Stomach and Bowels; Oppression after Eating, are sure to be relieved by a single dose taken after each meal. A great saver exists for a

RESTORATIVE STIMULANT

from various diseases, or irritative of the system, to the patient's palate, which will create no mortification to self, and operate as an assistant to digestion, as well as perform the functions of a stimulant. Such we confidently believe is to be found in an elegant combination of the True Jamaican Ginger with the choicest aromatic roots and essences. It is beyond question the most valuable and efficacious Remedy for the cure of this disease.

SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER,

TRAINS FOR BOSTON LEAVE

On and after Monday, Aug. 18, 1877, from Upper Railways, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32

WOBURN JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1877.

NO. 34.

Florist.

S. W. Twombly & Sons,
FLORISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M.

At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M.

14

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODMAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M.

14

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

7 Court St., Boston, 179 Main St., Woburn,

10 A. M.—6 P. M., 9 A. M.—

Residence—Central House, Woburn.

Special attention given to equity, bankruptcy, cases, and various practice in the State Courts. Ac- counts adjusted, and general law business attended to,

with promptness and fidelity.

15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,

OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Resi- dence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Streets, Woburn.

16

A. B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

No. 4 Niles Block, Boston.

Entrance from Court Street and 33 School Street.

17

CHESTER W. CLARK,

General Collection Office,

61 COURT STREET,

BOSTON.

Room 2.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

18

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST.

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN.

73

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor.

Offices—Huse's Coal Office, Winchester.

Estate divided and laid out to the best advantage.

Streets surveyed and graded.

Work guaranteed to be accurate.

All order left on the slate will be promptly attended to.

35

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,

AUCTIONEER,

BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms.

Orders left at the JOURNAL Office, Woburn, promptly attended to.

39

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 13 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention.

40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE,

Fairmount Street, Woburn.

27

Miss A. A. Campbell,

desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY.

Terms reasonable to suit the times.

For particulars call at her residence.

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

29

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds.

Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,

Tampering and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 98, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to.

Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877.

78

James Buel & Co.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Bowers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work.

29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL.

J. R. FLINT.

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,

MAIN STREET, WOBURN,

LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light

and airy rooms, and a commodious dancing Hall and everything required by the traveling public.

Boards will also find good accommodations.

Special attention given to transient parties.

Hacks comes with all trains.

56

Business Cards.

JOHN G. MIGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M.

127

Now, what shall we do?

JOHN BRYANT,

PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSMONING,

PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn.

33

Now, what shall we do?

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED and DYED.

Felt Hats and Ladies Satins cleaned,

Winn Street, Woburn.

Next door to Hoge House.

84

Now, what shall we do?

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main street, promptly attended to.

36

Now, what shall we do?

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St.,

BOSTON.

86

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch.

Paints of all kinds constantly in hand.

Residence: Washington Street, Winchester.

—

T. A. B. NORRIS,

Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

133 No. 17 WINN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Now, what shall we do?

JOHN O. SYLVIAIR,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker,

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of JOINING

promptly attended to.

20

Residence, cor. Main and Mann Streets, Woburn.

—

George H. Conn,

INSURANCE AGENT,

NO. 101 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Now, what shall we do?

CENTRAL

WOBURN JOURNAL, SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1877.

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 304 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 25 cents. Reading notices, 25 cents a line. Special notices, 50 cents a line, 10 cents a line. Circular notices, 10 cents a line. The figures printed with the subscriber's name on this paper, show to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page	Col. No.
Freedom Notice—Kimball,	3 1 3
Particular Notice—	3 2 2
For Sale or To Let,	3 1 5
Preserve Your Sight,	3 1 8
Notice—	3 2 1
Grand Tent Fair,	3 2 1
Matchless Soap,	3 1 10
New Fish Market,	3 1 9
Raw Hide Seats,	3 1 9
Mortgage's Sale,	3 2 2

TOWN MEETING AUG. 20.

The Town Meeting warned for last Monday afternoon, was called to order by the Town Clerk, M. S. Seeley, Esq., and a ballot for Moderator was as follows:

Whole number of votes,	12
Samuel Butters,	1
T. H. Hill,	1
W. T. Grammer,	1
G. W. Norris,	2
Nathan Wyman,	4
A. E. Thompson,	4
John Cummings,	15

Mr. Wyman resigned his share of the votes, and Dr. Clough said he should decline if elected, because he did not feel competent to fill the position. A new ballot was ordered as follows:

Whole number of votes,	23
Samuel Butters,	1
T. H. Hill,	1
W. T. Grammer,	1
G. W. Norris,	2
Nathan Wyman,	4
A. E. Thompson,	4
John Cummings,	15

Mr. Cummings assumed the gavel and read

Art. 2. To see if the Town will take any action relative to the building of the Mystic Valley Sewer by the City of Boston, under the provisions of Chap. 202, Acts of 1875, and subsequent legislation relating thereto, or do anything in relation to the same.

John L. Parker offered the following motion: "That the Town of Woburn respectfully requests the City of Boston to confer with the Town of Woburn with a view to the enlargement of the Mystic Valley Sewer to a size sufficient to take the sewage of Woburn, in accordance with the terms of Chapter 202 of the Laws of 1875. And the Selectmen be a committee to carry this vote into effect, and report at an adjourned meeting." Mark Allen moved to amend by striking out the words "an adjourned" and inserting the words "a future," and his amendment was accepted by the mover.

Mr. Parker explained that the size of the sewer had been fixed by the city of Boston at ten inches in diameter at Woburn Centre and for a distance toward the outlet for a quarter of a mile, and then 15 inches for two miles through a drain pipe, and the balance of the way to the outlet through a brick sewer 26 by 28 inches. He said that it was evident that the size of the Mystic Valley Sewer, as at present established, would be altogether too small to accommodate the sewage of Woburn if a system should ever be established, and that this was the time to negotiate with Boston to construct the sewer of the size that would be necessary.

Wm. B. Harris referred to a time when he alleged that Mr. Choate said we should not need drainage for 40 years. He believed we could take care of our own waters. Some of the tanneries might be advantaged by drainage, but the town would not. Some of the young men may think they haven't got all the debt they can carry, but we old men don't want any more.

G. M. Champney inquired if the proposed sewer was sufficient when we shall convey sewage to the Mystic dam.

Mr. Cummings stated it was not large enough where it started.

Dr. Clough said that the facts so far as developed by sanitary people are sufficient to warrant Woburn in taking some steps in this matter. Filth and filthy diseases will be increased by the use of Horn Pond water if we have no drainage. We do not expect to have a general system at once, but we can commence with a little and then gradually increase it. The wonder is that Boston has not impounded Woburn to drain into her sewer. Her method is most extraordinary. Only two-thirds of the polluted water is to be drained and the other third is polluting Mystic water. The public health demands drainage, and he hoped this motion or its equivalent would prevail.

Frederick Flint called for a reading of the Act referred to, and after the clerk had read a portion of it he said that he was satisfied that this is an imperative necessity, and hoped the right course would be pursued to accomplish what is asked for.

John Johnson thought it was too late, and that Woburn could not enter the sewer except by permission of Boston. His attention was called to the clause of the Act in which Woburn may enter by permission of Boston, or on such terms as the Supreme Court shall make. After further remarks by Messrs. Clough and Champney the motion was carried with only one or two dissenting voices, and the meeting then dissolved.

WINTER AND SUMMER.—It will be seen that Thad. Parker at the venerable age of fourscore and four has taken a wife who has arrived at the mature age of forty-five. This is a union of winter and summer which is quite unusual.

Whoever looks on the water of Horn Pond when it is green, or smells it when it moveth itself aright, will be thankful that Woburn does not draw her supply from that place.

The question is, is it right for both of the town night watchmen to be together on Main street, and have they nothing better to do than spend their time with hand hose watering somebody's sidewalk at two o'clock in the morning?

The Selectmen meet this Friday evening to arrange for the carrying out of the vote of the town at its last meeting in regard to the Boston sewer.

ECLIPSE.—There was a total eclipse of the moon early Thursday evening. It was visible in Woburn.

SCHOOLS.—The public schools will open this year, on Monday, Sept. 3.

RESCUE FROM DROWNING.—The only daughter of Mr. Horace N. Hastings, of Lynn, narrowly escaped drowning last Friday. The many friends of the family in Woburn will read with interest the following account from the Lynn City Rec. of which Mr. Hastings is the editor:

The circumstances attending the rescue from drowning of Ethel A. Hastings, our daughter of fifteen, which occurred last week, are these:—Ethel was bathing at King's Beach, on Friday forenoon, 17th inst., with two young friends, none of the party being able to swim, the tide was going out, and, as it proved, there was a strong undercurrent. She was not beyond her usual depth when bathing, but probably was upon the bar which has been formed at the outlet of Stacey's brook, and stepped into deeper water at the point, where the current is made stronger by flowing around the bar. She was lifted off her feet and taken to the rear, when she was called, and continued to be carried further seaward with the ebb of the waves, which were running somewhat higher than usual. The loud calls for help by her companions seem not to have been heard on shore, or if heard were not heeded, owing doubtless to the fact that onteries from the bathers there are so strong that the fishermen on the beach have become accustomed to and do not mind them. Provisionally it happened that a fisherman was coming in from the fishing grounds, and had arrived within half a mile of the beach when we shall always have cause to remember with feelings of deep gratitude and thankfulness; he was accompanied by a small lad, and they heard the cry, "A girl is drowning!" and was pulled for her. He reached her as she was sinking for the third time, and, grasping her, lifted her into his dry, and she was saved. We cannot refrain from cautioning bathers, especially when unaccompanyed by those who can swim, against indulging in the practice when the tide is strongly receding, or the sea is boisterous. In this case in which we are so vitally interested, it will be seen that what was done was a little dear to us by the way spared. Indeed, Mr. Lewis informs us he was quite undecided on the morning whether to come in or not at the time he did, but finally determined on the former course of action, being guided in so doing, as it seems to us, by an all-wise power. Verily, little do we realize how near we live unto the valley and the shadow of death.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT BURGLARY.—Thus day night another attempt was made by burglars to enter the house No. 60 Mt. Pleasant St., occupied by C. E. Cooper and Mrs. Burt. An attempt was made to enter the front door with false keys, and Mrs. Burt's son was aroused. He went to call Mr. Cooper, when the burglars left. It was a bright moonlight at the time, and a man was seen making off through Green street, and although he was followed, he eluded pursuit. There is a mystery about these three attempts on that particular house that needs explanation. We understand that when Mr. Cooper took the house there were no keys to be found, and he has placed new locks and bolts on all the doors. With some of the neighbors he patrolled the vicinity for some time, and visited the center of the town and reported to the night watch. Under the old regime the night watch made at least one trip through the Highlands.

THE BOAT RACE.—The Ice House crew have issued a challenge to Thornton's crew to row on Horn Pond for $50, Saturday the 25th, at 5.30 P. M. Mr. Thornton this morning informed our reporter that he had just heard of the challenge and would assemble his crew this evening and decide what to do; for himself although the time was short he was willing to row on the terms of the challenge, which are that there should be two stake boats or the race be pulled against time. The Ice House men say they expect to go to another pond next week to work, and Saturday is the only day they can name. To-night decides whether or not the race will come off.

PROHIBITION.—There was a meeting of Prohibitionists Wednesday evening, at which Hiram Whitford presided, and G. W. Pollock was secretary. It was voted to send five delegates to the Prohibition State Convention, at Worcester, on the 12th of September. S. T. Eldridge, C. H. Hannaford and C. Wright were appointed a committee to nominate the delegates. They reported C. H. Hannaford, J. H. Nason, G. W. Pollock, Hiram Whitford and Samuel Cook. Their report was adopted, and the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the secretary.

CAPTAIN E. H. BRIGHAM.—During the thunder shower last Saturday, the lightning struck an oak tree on the Pollard farm on Vernon street, tearing off the limbs and throwing up a splinter several inches wide and about twelve feet long. It was thrown sixty feet from the tree. Luckily no one was near. Mr. F. W. Peak, the occupant of the farm, being about 200 feet away and was looking at it at the time.

TENT FAIR.—On Monday, Sept. 3, the Methodist Society at West Medford will commence a tent fair for the purpose of raising funds to free their chapel from debt. The pastor at that place, is Rev. J. A. Ames, at one time settled in Woburn, and well known in this town. The fair will be a decided novelty, the object is a very worthy one, a lady from Woburn, will have a prominent part in the enterprise, and we have no doubt many of our citizens will be glad to patronize it. See advertisement.

W. H. BRIGHAM.—We are always glad to notice worthy efforts in trade. Mr. H. F. Smith has by fair dealing and keeping a good selection of teas and coffees, built up a first class trade, and those who give him a call can be assured of getting the best goods in his line at the lowest cash prices.

A BAD FALL.—Last week Sunday, Mr. David Adams, formerly of Woburn, now living in Malden, lost his balance and fell backward out of a hammock in his doorway. He was taken up insensible, and on being restored to consciousness was found to have sustained a severe injury to his back. We are glad to learn that he has recovered from the shock.

MUSTER.—The Phalanx went off in good shape last Tuesday, for muster at Framingham. Capt. Richardson was alone in command, Lieut. Leslie going to camp later. The weather has been excellent and camp life pleasant. The Fifth is highly spoken of by members of the press who are on the ground all the time.

RAW HIDE SEATS.—W. H. Foster is introducing a new chair seat. It is made of thin strip of raw hide, resembling cane somewhat, but smoother, stronger and better. Old chairs re-seated with raw hide are better than new.

A NEW GRAND ARMY SCHEME.—A Philadelphian dispatch says a committee of the Grand Army of the Republic have gone to present a plan to Secretary Schurz, for the organization of a cordon of frontier posts to be garrisoned by veterans of the Rebellion, ready for active service whenever the Government shall call upon them. The plan includes donations by the Government of land, houses, supplies, etc., for the use of these frontiersmen.

FRUIT STEALERS.—There are eight fruit and vegetable thieves in custody, for stealing from McCrillis' garden on Salem street. They will be tried this afternoon.

SCHOOLS.—The public schools will open this year, on Monday, Sept. 3.

THE RIFLE.—There have been three contests at Walnut Hill the past week. Last Saturday Misses Wemys, Gerrish, and Salmon Wilder of Winchester, shot the three ranges in competition for the team which will represent Massachusetts in the inter-State match at Creedmoor. The result was Wemys, 190, Gerrish, 185, and Wilder, 141. On Tuesday another trial was had. The weather was an improvement on Saturday, and the men scored as follows: Gerrish, 212, Wemys, 190, C. C. Hebbard, 194; A. Hebbard, 175, A. H. Hebbard, 175, Winslow, 166, and Wilder, 151. On Thursday they shot for the Ballard mid range rifle which has been won twice by Jackson and twice by Lowell. Jackson made 117, C. C. Hebbard, 108, Shappard, 103, Wemys, 101, Gerrish, 98, Lord, 61, Ward, 87, Borden, 87. It is thought that some that Jackson, Wemys, Gerrish and C. C. Hebbard will compose the team to go to Creedmoor, but several other trials yet to be made, may change this slate.

THE RIFLE.—There have been three contests at Walnut Hill the past week. Last Saturday Misses Wemys, Gerrish, and Salmon Wilder of Winchester, shot the three ranges in competition for the team which will represent Massachusetts in the inter-State match at Creedmoor. The result was Wemys, 190, Gerrish, 185, and Wilder, 141. On Tuesday another trial was had. The weather was an improvement on Saturday, and the men scored as follows: Gerrish, 212, Wemys, 190, C. C. Hebbard, 194; A. Hebbard, 175, A. H. Hebbard, 175, Winslow, 166, and Wilder, 151. On Thursday they shot for the Ballard mid range rifle which has been won twice by Jackson and twice by Lowell. Jackson made 117, C. C. Hebbard, 108, Shappard, 103, Wemys, 101, Gerrish, 98, Lord, 61, Ward, 87, Borden, 87. It is thought that some that Jackson, Wemys, Gerrish and C. C. Hebbard will compose the team to go to Creedmoor, but several other trials yet to be made, may change this slate.

A NEW GRAND ARMY SCHEME.—A Philadelphian dispatch says a committee of the Grand Army of the Republic have gone to present a plan to Secretary Schurz, for the organization of a cordon of frontier posts to be garrisoned by veterans of the Rebellion, ready for active service whenever the Government shall call upon them. The plan includes donations by the Government of land, houses, supplies, etc., for the use of these frontiersmen.

FRUIT STEALERS.—There are eight fruit and vegetable thieves in custody, for stealing from McCrillis' garden on Salem street. They will be tried this afternoon.

SCHOOLS.—The public schools will open this year, on Monday, Sept. 3.

THE RIFLE.—There have been three contests at Walnut Hill the past week. Last Saturday Misses Wemys, Gerrish, and Salmon Wilder of Winchester, shot the three ranges in competition for the team which will represent Massachusetts in the inter-State match at Creedmoor. The result was Wemys, 190, Gerrish, 185, and Wilder, 141. On Tuesday another trial was had. The weather was an improvement on Saturday, and the men scored as follows: Gerrish, 212, Wemys, 190, C. C. Hebbard, 194; A. Hebbard, 175, A. H. Hebbard, 175, Winslow, 166, and Wilder, 151. On Thursday they shot for the Ballard mid range rifle which has been won twice by Jackson and twice by Lowell. Jackson made 117, C. C. Hebbard, 108, Shappard, 103, Wemys, 101, Gerrish, 98, Lord, 61, Ward, 87, Borden, 87. It is thought that some that Jackson, Wemys, Gerrish and C. C. Hebbard will compose the team to go to Creedmoor, but several other trials yet to be made, may change this slate.

A NEW GRAND ARMY SCHEME.—A Philadelphian dispatch says a committee of the Grand Army of the Republic have gone to present a plan to Secretary Schurz, for the organization of a cordon of frontier posts to be garrisoned by veterans of the Rebellion, ready for active service whenever the Government shall call upon them. The plan includes donations by the Government of land, houses, supplies, etc., for the use of these frontiersmen.

FRUIT STEALERS.—There are eight fruit and vegetable thieves in custody, for stealing from McCrillis' garden on Salem street. They will be tried this afternoon.

SCHOOLS.—The public schools will open this year, on Monday, Sept. 3.

THE RIFLE.—There have been three contests at Walnut Hill the past week. Last Saturday Misses Wemys, Gerrish, and Salmon Wilder of Winchester, shot the three ranges in competition for the team which will represent Massachusetts in the inter-State match at Creedmoor. The result was Wemys, 190, Gerrish, 185, and Wilder, 141. On Tuesday another trial was had. The weather was an improvement on Saturday, and the men scored as follows: Gerrish, 212, Wemys, 190, C. C. Hebbard, 194; A. Hebbard, 175, A. H. Hebbard, 175, Winslow, 166, and Wilder, 151. On Thursday they shot for the Ballard mid range rifle which has been won twice by Jackson and twice by Lowell. Jackson made 117, C. C. Hebbard, 108, Shappard, 103, Wemys, 101, Gerrish, 98, Lord, 61, Ward, 87, Borden, 87. It is thought that some that Jackson, Wemys, Gerrish and C. C. Hebbard will compose the team to go to Creedmoor, but several other trials yet to be made, may change this slate.

A NEW GRAND ARMY SCHEME.—A Philadelphian dispatch says a committee of the Grand Army of the Republic have gone to present a plan to Secretary Schurz, for the organization of a cordon of frontier posts to be garrisoned by veterans of the Rebellion, ready for active service whenever the Government shall call upon them. The plan includes donations by the Government of land, houses, supplies, etc., for the use of these frontiersmen.

FRUIT STEALERS.—There are eight fruit and vegetable thieves in custody, for stealing from McCrillis' garden on Salem street. They will be tried this afternoon.

SCHOOLS.—The public schools will open this year, on Monday, Sept. 3.

THE RIFLE.—There have been three contests at Walnut Hill the past week. Last Saturday Misses Wemys, Gerrish, and Salmon Wilder of Winchester, shot the three ranges in competition for the team which will represent Massachusetts in the inter-State match at Creedmoor. The result was Wemys, 190, Gerrish, 185, and Wilder, 141. On Tuesday another trial was had. The weather was an improvement on Saturday, and the men scored as follows: Gerrish, 212, Wemys, 190, C. C. Hebbard, 194; A. Hebbard, 175, A. H. Hebbard, 175 and brilliant gathering. But we must draw these summer rambles to a close, and wind our way homeward with a rich collection of remembrances of what we have seen, to be often recalled and dwelt upon with the greatest satisfaction. We shall return from here over the Eastern railroad, and hope soon to be in the midst of scenes though not so grand as here, yet beautiful in our own eyes.

EXCELSIOR.

GRAND
Tent Fair and Festival.

The Ladies of Trinity M. E. Church.

WEST MEDFORD

will hold a Fair for the benefit of their church, in one of Yale's Mammoth Tents, near the depot, commencing Saturday evening, September 3d,

Monday Evening, September 3d, and continuing afternoon and evening on the 4th. Fancy and serviceable, Ice-Cream, Oysters, French, &c. will be sold at reasonable prices. The expeditions so often adopted at Fairs to raise money, such as raffles, guessing, &c., will be rigidly excluded. A man of high and literary entertainment will be given each evening.

Admission 15 Cts. Children 10 Cts.

Parties contributing fancy and useful articles will confer a favor by leaving them at the Chapel, Friday, August 31st, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Contributions to the dining department can be left at the Tent on Sunday morning, September 2d, there will be preaching in the Tent at 10:45 A. M. At 12 M. there will be a service in the Tent. Rev. Dr. A. Winn, D. D., Rev. W. F. Mathewson, D. D., Miss H. J. Masters, of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and John A. Laine, a reformed man of East Cambridge, will address the meeting.

15

SENSIBLE ADVICE.—You are asked every day through the columns of newspapers and by your Druggist to use something for your Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that you know nothing about, you get discouraged spending money with but little success. Now to give you satisfactory proof that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER will cure you of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint with the effects of a strong sour-stomach. It is the original Hospital Compound, polisher of the Heart, Heartburn, Water-brash, Fullness at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, swimming of the head, low spirits, &amp;c., we ask you to go to your Druggist, W. W. Hill, and get a Sample Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 10 cents and try it; or a regular size for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you.

Married.

WOBURN, August 16th, by Rev. C. H. Hanford, Mr. Charles D. Onion to Mrs. Mary E. Sine, all of Woburn.

In Woburn, August 22d, by Rev. N. R. Wright, Mr. Thaddeus Parker, of Winchester, and Mrs. May Jane Gage, of Bath, Maine.

Died.
Date, name, and age, inserted free; all other notices 10 cents a line.

In Woburn, August 18th, James, son of Timothy and Hester Shattuck, aged 9 months and 4 days.

In Woburn, August 17th, Anna, daughter of John and Ann Connolly, aged 1 year and 8 months.

173

J. F. DELAND, Clerk.

NOTICE.

The annual meeting of the Woburn Lyceum Hall Association, will be held in the rear room, Lyceum Hall Building (entrance between Bank Block and Lyceum Hall building) in Woburn, on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1877, at 7 o'clock P. M., to choose officers for said Association for the ensuing year, and to transact all other business that may legally come before said meeting.

174

J. C. WHITCHER.

Woburn, Aug. 20, 1877. 168

FREEDOM NOTICE.

Woburn, Mass., Aug. 16, 1877.
I hereby give notice that I have given my sons Robert B. and Charles A. Kimball, their time to trade and act for themselves, and shall claim none of their earnings nor pay any debts or services due them.

167

HENRY A. KIMBALL.

FREEDOM NOTICE.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he has given his son John O'Donnell his time to do business on his own account, and I shall not claim any of his earnings, or pay any bills of his contracting after this date.

175

JOHN O'DONNELL.

Woburn, Aug. 15, 1877.

F. S. BURGESS.

NOTICE.

The undersigned will keep on hand at SMITH'S TEA STORE.

154 Main Street, Woburn.

BOSTON BREAD.

Fresh every day; extra large loaves. Please call and examine.

155 ELI COOPER,

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

PROBATE COURT.

MIDDLESEX, ss.

To all persons interested in the estate of Cynthia H. Richards, late of Woburn, in said County, deceased:

GREETING:

WHEREAS, Daniel H. Richards, the Executor of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the time and salary account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County, on the first Tuesday in September next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any have, why the same should not be allowed. And said executor shall then to appear at the Probate Court, in Woburn, the same week in the Woburn Journal, a newspaper printed at Woburn, three weeks successively, for the purpose of publishing to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George M. Brooks, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

161

J. H. TYLER, Register.

TO LET.

Cottage House of 9 rooms, large lot of land, great variety of fruit. Situated on Franklin street. For particulars, enquire of E. F. WILKINSON, Mr. Green and Mr. Pleasant, 164.

PRESERVE YOUR SIGHT, AND WEAR ROSENBERG'S PERFECTED BRILLIANT

Trade: R. B. —Mark.

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

MANUFACTURED AT HARTFORD, CT.

And acknowledged by all to have reached a degree of excellence unequalled by any other, perfectly suited to the eye. Every pair warranted to be of the best quality, and less stamped R. B. B. and C. S. D. D. G. 171.

Pharmaceutical Chemist and Apothecary.

165 Main Street, Woburn. No Peddlers employed.

SOMETHING NEW!

Raw Hide Chair Seats.

BETTER LOOKING,

Easier, more Durable

THAN CANE SEATS.

OLD CHAIRS RE-SEATED

W. H. FOSTER,

202 Main Street, Woburn.

(Up Stairs.) 177

THE

MATCHLESS SOAP HAS

arrived and all those holding checks, who cannot get them redeemed at their grocer, can have them re-deemed by

174

ALEX. ELLIS.

For Sale at Wholesale by him.

New Fish Market.

J. H. RIGGS,

6 Railroad Street.

will furnish the citizens of Woburn, the best quality of all kinds of fish at reasonable prices. A share of patrofage is respectively solicited

172

J. BAIRD,

21 Paper Boxes,

Color, Paper, Small Chromo, and

Scrap Books, Pictures, Scrap Books, Borders, Papersters, &amp;c., &amp;c., &amp;c., &amp;c.

21 PRANCES CARDS.

Bedford Street, Boston.

21

Largest Stock! Lowest Prices!

151

We shall offer this week

PLAIN CAMBRIC SUITS for $3.00.

In Brown, Black, Navy Blue, and Dark Green.

We sold these Goods last month for $5.00.

C. A. SMITH &amp; SON,

177 Main Street, Woburn.

KID GLOVES!

KID GLOVES!

We are now prepared to show a full assortment of our

in the NEW FALL SHADES, and also in BLACK. We especially recommend this glove to our customers as the best.

Best Dollar Glove

EVER SHOW IN TOWN.

IT will be found nowhere else, and for beauty of finish and great elasticity, it will challenge comparison with any of the leading makes of gloves. We shall keep a full assortment and shall be pleased to show them to our customers. We have also in stock

SUPERIOR KID GLOVES AT 75 CTS.

—AND—

GOOD KID GLOVES AT 50 CTS.

Which will be found of good value.

We are constantly in receipt of New Goods, and our patrons will do well to call on us before making their purchases in our line of goods.

CALL AND EXAMINE OUR GOODS AND PRICES.

110 F. S. BURGESS.

Fernald's New Store

UNDER LYCEUM HALL,

No. 185 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

PROBATE COURT.

MIDDLESEX, ss.

To all persons interested in the estate of Cynthia H. Richards, late of Woburn, in said County, deceased:

GREETING:

WHEREAS, Daniel H. Richards, the Executor of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the time and salary account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County, on the first Tuesday in September next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any have, why the same should not be allowed. And said executor shall then to appear at the Probate Court, in Woburn, the same week in the Woburn Journal, a newspaper printed at Woburn, three weeks successively, for the purpose of publishing to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George M. Brooks, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

162

J. H. TYLER, Register.

TO LET.

Cottage House of 9 rooms, large lot of land, great variety of fruit. Situated on Franklin street. For particulars, enquire of E. F. WILKINSON, Mr. Green and Mr. Pleasant.

163

P. F. WHITING, & Co.

164

TRADE: R. B. —Mark.

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

MANUFACTURED AT HARTFORD, CT.

And acknowledged by all to have reached a degree of excellence unequalled by any other, perfectly suited to the eye. Every pair warranted to be of the best quality, and less stamped R. B. B. and C. S. D. D. G. 171.

Pharmaceutical Chemist and Apothecary.

165 Main Street, Woburn. No Peddlers employed.

SOMETHING NEW!

Raw Hide Chair Seats.

BETTER LOOKING,

Easier, more Durable

THAN CANE SEATS.

OLD CHAIRS RE-SEATED

W. H. FOSTER,

202 Main Street, Woburn.

(Up Stairs.) 177

THE

MATCHLESS SOAP HAS

arrived and all those holding checks, who cannot get them redeemed at their grocer, can have them re-deemed by

174

ALEX. ELLIS.

For Sale at Wholesale by him.

New Fish Market.

J. H. RIGGS,

6 Railroad Street.

will furnish the citizens of Woburn, the best quality of all kinds of fish at reasonable prices. A share of patrofage is respectively solicited

172

J. BAIRD,

21 Paper Boxes,

Color, Paper, Small Chromo, and

Scrap Books, Pictures, Scrap Books, Borders, Papersters, &c., &c., &c., &c., &c.

21 PRANCES CARDS.

Bedford Street, Boston.

21

OLIVER DITSON & CO.,

BOSTON.

Call and examine, or send for Circular.

H. S. WILLIAMS, Manager,

112 24 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

$6.00

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1877.

NO. 35.

Florists.

S. W. Twombly & Sons,
FLORISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODHILL, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler,
10 A. M., 1 P. M., 2 P. M., 3 P. M.

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
7 Court St., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 P. M., 2 P. M., 3 P. M.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy
cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and all law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—53 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 17
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 Niles Block, Boston.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 School Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, 18
Room 2, BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of
the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST.
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—HUSE'S COAL OFFICE, WINCHESTER.
Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.
Streets surveyed and graded.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 55

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS.
Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL of the day, Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss J. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE.
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to uit the times. For particulars call at her residence,
No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.
Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shafing,
Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,
Tandem and Curving Shops fitted up at short notice. 97, 99, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.
All orders promptly attended to. Partnership formed January 1st, 1877. 53

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
STEAM ENGINES,
Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

Hotel & Restaurants.

Central House,
MAIN STREET, WOBURN,
LEE HAMMOND, Proprietor.

This old established House contains 50 light and airy rooms, and a commodious dining Hall and everything required by the traveling public. Boards will also find good accommodations. Special attention given to transient parties. Hacks connect with
all trains. 56

KEROSENE OIL STOVES,
A COMPLETE
Apparatus for Cooking

At less than one quarter the expense of
WOOD and COAL,
FOR SALE BY

L. THOMPSON, Jr.,
Dealer in
Hardware, Cutlery,
Cooking and Parlor Stoves,

Manufacturer of 58
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,
213 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.

Business Cards.

JOHN G. MIGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.
Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7, to 9 P. M. 12

Poetical Selection.

A BUTTERCUP.

A little yellow buttercup
Stood laughing in the sun;
The grass all green around it,
The summer just begun;
Its saucy little head abrim
With happiness and fun.

Near by—grown old, and gone to seed,
A dandelin grew;
To right and left with every breeze
His snows tresses flew.
He shook his hoary head, and said:
"I've some advice for you."

"Don't think, because you're yellow now,
That golden days will last;
I was as gay as any man ever,
But now my youth is past.
This day will be my last to bloom:
The hours are going fast."

"Perhaps your fun may last a week,
But then you'll have to die."
The dandelin ceased to speak,
A breeze that crept by Stretched all the white hairs from his head,
And wafted them on high.

His yellow neighbor first looked sad,
Then, clearing up, he said:
"It's one's to live in fear of death,
One might as well be dead."
The little buttercup laughed on,
And waved his golden head.

—St. Nicholas for September.

Selected Story.

A BAD FIX.

What a sigh that was! not noisy, but profound and eloquent at once of an old grief and a fresh perplexity. Bob Withers, the gentleman in his shirt sleeves before the mirror, had heaved that sigh every night for ten years, simultaneously with the act of removing from his head the fine chestnut wig which concealed the almost complete destitution of the natural covering. The grief is therefore an old one, but an element of perplexity has mingled with this mighty sigh more lately—namely, since having won and won Angie McLane in his wig, he has been screwing up his courage to the point of revealing to her that it is a wig, as he has put it off, and put it off, never finding just the right opportunity for the confession, until now the wedding day is but a month off, and the task seems harder, more impossible than ever. He is at present spending a couple of days at the house of the McLanes in the country, with a view to getting acquainted with the family. For the sake of enjoying unalloyed the pleasures of Angie's society for this short time, he has compromised with his conscience by resolving at once on leaving to write to her and tell the truth, and by no means to procrastinate further.

Perhaps long gazing at the fire had dazed his eyes, or perhaps his haste, together with an undue confidence in his skill in navigation by dead reckoning, rendered him less careful than when he had come down. However that may be, a light-stand which he had easily avoided then, he now blundered fully upon.

Everybody knows that when one stubs the toe in the dark, instead of delivering the blow when the foot is moving slowest, at the beginning or end of the step, it always happens that the toe strikes it with the maximum momentum. So it happened this time. If Bob had been kicking football he could not have made a more ridiculous of force, and the shock sent the stand completely over.

It would have made noise enough anyhow, but it must happen that on this stand the family silver was laid out for breakfast, and the clanger was similar to that of Apollo's silver bow, that time he let fly at the Grecian host before Troy.

Bob stood paralyzed with horror. Even the anguish of a terribly-stubbed toe was forgotten in an overpowering sense of the awful mess he had made, and the unimaginable consequences that would at once ensue. As the hideous clanging and clatter rang through the house, shattering its sacred silence, he shrank together and made himself small, as if he could impart sympathetic shrinkage to the noise. The racket to his own ears was splitting enough, but he felt, in addition, as if he heard it with all the ears of the family, and he wilted before the conception of the feelings that were at that moment starting up in their minds towards the unknown cause of it.

His first rational idea was to bolt for his room, and gain it before any one was fairly aroused. But the shock had so shattered his wits that he could not recollect his bearings, and he realized with indescribable sensations, that he was lost. He consumed precious moments moments bumping himself all about the room before he found the right door.

As he reached the foot of the staircase, voices were audible above, and lights were gleaming down. His retreat was cut off; he could not get back to his room without being discovered. He now distinguished the voice of Mrs. McLane in an agitated tone entreating somebody to be careful and not get shot, the gruff voices of the brothers responding, and then their steps rapidly descending the stairs. Should he go up and take the risk of a bullet while announcing himself? It would make a pretty tableau. Presenting himself in such a guise and under such circumstances, what sort of a reception could he expect from John, who treated him with undisguised contempt in the drawing-room, and whose study it was to place him at a disadvantage? He might have hesitated longer, but at this moment the voice of Angie, crying down to her brothers to be careful, decided him. He could not face her under such terribly false circumstances, and without his wig.

All this took place far quicker than I can write it. The glimmer of the descending lamp already shone dimly in the hall, and in the course of his tossings he became aware that his seal-ring was not on his finger, and instantly remembered that, after using it for a forfeit in a parlor game that evening, he had forgotten to replace it. Vexation at his carelessness instantly made him wide awake. The ring must be on the library table. If not, then he knew not where. And, if there, it might be picked up by a servant in the morning. Associations made it invaluable, and he found himself so uneasy about its safety that he could not sleep. Perhaps the best thing he could do was to quietly step down stairs in his stockings without waking anybody, and make sure about it. He knew that he could, even in the dark, steer his way straight to the library. In his sleepless, excited state of mind the slight tinge of adventure in his plan had an attraction.

Jumping out of bed he put on a part of his clothes, and, softly opening the door of his room, went across the hall and down the stairs to the ground floor. It was quite dark, but he found his way easily, having a good topographic instinct. From the lower hall he entered the dining room, and from that the library. The sea-coal fire in the grate was still flickering brightly, illuminating the sumptuously furnished room with a faint, soft glow of peculiar rich effect.

There on the table his ring glittered in the fitful firelight, and as he slipped it on his finger, he felicitated himself on his successful enterprise. The room was so charmingly cozy, that he felt it would be a sinnot to linger awhile. So, throwing himself on a sofa before the grate, he fell into a delightful reverie.

Just there, in that chair, Angie had sat during the evening, and there he pictured her again, finally going and leaning over it in a caressing attitude, fondly cheating himself. Over there had sat Mrs. McLane, and the chair back at once transfixed him with two critical eyes, till he was fain to look away. The brothers were there and there.

Bob chuckled with a coy sense of surreptitiousness as he thought how the world would stare could they see him now. The subtle pleasure of clandestine things is doubtless partly the exaggeration of the personality which takes place as the pressure is painful when such minds are hostile, and often irksome even when they are friendly, if not in perfect accord. So that now it was with a positively voluptuous sensation that his personality expanded till it filled and felt the whole room.

The fire burned, and busily flew the shutters of his fancy, weaving once again the often varied patterns of the future. Those shutters had little leisure nowadays, for all the web must be unraveled and woven, that through it all might run the golden thread of Angie's love. How rarely did it light up the whole room.

The fire burned, and busily flew the shutters of his fancy, weaving once again the often varied patterns of the future. Those shutters had little leisure nowadays, for all the web must be unraveled and woven, that through it all might run the golden thread of Angie's love. How rarely did it light up the whole room.

The bronze mantel clock sounded with a silver tinkle the hour of two, but the sound fell apparently unheeded on the ear of the dreamer. It was a full minute before the impression reached his mind. There are times when the thoughts throb so that each new sensation has to take its place in the cue and wait its turn to get attention. Then he stirred and roused himself, emerging reluctantly from the warm, voluptuous atmosphere of imagination, as one leaves an evocating bath. He had been lying thus a full hour, and it was high time to return to bed. He left the library and started across the dining room with a hasty step.

Perhaps long gazing at the fire had dazed his eyes, or perhaps his haste, together with an undue confidence in his skill in navigation by dead reckoning, rendered him less careful than when he had come down. However that may be, a light-stand which he had easily avoided then, he now blundered fully upon.

Everybody knows that when one stubs the toe in the dark, instead of delivering the blow when the foot is moving slowest, at the beginning or end of the step, it always happens that the toe strikes it with the maximum momentum. So it happened this time. If Bob had been kicking football he could not have made a more ridiculous of force, and the shock sent the stand completely over.

It would have made noise enough anyhow, but it must happen that on this stand the family silver was laid out for breakfast, and the clanger was similar to that of Apollo's silver bow, that time he let fly at the Grecian host before Troy.

Bob stood paralyzed with horror. Even the anguish of a terribly-stubbed toe was forgotten in an overpowering sense of the awful mess he had made, and the unimaginable consequences that would at once ensue. As the hideous clanging and clatter rang through the house, shattering its sacred silence, he shrank together and made himself small, as if he could impart sympathetic shrinkage to the noise. The racket to his own ears was splitting enough, but he felt, in addition, as if he heard it with all the ears of the family, and he wilted before the conception of the feelings that were at that moment starting up in their minds towards the unknown cause of it.

His first rational idea was to bolt for his room, and gain it before any one was fairly aroused. But the shock had so shattered his wits that he could not recollect his bearings, and he realized with indescribable sensations, that he was lost. He consumed precious moments moments bumping himself all about the room before he found the right door.

As he reached the foot of the staircase, voices were audible above, and lights were gleaming down. His retreat was cut off; he could not get back to his room without being discovered. He now distinguished the voice of Mrs. McLane in an agitated tone entreating somebody to be careful and not get shot, the gruff voices of the brothers responding, and then their steps rapidly descending the stairs. Should he go up and take the risk of a bullet while announcing himself? It would make a pretty tableau. Presenting himself in such a guise and under such circumstances, what sort of a reception could he expect from John, who treated him with undisguised contempt in the drawing-room, and whose study it was to place him at a disadvantage? He might have hesitated longer, but at this moment the voice of Angie, crying down to her brothers to be careful, decided him. He could not face her under such terribly false circumstances, and without his wig.

All this took place far quicker than I can write it. The glimmer of the descending lamp already shone dimly in the hall, and in the course of his tossings he became aware that his seal-ring was not on his finger, and instantly remembered that, after using it for a forfeit in a parlor game that evening, he had forgotten to replace it. Vexation at his carelessness instantly made him wide awake. The ring must be on the library table. If not, then he knew not where. And, if there, it might be picked up by a servant in the morning. Associations made it invaluable, and he found himself so uneasy about its safety that he could not sleep. Perhaps the best thing he could do was to quietly step down stairs in his stockings without waking anybody, and make sure about it. He knew that he could, even in the dark, steer his way straight to the library. In his sleepless, excited state of mind the slight tinge of adventure in his plan had an attraction.

Jumping out of bed he put on a part of his clothes, and, softly opening the door of his room, went across the hall and down the stairs to the ground floor. It was quite dark, but he found his way easily, having a good topographic instinct. From the lower hall he entered the dining room, and from that the library. The sea-coal fire in the grate was still flickering brightly, illuminating the sumptuously furnished room with a faint, soft glow of peculiar rich effect.

There on the table his ring glittered in the fitful firelight, and as he slipped it on his finger, he felicitated himself on his successful enterprise. The room was so charmingly cozy, that he felt it would be a sinnot to linger awhile. So, throwing himself on a sofa before the grate, he fell into a delightful reverie.

Just there, in that chair, Angie had sat during the evening, and there he pictured her again, finally going and leaning over it in a caressing attitude, fondly cheating himself. Over there had sat Mrs. McLane, and the chair back at once transfixed him with two critical eyes, till he was fain to look away. The brothers were there and there.

Bob chuckled with a coy sense of surreptitiousness as he thought how the world would stare could they see him now. The subtle pleasure of clandestine things is doubtless partly the exaggeration of the personality which takes place as the pressure is painful when such minds are hostile, and often irksome even when they are friendly, if not in perfect accord. So that now it was with a positively voluptuous sensation that his personality expanded till it filled and felt the whole room.

The latter now entered the library; and peering over the edge of the bookcase, Bob recognized with a singular sensation the two gentlemen with whom he had been quietly conversing a little earlier in the evening. They were arrayed in faultless evening dress, and their manner, although superficially enough, was calm and polished. Now he saw them half dressed, with dishevelled hair—Bob carrying a student lamp in his left hand, and in his right an ugly-looking cane—Bob with a blade painfully naked, while George held a revolver at full cock.

Taking in a low tone as they called one another's attention to various spots where possibly the burglar might be concealed, they went slowly from corner to corner, probing every recess with the sword, and in an attitude of strained attention to every sound. Their faces, grotesquely lit by the mingled fire and lamp light, showed a fierce hunter's look that made Bob fairly sick.

He did not dare to look at them long lest the magnetism of his gaze should attract their involuntary attention. Nay, he even made a frantic effort not to think of them, from the fear that some physical current might have the same effect—for he believed strongly, though vaguely, in the mysteries of animal magnetism, and had a notion that a person sensitive to such influences might detect the presence of his victim by the very terror the latter had of him.

He could scarcely believe his fortune, when, a moment later, the two brothers passed again beneath him back into the dining-room.

From there they went on through the rooms beyond, and the sound of their footsteps died away entirely.

Perhaps five minutes after, they returned—that is, as far as the dining-room—and Bob gathered from their conversation that they had found one of the fastenings in the basement in a condition indicating that the burglar might have escaped there.

Mrs. McLane and Angie, having satisfied themselves that the coast was clear, descended to the dining room, and a lively discussion of all aspects of the problem ensued, which was highly edifying to Bob.

Then the conversation became still more interesting, as it turned on himself. He heard Mrs. McLane saying:—

</

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass. Contributions solicited.

406.

RADIATED ECCENTRIC ACROSTIC.

By EAGLE EYE.

A man's name; a city in South America; a town in Maine; a man's name; a rule.

The words having the above significations must be arranged in a square, so that a certain river in the United States may be read from the centre to each corner.

407.

CURTAILMENT.

By HARRY A. MILTON.

If a certain insect you curtail,
An animal you'll have without fail.

408.

WORDS SQUARE.

By GEO. G. RAYH.

A river of Spain; a river of Russia; a town of Persia.

409.

PUZZLE.

By LONNIE.
50-0-5-1000-E

50-0-5-1000-E

410.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

By W. L. K.
My 1, 2, 3, 4 is a harbor,
My 5, 6, 7 is a person,
My 8, 9, 10 is a supper,
My 11 is a letter,
My whole is a bag for clothes.

411.

DIAMOND.

By WINEGAR.

In Benjamin; a relative; a vial; a welcome visitor; reason; to consume, reversed; in Franklin.

412.

PROGRESSIVE WORDS SQUARE.

By KUEE KUSS.

A coin; a fish; a tree.

413.

PRIZE GEOGRAPHICAL RHOMBOID.

By SCRAPS.

Across: A town in Delaware; a town in Ohio; a town in Hungary; a town in France; a market town of France where Henry II defeated the Spaniards in 1554.

Down: The end of animals; a nickname; a city of Central Asia; a town in Illinois; a river of France; a river of England; a city of China; an abbrev.; in New York.

Eastern Star one year for every correct solution.

414.

TRIPLE CROSS WORD ENIGMA.

By NUTMEG.

In omnibus, not in van.
In kelp, not in tan.
In bear, not in pig.
In great; not in big.
In kettle, not in pan.
Three fish, find if you can.

415.

DOUBLE DIAGONAL.

By CUTE.

Diagonals down: A town of Texas, and a town in Penn.

Across: A town of France; a river of Ireland; a fruit; an island in the Malay Archipelago; a male name.

ANSWERS.

396.

HORSE-HOSE

397.

S

A C T

S C A U P

T U B

P

398.

W R I T E, Right, rite, wright.

Thrown, throne.

Roan, roun, Rhone.

399.

I N E R T

N E V E R

E V A D E

R E D A N

T R E N D

400.

B R Y A N T

R E A C H

Y A L E

A C E

N H

401.

E L I

G A R D E N A N E M O N E

A N N

E A T O N

G I R A F F E

D A V E N P O R T

C A L Y C A N T H U S

402.

I L Z A

L E O N

Z O R N

A N N I

403.

R

F E D

O N E

F O R E B O W

R E N E G A D E S

D E B A T E D

O D E

W E D

404.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

405.

Burt.

P R I Z E S.

Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Boston Weekly Globe for second complete list.

Eastern Star one year for all other complete list.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

EDITOR'S DESK.

PRIZE WINNERS. No. 392. H. A. FOSTER.

TE. NO. 393, BROWNE.

EAGLE EYE. Your contribution received it is X.

WINEGAR. Yours nearly exhausted, please replenish.

BROWNE. We miss your kinks each week.

RONNIE. A few from you will be in order.

EAGLE EYE would be pleased to hear from all puzzlers. His department in Young America is ably edited. Address W. H. GLEASON, Dedham, Mass.

THE OLD BASE-BALLER.—The doctors don't think Mr. Wrightfield could last much longer. He was failing rapidly, and they thought that in a few days he would pass away quietly and painlessly. He was able, on pleasant days, to be carried out on the sunny porch, where he could sit in his arm-chair, and listen to the shouts that came up from the distant base ball grounds, and his eyes would brighten as he heard the old familiar sounds. Sometimes the boys would come down and talk to him, after the game was over, and it would make him cheerful and happy for hours afterward, and he would chatter about the grand old games they used to have when he was centre field in the "Wonderfuls," and the season he played behind the bat for the "Fearfuls," and the year he was short-stop for the "Dreadfuls," and the season he stood as second base for the "Awfuls." But still he grew no better, and he babbled about the old times, and mourned over the changes, and wished he was young and strong again, and could play just one more game before he went out forever.

Well, the boys heard of it, and one Saturday afternoon they went down and laid out the grounds as well as they could so as to bring the striker's place right in front of the invalid's chair, and told him they were going to let him play behind the bat for both nine in a little practice game. Well, sir, the old man braced right up, and he made his wife take off his coat, although it was enough to kill him right there, before he would let the ball go to the pitcher. Then he got started at last, and the pitcher tossed him an easy one, and the man at the bat just ducked it enough to make an easy foul of it, and dropped it right into Mr. Wrightfield's hands, but the old man saw through it, and got furious, and when the umpire called, "Out on foul; man to bat," he wouldn't have a bit of it, and yelled at the pitcher as loud as he could with his feeble, quivering voice, "to send 'em red hot, and put a twist on 'em." He wasn't going to play a minute if they was going to baffle him, he said, when he's forgotten how to play base-ball a dozen times before any of them ever saw or heard of a piece of toast and garnished with parsley.

Well, the upshot of it was, that they had to humor him to keep him from going off in a fit of hysterics; and the next ball that the pitcher shot in came like a meteor, whizzed past the striker's head, and, when the old man took it, it broke two of his fingers. He just yelled with delight, and the boys' eyes stood right out of their heads when he stood right up on his feet. Then they rushed in on him, soothed him in the pit of the stomach with a brick, bathed him on the head with a bucket of water, and then he stood right up on his feet again, and they were pleased to see that he had not slept at all, so he said. But becoming known directly in camp that he made such pretensions, it aroused the curiosity of many of the men and officers, and they set a watch upon him. I am told by a colonel that he and many others lost a great many nights' sleep, and that he was a great trial to the men of the Fourth he was never caught asleep. He stood guard night after night, and week after week, paid by sleepy-headed soldiers to take their turns, but never was caught napping. He hauled coal several weeks in succession, only stopping long enough to eat and change horses, and ploughed in the field with five or six stalwart men until he wore them out completely, but never seemed to tire. During the year 1863, I think it was, he went to Philadelphia and was examined by the leading physicians of the country. They sat up with him in relays of fire, night and day, and kept up an almost constant stream of conversation with him, and at the termination of twenty-nine days discharged him with a certificate, but could give no explanation of this freak of nature. Many stories of the untiring energy and activity of this man are told, and all agree who know him that this antipode of Rip Van Winkle is the most sleepless man they ever met. Mr. Saunders is now 56 years of age, and says that he has not known what sleep is for 18 years. He himself cannot account for it, as he says the change in his physical organization occurred within three days, and that he never was sick in his life and took medicine but once, and that was when he had a catarrh, about three years ago. He is a hale, hearty man, and bids fair to live many years yet. He is conscientiously opposed to making a display of himself, or doubt would long ago have been before the public as one of the human curiosities of the world.—Letter from Parkersburg, W. Va.

A SLEEPLESS MAN.—The man who does not sleep, Saunders, now resides near this place. Some time in 1861 or 1862 Saunders enlisted in the Fourth Virginia volunteers. For several years he had not slept at all, so he said. But becoming known directly in camp that he made such pretensions, it aroused the curiosity of many of the men and officers, and they set a watch upon him. I am told by a colonel that he and many others lost a great many nights' sleep, and that he was a great trial to the men of the Fourth he was never caught asleep. He stood guard night after night, and week after week, paid by sleepy-headed soldiers to take their turns, but never was caught napping. He hauled coal several weeks in succession, only stopping long enough to eat and change horses, and ploughed in the field with five or six stalwart men until he wore them out completely, but never seemed to tire. During the year 1863, I think it was, he went to Philadelphia and was examined by the leading physicians of the country. They sat up with him in relays of fire, night and day, and kept up an almost constant stream of conversation with him, and at the termination of twenty-nine days discharged him with a certificate, but could give no explanation of this freak of nature. Many stories of the untiring energy and activity of this man are told, and all agree who know him that this antipode of Rip Van Winkle is the most sleepless man they ever met. Mr. Saunders is now 56 years of age, and says that he has not known what sleep is for 18 years. He himself cannot account for it, as he says the change in his physical organization occurred within three days, and that he never was sick in his life and took medicine but once, and that was when he had a catarrh, about three years ago. He is a hale, hearty man, and bids fair to live many years yet. He is conscientiously opposed to making a display of himself, or doubt would long ago have been before the public as one of the human curiosities of the world.—Letter from Parkersburg, W. Va.

UNMANLY MEN.—Is there any joy greater than that which is experienced by one person when he helps another person? There are some men so low down that it is said they cannot bear to have the smell of their clover go into the highway for fear that other folks will get something that belongs to them without paying for it; there are some men who are said to be grudging bees the honey which they take from their flowers without leaving anything behind; but that is doubtless imaginary. A man whose heart does not respond to an act of doing good or giving happiness is no longer a man. He has passed the line of manhood, and should be pardoned by a kind parent.

It is when mothers discover that their girls are hiding things from them that they rebuke or scold. Innocent faults are always pardoned by a kind parent.

You may not know, girls, just what is right, or just what is wrong yet. You can't be blamed for making little mistakes, but you will never do anything very wrong, if from the first you have no secrets from your mother.

—Item cut from a Nevada paper with a little hatchet. A female Justice of the Peace in Wyoming Territory, was obliged to hear a case of scandalous character in which her husband filled the unenviable position of defendant. She sentenced him to be hanged by the neck until dead, and was anxious to have the sentence carried into effect at once, until the attorneys explained to her that she was sitting loosely on the bench, and the sentence was to be delayed until the next day. "I would knock the cigar out of your mouth," interrupted the belle. "Do you know, I don't think you would be there," quietly remarked the elder son.

—San Diego has a young gentleman telegraph operator who, after repeated calls for a young lady operator in another office, at last got a response, and then, "click, click, click," (fortissimo), he telegraphed back to her vehemently, "I have been trying to get you for the last hour." In a moment the following sly reply came tripping back to him over the wires from the graphic maiden,—"That's nothing; there's a young man here who has been trying to do the same for the past two years, and he hasn't got me yet."

—To the man who proounds the ridiculous question:—"Were you ever bitten by a bed tick?" there is only one reply:—"No, but we have been bitten by the next thing to it."

FOOD FOR THE SICK.—To an invalid, meal-time is the great event of the day; and he is surely to be pitied who has not a kind mother or sister or a dexterous hand-wife to prepare for him some of those simple, wholesome and yet dainty dishes which are so gratefully received if served in an attractive manner. There are many women who can prepare palatable dishes for those in health, but practically know nothing about the needs of the sick. It is mainly for the benefit of those, that the following suggestions are made:

In the first place, do not ask a sick person what he will have to eat. The very effort of coming to a decision will often destroy his appetite. Next, remember to have the food served on the best and finest ware in the house. Many a good cup of tea has been spoiled for a patient by being handed to him in a common or cracked cup. Never allow a bit of food to remain in the sick room after the meal is finished; it is another sure means of weakening the appetite of a delicate sufferer. If toast is offered set to it that it is evenly browned on both sides and has the crust cut off and that it is crisp and fresh from the fire. A thick piece of toast unevenly browned on the outside and doughy in the centre is extremely indigestible.

Always remember that in cooking rice, oat-meal, wheat or any other grains, salt boiling water should be used. By this means the kernels remain whole and the flavor is very much improved.

Pork in all its forms, as well as veal and all fatty substances are especially to be avoided in the diet of an invalid. The best modes of cooking beef are by roasting and broiling. Potatoes that are baked or roasted are much easier of digestion than those that are boiled. Graham bread, corn bread and rice biscuit are all more nourishing than bread made from bolted wheat flour.

Very nourishing and acceptable dish for invalids is a fresh egg which has been broken into boiling water and cooked until the albumen has just "set" while the yolk remains raw. This should be served on a piece of toast and garnished with parsley.

—Three

—Four

—Five

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

Florists.

S. W. Twombly & Sons,
FLORISTS,
161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 18

Professional Cards.

A. P. WOODHAY, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. CUTTER,
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Michael McCarthy, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon.
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE,
CENTRAL HOUSE.
WOBURN.

JOHN G. MAGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.
Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law
7 Court St., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M. to 5 P. M., 1 P. M. to 9 A. M.
Residence—Central House, Woburn.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and to all legal business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—53 State Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho Street

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, BOSTON.
Room 2, - - - - - BOSTON.
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST.
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—Huse's Coal Office, WINCHESTER.
Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.
Streets surveyed and graded.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All order left on the site will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.
WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER.
BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL, 100 Main St., Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.
JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence, No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.
ESTABLISHED 1865.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving, Pulleys and Gearing, Steel, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Carrying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 98, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL.

J. B. FLINT.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1877.

NO. 36.

Business Cards.

JOHN BRYANT,
PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,
PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass.

33

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED and DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Satin cleanned.

W. H. STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Hose House. 84

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main street, prompted attended to. 85 Has control of all Bill Books in town. 86 Orders by mail promptly attended to. 86

L. A. BRUCE,

HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,

52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St., BOSTON. 86

Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.

Residence—Washington Street, Winchester.

T. A. B. NORRIS,

Sign and Carriage

PAINTER,

133 NO. 17 WINN STREET, MASS.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of Jobbing promptly attended to. 20

Residence, cor. Main and Mann Streets, Woburn.

JOHN O. SYCLAIR,

Mason, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.

WHITEWASHING and all kinds of Jobbing promptly attended to, 20

Residence, cor. Main and Mann Streets, Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON.

Entrance from Court Street and 33 Scho Street

Street

CHESTER W. CLARK,

General Collection Office,

61 COURT STREET, 18

Room 2, - - - - - BOSTON.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST.

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor.

Office—Huse's Coal Office, WINCHESTER.

Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.

Streets surveyed and graded.

All work guaranteed to be accurate. All order left on the site will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,

AUCTIONEER.

BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL, 100 Main St., Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27

Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,

desires a few pupils on the 28

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence,

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving, Pulleys and Gearing, Steel, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Carrying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 98, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,

and all kinds of Machine work.

29

130 MAIN STREET.

J. BUEL.

J. B. FLINT.

30

Poetical Selection.

WHO KNOWS?

Who knows where pins and needles go,
Where all the buttons stray?
Who knows where all the pennies go
That somehow get away?
Who knows how all the China breaks
That wasn't touched at all?
How baby got so black a bruise
And never had a fall?

Who knows whence all the fashions come,
And where they disappear?
Who knows how bold the girls make a fright
Of what a dear?

Who knows how small the hills can swell
To such prodigious size?

Who knows indeed, what's going on
Beneath his very eyes?

Who knows where his husband goes
When business keeps him out?

Who knows when best to wear a smile
And when to wear a pout?

Who knows the time to face the fact
That she's no longer young?

Who knows how best to speak her mind
And how to hold her tongue?

Who knows the most convenient day
To go to a party?

Who knows the last of what he spends
On clubs, cigars and wine?

Who knows one bonnet cannot last
A woman all her life?

Who knows the woman is the same
When sweethearts turn to wife?

Who knows why all the pretty girls
Are often asked to go?

How all the ugly women
Who never had a beau?

Who small men fancy wives so large,
And large men fancy small?

Who knows, in fact, how half the world
Was ever matched at all?

Who knows how far to trust a friend,
How far to hate a foe?

Who just when to speak a kindly yes,
And when to speak a scold?

Who knows the grim old Greek sage Says gravely, says thyself

The wisest man in all the world
Is he who knows himself.

Who knows how far to trust a friend,
How far to hate a foe?</

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass.

Contributions solicited.

416.

PRIZE DROP LETTER DIAMOND.

By NUTMEG.

— A —
— A — A —
— A — A — A —
— A — A — A —
— A — A —
— A —
—

A fine stereoscopic view for first correct solution.

417.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

By LONNIE.

I am composed of letters 17.
17, 15, 16, 9 is a fruit.
5, 6, 10, 9 is a liquor.
11, 8, 13 is a pronoun.
5, 8, 16, 9 is an animal.
1, 3, 16, 7 is to be idle.
4, 6, 11 is an index.
12, 16, 9 is used for propelling.
17, 12, 14, 15 is a staff.
2, 9, 10 is a metal.
Whole is a maxim.

418.

RHOMBOID.

By KUEER KUSS.

Across: An animal; an animal; an animal.

Down: A numeral; a connective; a part of our body; a preposition; a letter.

419.

DOUBLE DIAGONALS.

To GEO. G. RAPHTY.

By EAGLE EYE.

A town in Maine; a stage; a plant; a town in Maine; downy; a disease; a disease.

Diagonals: Left to right. A plant.

Right to left: A fish.

420.

WORDS SQUARE.

By WINEGAR.

A bird; a male relative; a Middlesex town; a feminine name; a Massachusetts town.

421.

TRANPOSITION.

By HARRY A. MILTON.

If a certain animal you transpose, To vary or change, it will disclose.

422.

GEOGRAPHICAL DIAMOND.

By SCRAPS.

In Scotland; a town of Asiatic Turkey; a river of Scotland; a river of France; in Scotland.

423.

CURTAILMENT.

By CUTE.

Curtail a small star, A quadruped your path will bar.

424.

RADIATED ECCENTRIC ACROSTIC.

By N. TERTAIN.

Words having the following significations are to be arranged in a square so that a coin may be read from the centre to each corner.

First the name of a female; A fixed star in Orion's left foot; An animal from a Ceylon date; A masculine name please put; Eaglestone finishes the tale.

425.

GEOGRAPHICAL WORD SQUARE.

By GEO. G. RAPHTY.

A town in Ohio; a river of France; a town of Switzerland; a town of Naples.

Answers next week.

ANSWERS.

406.

ROGER

NATAL

EATON

LABAN

RULER

407.

ZEBU-B

408.

ARA

RUS

ASK

409.

SALEM

LEROY

HIDAS

NERIS

RENTY

410.

BLEAK

SKATE. SPRINT.

411.

J

COS

CRUET

JOURNAL

SENSE

TAE

L

412.

REE

EEL

ELM

413.

FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING.—One thousand laths will cover seventy yards of surface, and eleven pounds of lath nails will nail them on.

Continued from first page.
(is it fancy?) that she nestles a little closer to him. He tightens his arms round her, and whispers softly:—“Say one word, Corinna—only one, to make me happy.”

But Corinna is a woman, and finds it impossible to express herself so compact a form. “Are you quite sure that you love me?” she asks with an anxious emphasis, lifting her eyes to his for a moment.

“Quite sure. Must you ask that darling? Don’t you know it? There is nothing in the wide world I would compare with you.”

“That is just how I feel towards you,” says Krin innocently, with a little contented sigh.

It is needless to relate what follows. Every one possessed of even a grain of sentiment will understand for themselves. Of course they were perfectly happy, and of course Corinna shed a few tears. They were the last she wept for many months. “Come,” says Saxon, with a laugh, “if you cry any more I shall think you are regretting your decision. You must stop now or I won’t answer for the consequences. It is very hard lines, both for me and my coat; I might as well be under a shower-bath, and if it continues I shall certainly catch cold and be laid up with severe influenza.” Krin laughs too, though rather hysterically, and Saxon putting his hand under her chin, turns her face up to his. “You are better now, he says, “so we will go in together, and make our peace with your mother.” Hand in hand they enter the drawing-room, and find the atmosphere decidedly clouded. For the first time in her life Mrs. Crofton regards her kinsman with unsilencing eyes.

“Oh, Saxon, you have returned,” she coldly.

“Yes, I have returned to ask a great favour of you. The greatest favour you can bestow.”

“A favour of me?” with considerable dignity, while Rhoda in the background comprehends fully, and whitens with rage and disappointment.

“Yes, indeed, so great that I hardly know how to ask it.” He quits Krin’s side, and going to her mother, takes her unresisting hand eagerly. “Mrs. Crofton, will you make me a present of Corinna?”

There is a sharp pause, during which Mrs. Crofton draws her breath, and reviews the position. How utterly mistaken she has been all along. Well, if not Rhoda, it is at least Corinna. If blind to the charms of one daughter, it is because he is so infatuated by the graces of the other. The fact that he will be son-in-law remains undisturbed, and if Mrs. Crofton bears a deeper affection for one of her children, it is undoubtedly for Corinna.

“You amaze me! I had no idea of this; she says at length with perfect truthfulness; I hardly know what to say, Saxon, but I hope with all my heart you will both be happy.” Her voice falters a little, and she holds out her disengaged hand to Krin. The girl, coming quickly to her side, throws her arms round her neck, and kisses her warmly.

“You are not a bit angry now, mamma, are you?” she asks with a bright sunny smile.

“I suppose I must forgive you now,” returns her mother, tapping her cheek; “but you are a pair of naughty children, and succeeded in terrifying me more than I care to remember. Saxon, may I beg you will avoid that tower for the future—at all events until this wild girl belongs to you entirely?”

“I will get a new lock put on to-morrow,” says Saxon, and then he turns to Rhoda; “now you must wish us joy,” he exclaims cheerfully.

“I do, most sincerely. I wish you joy of each other,” replies Rhoda, with the faintest possible pause; “it would end, so I cannot imitate mamma’s surprise.”

“I will get a new lock put on to-morrow,” says Saxon, and then he turns to Rhoda; “now you must wish us joy,” he exclaims cheerfully.

“Yes—a nice house and lot, a good home for any family.”

“What a pity! How did the fire take?”

“The man played with fire, and thoughtlessly set it himself.”

“How silly! Did you say the lot was burned, too?”

“Yes, lot and all; all gone, slick and clean.”

“That is singular. It must have been a terrible hot fire—and then I don’t see how it could have burned the lot.”

“No, it was not very hot fire. Indeed it was so small that it attracted little attention, and did not alarm anybody.”

“Good-night,” says Krin obediently; and as Saxon follows her into the hall, under the pretence of getting her candle, he whispers fondly, “Are you perfectly happy, now, Corinna?” But Corinna did not get time to answer that question—words.

“MIX IT AT THE BEGINNING.—My theory is that a mother’s first duty is the taking care of her children, says a writer. How came I by this theory? I came by it through the newspapers. I never took up one that did not tell of dishonest clerks, corrupt officials, theft and murder.

One day I went into the kitchen where I found the women-folks in a state of great consternation. The cakes were all fried for tea; but the salt had been forgotten.

“Sprinkle some over them,” said I; “it will strike through, won’t it?”

“Oh, no,” says Mrs. F.; “the salt must be mixed in the dough at the beginning.”

“There,” thought I, “that’s the figure of speech I want. Let salt stand for goodness and dough for the children. The goodness must be mixed at the beginning; it is too late when the dough is baked into men and women. It will be of no use then sprinkling it on the outside; it won’t strike through. Yes, mix it in the beginning; that’s it. And mothers must do it.”

“Hew! I guess you mean me, for I have smoked more than twenty years. But it didn’t cost so much that, and I haven’t any house of my own. Have always rented—thought I was too poor to own a house. And all because I have been burning it up. What a fool I have been!”

The boys had better never set a fire which costs so much, and which, though so easily put out, is yet so likely, if once kindled, to keep burning all their lives.

“OVER-GOVERNED CHILDREN.—A girl who is never allowed to sall, all of whose clothes are made for her and put on till she is ten, twelve, fifteen or eighteen years of age is spoilt. The mother has spoiled her by doing everything for her. The true idea of self-restraint is to let the child venture. A child’s mistakes are often better than its no mistakes; because when a child makes mistakes and has to correct them, it is on the way toward knowing something. A child is to be allowed to make mistakes, and to teach himself up; and is dressed, and never makes mistakes in dressing himself; and is washed, and never makes mistakes about being clean; and is fed, and never has anything to do with its food; and is watched, and never watches himself; and is cared for and kept all day from doing wrong—such a child might as well be a tall candle, perfectly straight and solid and comely, and unval, and good for nothing but to be burned up.”

A cord of stone, three bushels of lime and a cubic yard of sand, will lay one hundred square yards.

Eight bushels of good lime, sixteen bushels of sand, and one bushel of hair, will make enough mortar to plaster one hundred square yards.

Five courses of brick will lay one foot in a chimney, six bricks in a course will make a fine four inches wide and twelve inches long, and eight bricks in a course will make a fine eight inches long and sixteen inches wide.

FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING.—One thousand laths will cover seventy yards of surface, and eleven pounds of lath nails will nail them on.

Eight bushels of good lime, sixteen bushels of sand, and one bushel of hair, will make enough mortar to plaster one hundred square yards.

Five courses of brick will lay one foot in a chimney, six bricks in a course will make a fine four inches wide and twelve inches long, and eight bricks in a course will make a fine eight inches long and sixteen inches wide.

How he advertised without Cost. A hardware man on Main street lately took an agency for a new kind of ice box for preserving cold victuals. It was a pretty good thing he thought, and it was only necessary to enlighten the public regarding its real merits and indisputable advantages over everything else of the kind to cause a tremendous rush of customers eager to purchase. So he counseled with himself, and soliloquized thusly:

“That refrigator must be brought before the public, and I am just the man to do it. Don’t talk to me about your newspaper advertisements. I’ll show folks how to advertise without cost. You don’t catch me paying a paper for advertising, not I. I’m too old for that, and I’ll show folks a new idea. Expect I’ll make my fortune yet with my genius,” and he laughed a satisfied laugh and at once set about making a practical test of his new method of diffusing information.

He mixed up a pot of black paint, procured several large sheets of card board, and after much experimenting and repeated attempts, finally succeeded in producing two signs that read as follows:

“Fifty dollars to the man who can prove that any two things put into this ice chest will taste one of the other.”

He had a refrigator run out to the curbstone, hung a sign over each side, and retired in doors, to await the expected rush of customers. People passed up and down the street, jostled each other in their hurry, glanced at the ice-box and its signs, and went on. After some hours of disappointed hopes and expectations, the dealer saw a pedestrian halt, calmly peruse the wonderful announcement, and rather hesitatingly advance to the door.

“Do you mean it?” he inquired in an anxious tone, pointing over his shoulder to the signs.

“Yes-sir-ree!” emphatically responded the dealer.

“Put your money up?” insinuated the stranger.

“No, sir,” replied the dealer in pompous style, “my word is as good as the cash.”

“All right, I’ll take you,” responded the stranger, as he departed. Sometime after he returned with a box under each arm.

“Stick to your agreement?” he queried.

“Of course I will,” answered the dealer, wondering what the name of Christopher Columbus the man had in view. The stranger set his boxes down on the sidewalk, and a crowd began to collect. He told the dealer that he was afraid that he (the dealer) would back out of the bargain, but the latter again asserted his readiness to put up the stamps if necessary. The stranger then opened a box, lifted a cat out, and placed her in the refrigerator; then he opened the other box, and took therefrom a wire cage containing a large rat. “Now, mister,” said he, “you just shut that door in a hurry when I flop this rat inside, and I’ll go you another fifty cents.”

“Stick to your agreement?” he queried.

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

Florists.

S. W. Trowbridge & Sons,
FLORISTS,

161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODMAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,

OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler,
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Michael McCarthy, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE,
CENTRAL HOUSE,
WOBURN.

JOHN G. MAGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M. 15

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

7 Court St., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M., 6 P. M., 9 A. M.
Residence—Court St., Boston, Woburn.
Special attention given to legal bankrupt cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—55 Court Street, Boston, and at Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
No. 4 NILES BLOCK, BOSTON,
Entrance from Court Street and 33 Stow Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, BOSTON.
Room 2, BOSTON. 18

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST,
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—HUSE'S COAL OFFICE, WINCHESTER.
Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.
Streets surveyed and graded to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.
WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sale of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL Office, Woburn, promptly attended to. 39

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss A. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to uit the times. For particulars call at her residence,
No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.
ESTABLISHED 1865.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving
Purples and Gears, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice. 29

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.
All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership
formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
STEAM ENGINES,
Boilers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.
WOBURN, MASS.

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at
the low price of 65 cents per yard.
Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGARSTORE,
No. 139 Main Street. 30

Concrete.
Concrete Paving.
WALTER BATES.

The next day we went to see a cottage which, as the advertisement had it, was situated at the end of a rose-embowered lane,
where the birds warbled all day amid the lofty branches. But the rose-embowered lane seemed to our less poetic imaginations
like a cart-path across a marsh, which was bordered now and then by a ragged line of bushes, and cooled its sticky grasses very often in a muddy stream, which ran riot all over the rose-embowered neighborhood. As for the birds, the writer of the advertisement must (as other ambitious but reckless poets do) have stimulated his intellectual and imaginative powers by the use of stimulants, until there was nothing left of him but imagination, and so the lively tones of the bullfrogs, who were hailing spring with a spirit which I never heard equalled, seemed to him like those of happy larks and tuneful thrushes. The cottage itself was one of the style usually inhabited by festive foreigners,
and we thought, on the whole, that we did
not care to purchase.

The boy did not promise to be so rare a treasure. He was a freckled-faced urchin of four or five years, with a wide-awake expression which was contrasted by his listless manner and heavy gait. He seemed to find the employment of digging frogs much more engaging than that of planting squash and beans, though he professed to know everything about "raisin' ground stuff." We and our belongings appeared to amuse him wonderfully, and when he first gazed upon our beautiful cow, he indulged first in a low whistle, then in a prolonged fit of laughter.

"What is it, James?" I questioned,
gravely.

"Nothing, miss," he responded, with sudden solemnity; but I noticed afterwards that whenever his eyes rested on that cow they had a certain knowing twinkle in them that was very puzzling. "She'd orter have a bell on her," he remarked, when I produced the most musical bell that could be found in that region, and ordered it to be hung on Beauty's neck. We named her Beauty because we could not think of any other name that would suit her so well.

"Why?" I asked, for I was curious concerning the boy's ideas.

"So you can know where she is," he replied, grinning. "There's an old bachelor,
Mr. Griswold, that owns that grain-field, and he's dretful perikler."

"What if he is 'dretful perikler,' and what has Beauty's bell to do with his grain field, I should like to know?"

"He grinned knowingly, but all the answer he gave was 'coz.' Afterwards I found out what he meant.

"Mamma," said I, "there's a horrid old bachelor living in that house next ours. I do hope he won't call on us."

"Don't talk so child; they say he's rich," said she, reprovingly.

"I laughed, scornfully. "What if he is rich?—an old bachelor farmer, ignorant and rough, of course. I shouldn't fancy him for a father-in-law."

"Beauty's bell tinkled softly and sweetly through the field, and for a few bright days,
And the warning I wish to inculcate
On each who this episode cons
Is to never bring trucks up to Boston
From the people who live at St. Johns.

George H. Conn,
INSURANCE AGENT,
NO. 168 MAIN STREET, 21
WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE
Livery, Hack & Boarding
STABLE,
212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,
G. F. JONES, 22 PROPRIETOR.

E. K. WILLOUGHBY,
House and Job Carpenter,
WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

22 Orders for Jobbing of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed, as heretofore.
23

A. BUCKMAN,
Dealer in
Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.
180 Main Street, Woburn.
24 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on hand.

M. ELLIS & CO.
BUILDING MOVERS
—AND— 25
CONTRACTORS.
WINN STREET, WOBURN.

New Fish Market.
J. H. RIGGS,
6 Railroad Street.

will furnish the citizens of Woburn, the best quality of all kinds of fish at reasonable prices. A share of patronage is respectfully solicited. 172

Selected Story.

STORY OF A COW.

Mamma and I had been longing for a country life for some time, and one spring, when the birds first commenced to sing in the row of consumptive looking poplars that lined our city streets, our longings became too intense to be resisted, and we decided to seek for a home in the grove at once. The pines were full of charming rustic cottages in lovely rural neighborhoods, where the leaves and birds made music all day, and silver brooks made love to the nodding buttercups and daisies. What vivid imaginations, what poetical fancies! and how harrowing such souls the ways of trade must be, the dust and turmoil of the city, the petty arts essential to sharp bargains! Surely the advertisers ought to pass their peaceful, elevated lives among the untroubled paths of their dased fields, and beside the murmuring streams.

We devoted one day to interviewing the political men of business, and were completely bewildered by the variety of charming places ready and waiting to be occupied.
They were just the places of our imagination, only more beautiful and rustic and flowery, and they were all to be sold, or rented under circumstances which would make their prices a mere song. There were stories connected with some of them so pathetic that they drew tears from my eyes.
Somebody's dear old home, surrounded by ancestral trees, to be sacrificed because deity called him at once to the city. He had not the muscle requisite for holding the plough, and there were seven orphaned moths to fill; so strangers must gaze at the profile of the familiar hill, hear the bees hum in the ancestral trees, and feed the ancestral chickens, while he suddenly and suddenly departed with the seven for town life.
They always go suddenly, and must sell the homestead at a sacrifice, because they must start at once.

We wanted a cottage—a cottage under drooping branches so romantic—but the dear old home, surrounded by ancestral trees sounded very promising, and as our purse was not very full, mamma thought the farm might be turned to account. We might hire some one to superintend it, and such kind of farming is very fashionable.
Mamma has a great head for planning. It is really astonishing what skill she has in saving and making money; though papa's family, a disagreeable set, shake their heads over her management, and wonder how she could afford to spend such a great slice out of the fortune papa left her. Did she not have those famous Dorking hens, that she went into the country, killed, so that we need not have to buy fresh meat when it was so expensive? They were such cunning little pets that it almost broke her heart.

She did, indeed, look like a cow of spirit and fire, and mamma was as much in love with her as I was, though she very prudently withheld her admiration until after the bargain was made. The farmer asked a large price for her, and mamma thought she had better look about and see what she could get another Alderney for, before making any decision; but he assured her that there were several people talking about buying the cow, and unless she made haste, she would be likely to lose her. "It wasn't because he was anxious about sellin' of her,"

which, as the advertisement had it, was situated at the end of a rose-embowered lane,
where the birds warbled all day amid the lofty branches. But the rose-embowered
lane seemed to our less poetic imaginations
like a cart-path across a marsh, which was bordered now and then by a ragged line of bushes, and cooled its sticky grasses very often
in a muddy stream, which ran riot all over the rose-embowered neighborhood. As for the birds, the writer of the advertisement
must (as other ambitious but reckless poets do) have stimulated his intellectual and imaginative powers by the use of stimulants,
until there was nothing left of him but imagination, and so the lively tones of the bullfrogs, who were hailing spring with a spirit which I never heard equalled, seemed
to him like those of happy larks and tuneful thrushes. The cottage itself was one of the style usually inhabited by festive foreigners,
and we thought, on the whole, that we did
not care to purchase.

He came down a few shillings in his price,
he was so sure a lady ought to have her,
and the bargain was made at once. The cow was driven home, and a sheepish-looking boy, who was recommended to us as
"bein' real faithful, though he wasn't sharp," was engaged that very day as attendant upon our cow. Oh, how pretty the field looked with her in it, and how pretty she looked in the field! The tall daisies nodded against her sleek sides, the buttercups looked lower as they nestled round her white feet; and as soon as she came almost, she garlanded her horns beautifully by hooking them into a clematis which crept from tree to tree in a far corner of her domain. Surely there never was such a poetical cow.

The boy did not promise to be so rare a treasure. He was a freckled-faced urchin of four or five years, with a wide-awake expression which was contrasted by his listless manner and heavy gait. He seemed to find the employment of digging frogs much more engaging than that of planting squash and beans, though he professed to know everything about "raisin'
ground stuff." We and our belongings appeared to amuse him wonderfully, and when he first gazed upon our beautiful cow, he indulged first in a low whistle, then in a prolonged
fit of laughter.

"What is it, James?" I questioned,
gravely.

"She must be hidden in the tall grass, or under a tree."

"Shall I go after the cow?" he asked, paying no heed to my remarks.

"Certainly," said mamma; "go and find her. She must be somewhere in the field, though."

He grimed again, and set off leisurely down the road, never even glancing towards the field. I went out on a tour of inspection, but she was nowhere to be seen. She must have got over the fence and gone off,"

"I stopped immediately," I cried threateningly, tapping the rail on which I was leaning with my parasol handle.

"If she isn't kept out of my grain, I won't answer for her life," came in good round tones from the distance.

"Don't you dare to touch her again," I shouted, though it was quite needless to shout, as he was approaching very near.

I recognized the gentlemanly-looking young man of the circus affair, and then became somewhat confused.

"If she isn't—" he commenced in an angry manner; then having a full view of for the first time, he stopped with a look of dismay. "I beg your pardon. I thought it was the boy," he said, removing his hat politely.

"I could hardly keep from laughing, though
I was still angry, and anxious for Beauty's safety, after being struck by that ugly stone.
He saw the laughter in my eyes, I suppose, for he looked relieved and burst into a fit of laughter. I regarded him with chilling dignity. Beauty very contentedly fed on the grain.

"I should like very much to get my cow home, if she isn't killed," I remarked, after a little silence. I wouldn't say that I was sorry for the destruction of his grain, then.

A gleam of amusement lighted his face.
"I don't think she is harmed in the least,"
he said, coolly. "I should be very sorry if she was. But I am not sure that I shall not harm her, if I find her here again."

"So you said before," I said.

He smiled, but reddened furiously. I was considering how I should get Beauty home, but just then a dog came barking towards her, and she settled the matter herself, by jumping over the fence into her own abode.
I made a hasty retreat, aware that he was following me with apologies of some kind,
But I pretended that I didn't hear a word.
I was afraid of the cow, for she was in a lively mood, and was shaking her horns very playfully. After that, we had securely tied to a stake, and I must say I enjoyed my rambles in the field much better under these circumstances.

Mr. Griswold called at the house one evening, but I had a fearful headache, and didn't go down to see him. Mamma scolded me well for it afterwards.

"Why, he's a perfect gentleman, said she,
and is of the old aristocratic Griswold family at Carlesford. He has spent several years in Italy, and his manners are elegance itself, and do you know that he is the very one I saw standing under the elm on the other evening to listen to your singing. They call him an old bachelor, but he can't be much more than thirty."

"I didn't find his manners so elegant," I said.

"And I am sure he didn't find your manners elegant. I am so distressed when I think of Beauty's raid on his grain field, and your encounter with him there. I ought to have apologized, but I hadn't the courage to do so."

The next day was Sunday. Mamma was not well, and I went to church alone. On my way home Mr. Griswold joined me, or at least we found ourselves walking side by side, accidentally, and he accompanied me to our door. But we did not get on very well.
I felt constrained and embarrassed, I hardly knew why. Then I thought of the stone he threw at Beauty, and his rude threat concerning that pleasing animal. He seemed rather embarrassed

WOBURN JOURNAL, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1877.

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents. Special notices, 10 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line. The figure printed with the subscriber's name on the back page, show to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Page	Col.	No.
County Notice	3	2	8
C. F. Cook	3	4	2
F. S. Burgess	3	2	9
H. S. Webster	3	2	5
Hall to let	3	2	6
J. W. Hamond	3	4	1
Mortgage's Sale	3	7	1
Mortgage's Sale	3	2	7

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.—The dedication of the Soldiers' Monument promises to be the greatest military display in Boston since the war. The procession will be formed in seven divisions, the formation of the column will be completed at 10th o'clock, and at 11 o'clock a gun will be fired, and the procession will move over the following route: Tremont Street, Chester Square, Shawmut Avenue, Roxbury Street, Guild Row, Dudley, Warren, Washington, Summer, High Congress, Milk, Broad, State, Devonshire, New Washington, Hanover, Court, Washington, School, Beacon and Charles Streets, to the Common. The G. A. R. will be in the first division, and they will form on Tremont Street sidewalk, east side, right on Boylston. The Fifth Regiment will be with the Second Brigade in the escort, and will form on Charles Street, right on Boylston. Post 33 will be in the procession.

SHERIFF.—Middlesex County will have to elect a Sheriff this Fall to serve for the next three years, and it is pleasant to know that she will have no difficulty in making a good selection. For the past twenty-one years, if our memory serves us, Hon. Charles Kimball of Lowell, has held the office with satisfaction to all parties, and his re-election would be a well-earned compliment to a deserving officer. Sheriff Kimball, by his affable manner, has performed his somewhat delicate duties in a way that has robbed them of much that makes the name of sheriff disagreeable, and we hope it will be a long time before he is served with a writ of ejectment from office.

NIGHT SCENES OF THE BIBLE.—A book with the above title has been published several years, and has interested and instructed many friends of the author, Rev. Dr. March, and hosts of others who only know him by his publications. He announced last Sunday that to-morrow evening he would begin a second series of his Night Scenes, in a course of Sunday evening lectures, taking for the subject of his first lecture Balaam's night vision at Pethor, as told in the 22d chapter of the Book of Numbers.

MUSICAL CELESTE.—We learn that a musical prodigy will soon make her appearance in Woburn, in the person of a young lady of fourteen years, who has developed wonderful powers as a pianist. She also plays on a piano and organ at the same time. Her repertoire includes many of the works of the masters of harmony, and a great treat is in store for us, when Mile. Celeste shall make her bow to a Woburn audience.

REQUESTED TO RESIGN.—It seems from our North Woburn letter that Mr. Mark Allen, Deputy Grand Worthy Patriarch of Rumford Div. S. of T., has been requested to resign by the Grand Worthy Patriarch. It will be remembered that his appointment was very unpalatable to the Division.

Rev. J. F. Winkley.—Rev. J. F. Winkley has accepted the call to the Trinity Episcopal Church, and entered upon his duties last Sunday. Mr. Winkley's past pastoral was at Westfield. He has taken the house next to the Union street school-house, lately occupied by Mr. J. I. Hanson.

COURSE OF LECTURES.—The ladies connected with the First Congregational Parish propose giving a course of lectures in aid of the fund for church repairs. Season tickets will be issued about the first of October, at very reasonable rates.

ANOTHER.—It has been suggested that the business places in Woburn be closed next Monday, so many of our people will visit Boston on that day to witness the parade and dedication of the soldier's monument.

PRIZE DOGS.—At the Dog Show in Boston, last week, Richard Briggs, of Woburn, took second prize, $5, for his coach dog. S. W. Rodman, of Burlington, took first prize $20, for best bitch setter.

LOAN OF AN ENGINE.—Gen. Worth Engine Co., of Stoneham, are using Jacob Webster Engine, of Woburn, while their tub, which was badly scorched at a recent fire, is being repaired.

HEARING.—The County Commissioners have ordered a hearing on the widening of Canal Street, on the 29th day of October, in the Selectmen's Room, at 10 A. M.

GRAND ARMY HALL.—This hall is to let for lectures, concerts, or dances. It is nicely fitted up, and a very desirable hall. See advertisement.

ANOTHER FAIR.—The Reform Club is preparing to hold a Fair to raise funds for its work the coming season.

A Red Ribbon Convention in Worcester.—A Red Ribbon Convention in Worcester, on Tuesday, the 18th. Dr. H. A. Reynolds will be present.

J. H. Nason.—J. H. Nason having resigned as janitor of Lyceum Hall, Col. Tay is temporarily filling the place.

The voice of the peach peddler still rings in the street.

We are having our August weather now.

BASE BALL.—Last Saturday afternoon, the Howards, of Brockton, met the Gen. Worths, of Stoneham, on the diamond field at Montvale. There was a larger attendance than usual, and much interest manifested in the game. The Worths were first at the bat, and made four runs mostly on errors of the Howards. The Brockton boys then went in and made but one run, Hayes striking a two base hit, and coming in on a base hit of Perkins. In the second inning, the errors of the Howards helped out the Worths to four more. The Howards caught Murphy between third and home, and put him out very neatly. The Howards made one run off errors, G. Whitney taking first on three balls, and second and third on passed balls, and came in, as C. Whitney was put out at first. The Worths made three runs in the third inning, and the Howards none, Perkins out on a foul to Murphy, Wilde on three strikes, and Edson a hot one to McCall. In the fourth inning the tables turned, Tay out at first, Murphy on three strikes, and McCall out by a fly to McHugh, and no runs. The Brockton boys gathered in two tallies, one earned and one by error. The fifth gave the Worths two runs and the Howards nothing. The sixth was a blank for the Worths and two for the visitors. In the seventh McKenna, Maxwell and Corcoran struck flies, which were held; of the Howards, Hayes was put out at first, Perkins struck out, Wilde made a base hit, but Edson sent a ball to Tay and the side was out with no runs. The eighth inning was the last, as the Brockton boys were obliged to take the train. The latter became a little careless, and the Worths made five runs. Maxwell made one of his old-fashioned hits and was happy. White made a two base hit. Martin was put out, trying to steal second. White, Tay, McCall and Cunningham came in, Murphy going out on a foul, and Corcoran on a fly to G. Whitney. The Howards worked hard to better their score, but only made two runs, and those by errors in the fielding. The game was umpired by James Keen, and gave satisfaction. Below is the score:

GEN. WORTHS.
R.	I.	P.O.	A.	E.
1	1	3	1	2
4	3	1	3	2
White, s.	2	10	0	0
Tay, r. f.	2	2	10	0
Tay, b.	3	3	2	0
McHugh, c.	1	2	7	3
Edson, l. f.	2	2	2	2
Corcoran, c. f.	1	0	0	1
McKenna, l. f.	1	0	1	2
	18	14	24	12

HOWARDS.

HOWARDS.
R.	I.	P.O.	A.	E.
0	3	2	3	6
Packard, c.	1	2	0	2
Hayes, s. s.	1	3	0	1
McHugh, l. f.	0	1	2	0
Edson, s. s.	0	1	2	1
Corcoran, l. f.	4	2	0	0
Wilde, l. b.	1	0	11	1
Lynch, r. f.	0	0	0	0
	8	11	24	10
Innings.	1	2	3	5
Gen. Worths,	4	4	3	0
Howards,	1	0	2	0
	2	2	3	8

WILMINGTON.

On Wednesday afternoon the second game between the Riveiders, of Charlestown and the Woburns, of this town, was played on Wink's field, and resulted in the defeat of the Woburns. Game was called at three o'clock. Mr. John Walsh, formerly of the Maple Leafs, of Canada, being the umpire. Only seven innings were played, on account of the ball giving out. The home club were out-played at every point, and made several errors, which gave the visitors nearly all of their runs. The following is the score:

WOBURN.
RIVERSIDERS.
O.	R.	I.	P.O.	A.
Braden, l. f.	0	1	Cassidy, 2b.	2	2
Carpenter, r. f.	3	1	Flanagan, p.	3	1
McElhaney, l. b.	2	1	Jones, 1b.	3	1
McHugh, r. f.	2	1	H. F. Fife, 3b.	0	1
Bradley, 3b.	2	0	Young, 3b.	1	3
McHugh, s. s.	2	1	F. Fife, 3b.	1	3
Rooney, p.	0	1	Young, 3b.	1	3
Wilde, l. b.	2	0	Young, 3b.	1	3
Kenney, c.	2	1	Young, 3b.	1	3
J. Kelley, c. f.	3	0	Young, 3b.	1	3
	21	4	Young, 3b.	1	3
Innings.	1	2	3	4	5
Woburns,	2	1	0	0	1
Riversiders,	2	0	4	4	6
	2	1	0	0	16

The Gen. Worths play with the Franklins, of Chelsea, this Saturday afternoon, at half past three.

VAGABONDS.—Wednesday, James Rogers, who lives on Dublin Street, and teams liquor to the sellers of the stuff in Woburn, left a barrel of beer in his shed, and somebody stole it. The thieves carried it or rolled it up to the woods, north of the cemetery, on Beach Street, where they have been in the habit of living a sort of camp life, stealing corn and potatoes from the neighboring gardens. Officers Tidd and Welsh raided through the woods Thursday afternoon, and captured Joseph Carpenter and Lawrence Looby, the barrel of beer and a lot of potatoes. The potatoes they had taken from A. W. Brooks' farm, and were just building up a fire to cook them. The beer they had set up and tapped, and had evidently drawn largely on its contents. There are several others in the gang who were not at the rendezvous. Carpenter and Looby were locked up.

ACCIDENT.—Last Saturday evening Mrs. Thomas Richardson called at the house of her sister on Hudson Street, and being near-sighted, did not notice an open scuttle near the door which she was about to enter, and fell into the hole, breaking her left leg in two places below the knee. Her husband was sent for and surgical aid rendered, and she was made as comfortable as possible, but the doctor had fears that the accident might prove serious, owing to her advanced years.

ACCIDENT.—Last Saturday evening Mrs. Thomas Richardson was at the house of her sister on Hudson Street, and being near-sighted, did not notice an open scuttle near the door which she was about to enter, and fell into the hole, breaking her left leg in two places below the knee. Her husband was sent for and surgical aid rendered, and she was made as comfortable as possible, but the doctor had fears that the accident might prove serious, owing to her advanced years.

FRANK LESLIE FAILED.—Frank Leslie, the well-known publisher, has made an assignment of his property and effects to Isaac W. England, publisher of the Sun. His liabilities are estimated at $320,000, the principal creditor being Rice, Kendall & Co., of Boston, who supplied the establishment with paper. The assets are unknown, but include all Leslie's publications, some twenty in number, valuable presses, machinery, etc., as Mr. Leslie's property at Interlaken, Saratoga.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.—Mr. T. A. Norris reports another attempt to enter his shop on Winn Street, one evening this week. It had been out, and on his return found that the window and door had been tampered with. A watch was set, but the burglars did not come back.

THE BOSTON GLOBE.—The Boston Globe has interviewed General Banks, who says he shall support the President's policy to the end, as he has from the beginning, and he thinks General Butler will support it, too. But both statements are made with an air of qualification.

THE IVERS BUGGY.—The Ivers Buggy is the most economical carriage now in use.

POST 33.—Post 33 is discussing the feasibility of dramatic entertainments the coming season. They will also soon announce their annual series of assemblies.

SMOKERS.—Smokers, buy the Specie Havana filled cigars, 10 for 40 cents, at Smith's.

THE IVERS BUGGY.—The Ivers Buggy is the easiest carriage now in use.

JUSTICE AND HUMANITY.—The Boston North Association of Baptist churches meets this year with the Baptist church, Winchester, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week (Sept. 19th and 20th). As there are matters of the deepest interest to come before the convention this year, it is expected that there will be present an unusually large number of delegates and others. Arrangements have been made for a tent or tabernacle which will seat over 1000 persons. It will be located on the lot at the corner of Mt. Vernon Street and Highland Avenue, a most delightful location. The several committees having the various matters in charge will do all they can for the comfort and enjoyment of all. Gospel hymn book No. 2 will be used.

JUSTICE AND HUMANITY.—The Boston North Association

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.—The Republicans of Woburn assembled in Temperance Hall, Monday evening to choose delegates to the several conventions. E. F. Wyer, chairman of the Town Committee, called the meeting to order, and was chosen chairman, and W. F. Davis, secretary. On motion of Griffin Place the caucus proceeded to ballot for delegates and a town committee, and George H. Conn was appointed a committee to receive, sort and count the votes. The ballot resulted as follows, there being only three scattering votes:

STATE.—John Cummings, John W. Johnson, William T. Grammer, John S. True, Jacob Brown.

SENATORIAL.—Joseph G. Pollard, Frank B. Dodge, Gavon R. Gage, John C. Buck, Luke W. Fowle.

COUNTY.—John L. Parker, Edward E. Thompson, Charles D. Adams, Samuel A. Grammer, Phineas G. Hanson.

COUNCILOR.—Benjamin E. Bond, William F. Davis, Richard B. Bean, Rufus C. Hayward, Charles A. Smith.

TOWN COMMITTEE.—Charles S. Converse, Joseph G. Pollard, Nathan J. Simonds, William F. Davis, Phineas G. Hanson.

SHARPER.—M. C. Mengis, who bought the Adams Stock Farm in Billerica, has been arrested on a charge of burning the dwelling house on the farm last December, and therefore defrauding the Attna Insurance Company of Hartford, out of $4,700. Mengis claims to be a real estate agent, doing business in Boston. He will be readily recognized as the manager of a weekly paper called the Sun, which was started in Boston two years ago, and collapsed after a short and uneventful career. He was afterwards connected with the Daily News. Recently it is said, he has been perfecting plans for starting a Sunday morning paper in Boston, the first number of which is to be issued on the 23d inst. In November, 1875, Mengis had conveyed to his wife, Mary L. Mengis, a certain tract of land located in Wilmington, Mass., by one John T. Pope Mengis then mortgaged the property to Henry Sheldon, and cut the land up into houses of 2500 feet each. Having got the land in shape Mengis went about the West End, among the laboring colored men and women and sold house lots for $10 each. In consideration of the amount paid he gave warranty deeds. The matter having been reported to Detective Pinkham, that office has been at work on the case, and now finds that there are thirty-three cases where parties have been swindled out of from $10 to $150 each. All of these are hard-working colored people who have managed to lay aside a little every year, hoping at some time to be able to build a small house on the land which they considered theirs, but now they find themselves swindled out of their hard earnings.

THE RIFLE.—The next competition in the short range matches (200 yards, for Sharp's long range rifle; and 200, 300 and 500 yards for Sharp's short range rifle) will be on Friday, Sept. 21st, at 1 o'clock, P. M., the next following on Friday, September 28. The teams representing this association that have gone to Creedmoor to shoot this week are made up of the following named gentlemen: Long range—James Wemyss, Jr., William H. Jackson, C. C. Hebbard, A. P. Clarke, William Gerrish. Short range—William L. Jackson, H. T. Rockwell, N. W. Arnold, William Gerrish, G. L. Winship, James Wemyss, Jr., C. C. Hebbard.

THE GLOWING OF THE SEA.—Sometimes in aAlpine region the mountains are put up in a peculiar appearance, the peaks lighted up like hidden fires, which give the mountain a form and develop beauties of outline hitherto unseen. This is termed the glowing of the Alps, and a wonderful sight it is, when every peak stands out like a mountain of flame, yet of flame that has no fierceness, but speaks of warmth and grace and beauty. The sea, during the past week, has been exhibiting something of a similar, yet a different character. Seen from an elevated position on the shore, the mountains, as they roll in, seem to be a mass of pale, foolish flame, resembling one somewhat of the line of light given by the moonbeams falling upon a wave. Yet it is different from that, the color being different, and seeming to be more in

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass.
Contributions solicited.

426.
PRIZE RHOMBOID.

BY "EAGLE EYE" TO "KIT CLINTON."

ACROSS: A place famous in the history of Texas; a city in the U. S.; an animal; a girl's name; a man's name. Down: a vowel; a girl's name; the non de plume of a puzzler in the "Pine Tree" Sate; a measure; a geographical name; a girl's name; to clear, reversed; an adverb; a consonant. A photo for first solution.

427.

DOUBLE DIAMOND.

BY HARRY A. MILTON.

Across: a consonant; an animal; a tree; a tree; a numeral. Down: a numeral; a horse; a tree; a trifle; a vowel.

428.

NUMERAL ENIGMA.

By SCRAPS.

4, 3, 2, 8, a color; 7, 6, 10, to insolate; 12, 13, 14, 11, dice; 1, 5, 9, humor; 17, 16, 15, 11, sort. Whole an herb.

429.

WORDLE SQUARE.

By KUEER KUSS.

A plant; a part of our body; a part of our body.

430.

DIAMOND.

By N. TERTIAN.

A consonant; an abbreviation for a State; a male name; a white resin; pleasant; to presage; stolid; a consonant.

431.

CENTRAL ACROSTIC.

By A. P. UZZLER.

An animal; a fish; an animal; a part of the body; a musical instrument; a goddess; a tumor; centrals; an insect.

432.

PRIZE COMPOUND CONNECTED DIAMOND.

BY NUTMEG.

• • • • •

Top Diamond: Across: A consonant; a time; process; a fragment; a consonant. Down: a consonant; a preposition; a Latin preposition; succor; a consonant.

Bottom Diamond: Across: A vowel; to stray; a vessel; to prepare; a consonant. Down: A consonant; to destroy; ramble; unripe; a consonant.

Left Diamond: Across: A consonant; an animal; a cloth; to expand; a consonant. Down: a consonant; an animal; an animal; between; a consonant.

Right Diamond: Across: A consonant; a horse; to threaten; a hole; a consonant. Down: A consonant; a fish; a residence; a fruit; a consonant.

The connections read across names a plant, read down, changed.

"Abandoned," by Jules Verne, for the first correct solution.

433.

NUMERAL DIAMOND.

By CUTIE.

From the following obtain a complete five letter diamond: 3, 124.

434.

CURTALMENT.

By AUG. GAS.

Curtail a bird, if you wish, And get a sort of fish.

ANSWERS.

416.

C

C A M

F A T A L

C A T A L A N

C A T A M A R A N

M A L A Y A N

L A R A T

N A N

N

417.

"Look before you leap."

418.

D O E

R A T

R O E

419.

C U S H I N G

T H E A T R E

S E A K A L E

D E N M A R K

P A P P O U S

M U R R A I N

S I B B E N S

420.

Q U A I L

U N C L E

A C T O N

I L O L O

L E N O X

421.

R A T E L - A L T E R .

422.

O

H I T

O I K E L

T E T

L

423.

A L C O - R

424.

E L S I E

R E G E L

L O R I S

P E T E R

E T I T E

425.

L I M A

I S A C

M A U R

A C R I

P R I

426.

P R I S E S .

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

12 pages of choice music for best income list.

Continued from first page.

when suddenly a strange noise greeted my ears. I looked up, and there was Beauty just in the act of jumping over the fence into that grain again. She had broken the cord which bound her to the stake, and lifted the top rail from the fence with her horns, and was taking a leisurely promenade through the splendid corn.

I jumped up with a cry of dismay. James was absent, of course; he was always absent when he was wanted, and the cow left to herself would not be likely to leave a hand of the grain untrampled. O, if I could only drive her out myself, before she did any more harm, before she was discovered by Mr. Griswold. I never felt less amiably disposed towards Beauty than I did at that moment. I could have seen a stone hit her with the utmost calm. I longed to be able to reach her, with one from my hand, and, in my excited imagination, I was sending her to the butcher's shop. She was not to be tolerated any longer, if she was pretty. In my calmer moments I was afraid to approach her, she had an ugly habit of shaking her horns at me, and James reported that she had tossed him over the wall on them once. But I forgot my fears now, and, arm myself with a long stick, I climbed the fence and ran valiantly after her. She was absorbed in feeding, and did not hear any footsteps.

I shouted at her, placing myself at her head, in order to make her turn and go back in the same direction from which she came. If she had jumped over the fence, she could jump back again. I waved my stick threateningly, but instead of turning, she ran furiously towards me. I felt a sharp, quick pain in my side, and was conscious of being hurled into the air, and knew no more until I opened my eyes, and found myself in Mr. Griswold's arms; but I was too dizzy and weak and stunned to be startled at my new day's march onward.

To rule one's spirit is the most sublime work done below. The hero who accomplishes the task is "greater than he that taketh a city, and does a nobler work for humanity than the greatest artist, sculptor, orator, writer, or inventor that has made earth rich with the gifts of genius; because it is a hundred times harder to always do well than to do ill, to always do good than to do evil, to always do right than to do wrong, to always do justice than to do injustice, to always do truth than to do falsehood, to always do honor than to do dishonor, to always do strength than to do weakness, to always do life than to do death, to always do health than to do disease, to always do happiness than to do misery, to always do pleasure than to do pain."

"You are better?" he said. "You were only faint. Do you suffer—are you in pain?" "No," I found voice to say, and I was so strangely contented that I smiled. He carried me into the house, his house, as that was the nearest, and the doctor came bustling and breathless. Then I remembered, but it seemed like a dream, long ago and dim, that Beauty had tossed me on her horns, and a suspicion that the doctor had come to see me, and that I might be seriously hurt, had such an effect on me that I went off in a faint again.

When I came to myself a second time, I found mamma bending over me anxiously, and Mary Ann somewhere near, energetically denouncing that "haythen savage is a cow." Mr. Griswold was there, too, and when I met his eyes my face grew crimson. I sat up and proposed to go home immediately.

"You are better?" he said. "You were only faint. Do you suffer—are you in pain?"

"No," said the doctor, "she isn't much hurt, but it will take her nerves a good while to recover from the shock. I should advise her to keep quiet two or three hours, at least."

I declared that I felt perfectly well, only for little soreness in my side, but I remained on the sofa as I was bidden, and we grew very merry together. Mr. Griswold insisted on our taking dinner with him, and we accepted his invitation, as we could not well do otherwise under the circumstances, but I was very uncomfortable, remembering my journey in his arms from the field to the house.

Mamma and Mrs. Grover, the housekeeper, a ladylike elderly person, were soon on very good terms, and she was anxious for mamma to inspect her dairy. While they were gone, I took off my coat and vest, and lay down on the sofa, and I was soon fast asleep.

When the war was over, how hard a wounded officer tried unsuccessfully to control his grief. His fair young wife and babe had sailed from England to meet him, but perished when the ship touched breakers close to shore. He felt as if he should go crazy, and only bitterness was in his heart.

He longed to die too; till suddenly he thought of his surviving sick boy far across the water. For his sake he controlled his wild sorrow, and learned to outwardly calm and cheerful, no matter how high the tempest rose within his soul.

When I tried to look surprised, and pretended that I had not the most distant idea of what he meant, but it was all vain. I could only drop my eyes and blush with the most provoking consciousness, and when mamma and Mrs. Grover returned I had promised to become Mrs. Griswold.

"I am going to send that dreadful cow to the butcher-morror," said mamma, with decision, that night when we were under our own roof once more.

"No, indeed, mamma," I exclaimed. "I am very, very happy, and it's all Beauty's doing. Mr. Griswold says that he has a bacon field two or three miles away, where she can roam on her own sweet will, and harm any one.

A tenant of his lives near, who can milk her, and you will be likely to see her again unless you wish to do so."

Afterwards I explained, and she received my explanation very complacently. In the autumn we were married, and in our beautiful grain field I have a cow just as picturesque and pretty as Beauty, and of a much more tranquil and amiable disposition. The only unpleasant news we hear from her is from small boys who go on berrying expeditions, and who have lively experiences with her horns.

—Wooden handles like a shawl strap are now put upon the watermelons sold in this city. If the last generation had done its duty in artificial selection and interbreeding, these handles would have grown upon watermelons by this time, so that they could be carried like a satchel.—Commercial Advertiser.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

SEND 25c. to G. F. ROWELL & CO., New York for pamphlet of 100 pages, containing list of 3000 newspapers, and estimates showing costs of advertising.

12 pages of choice music for best income list.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

12 pages of choice music for best income list.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

12 pages of choice music for best income list.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1877.

NO. 38.

Florists.

S. W. Tuomby & Sons,
FLORISTS,
161 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODMAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler,
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Michael McCarthy, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE,
CENTRAL HOUSE,
WOBURN.

JOHNSON G. MCGUIRE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M.

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law

70 Court Sq., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn

10 A. M. to 1 P. M. 6 P. M. to 8 A. M.

Special attention given to equity and bankruptcy cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity.

16 GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Residences, Corner of Pleasant and Court Sts., Woburn.

A. B. COFFIN, 17

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

No. 4 Neil Block, Boston

Entrance from Court Street and 33 School Street

CHESTER W. CLARK,

General Collection Office

61 COURT STREET, 18

Room 2, WOBURN, MASS.

Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.

DR. C. T. LANG,

DENTIST

NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,

WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,

Civil Engineer & Surveyor

Offices—100 Court Street, WINCHESTER.

Estate divided and laid out to the best advantage.

Survey surveyed and graded.

All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 35

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,

AUCTIONEER,

BURLINGTON, MASS.

Sales of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL Office, Woburn, promptly attended to. 38

E. PRIOR,

AUCTIONEER,

89 Court Street, Boston

Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,

TEACHER OF

PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,

AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27

Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss J. J. Campbell, desires a few pups on the 28

PIANO FORTE,

and will also teach THEORY. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence

No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

Parks & Freeman,

MACHINISTS,

And Manufacturers of

Leather Machinery,

GLASING, STONING,

Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.

Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shafting,

Pulleys and Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings,

Taneries and Currying Shops fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,

WOBURN, MASS.

All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1871. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,

MACHINISTS,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in

STEAM ENGINES,

Bottlers, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing, and all kinds of Maculae work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGAR STORE

No. 139 Main Street. 30

Business Cards.

JOHN BRYANT,
PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSOMINING,
PAPER HANGING, &c.

Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass. 33

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Sacs cleaned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Iloss House. 34

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,
TOWN BILL POSTER
AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

Mr. McCarthy, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE,

CENTRAL HOUSE.

WOBURN.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

Michael McCarthy, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE,

CENTRAL HOUSE.

WOBURN.

Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

JOHN G. MCGUIRE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M. 14

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Sacs cleaned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Iloss House. 34

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

JOHN G. MCGUIRE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M. 14

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Sacs cleaned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Iloss House. 34

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

JOHN G. MCGUIRE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M. 14

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Sacs cleaned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Iloss House. 34

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

JOHN G. MCGUIRE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and 7 to 12 P. M. 14

CHARLES HURD,

CLOTHES

CLEANSED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Sacs cleaned.

WILM STREET, WOBURN,

Next door to Iloss House. 34

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,

TOWN BILL POSTER

AND DISTRIBUTOR.

WOBURN, MASS.

Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main Street, promptly attended to. 35

JOHN G. MCGUIRE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

192 MAIN STREET,

WOBURN, MASS.

Office Hours from 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 and

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents.
25¢ for being noticed, 25 cents a line. Special notices, 15 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line.

The figures printed with the subscriber's name on the back page refer to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

	Page	Col.	No.
G. A. Smith & Son,	3	4	3
Concord Cattle Show,	3	2	2
Dr. J. A. Finch,	3	4	3
John A. W. Dobson,	3	4	1
Methodist Fair,	3	6	5
Mortgages Sale, Littlefield,	3	6	2
" " "	3	6	3
" " "	3	6	4
" " "	3	6	5
" " "	3	6	6
" " "	3	7	1
Woburn Gas Company,	3	1	2

THE SEWER AGAIN.—It has been thought by some that the sewer question was dead, and that we should never hear from it again; but it appears that the subject has not been wholly dismissed, as the following correspondence will explain:—

CITY OF BOSTON, CITY HALL, BOSTON WATER BOARD OFFICE, }
Sept. 19, 1877.

Thomas H. Hill, Esq., of the Board of Selectmen, Woburn, Mass.

DEAR SIR:—Your communication of Aug. 25th, 1877, to His Honor, the Mayor of Boston, in reference to the enlargement of the proposed Mystic Valley Sewer, having been referred to this Board by the City Council, it was voted, at a meeting held yesterday, to hear representations of the town on the subject, on Thursday, the 29th inst., at 2.30 p.m., or more convenient to you, on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at the same hour.

Respectfully yours,

W. E. Sean, Clerk,
Boston Water Board.

OFFICE OF THE SELECTMEN, }
WOBURN, Sept. 19, 1877.

W. E. Sean, Esq., Clerk Boston Water Board.

DEAR SIR:—Your communication bearing this date I have just received. As some of the members of the Selectmen committee on sewerage matters are absent from town, and I shall be unable to see them in season for tomorrow, 20th, a meeting on that date will be impracticable. I will write you again on Friday with relation to the meeting on Tuesday, 25th inst.

I am dear sir,

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS H. HILL.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

CEMETERY ITEMS.—Beach Street is being widened and straightened. The east fence of the cemetery is down, to be replaced from one to ten feet farther in, according to the requirements of the street, which will be fifty feet wide. An ornamental stone containing five or six thousand feet, is being graded and prepared for Fall sowing in the Eastern portion.

NEW FALL GOODS.—A nice fitting garment is essential to the comfort of a gentleman, as well as his good appearance. Messrs. G. R. Gage & Co., mindful of the wishes of their customers, have just received a carefully selected invoice of fall style of goods, and those who wish to make a good selection will do well to give them an early call.

CHINESE POLO.—This is the name of an article used for cleaning windows, paint, silver ware, &c., and is decidedly the best thing of the kind we have seen. It is sold wholly by agents, and if the "Chinese Polo" man calls at your door, don't fail to make a purchase.

SELECTMEN.—All present Thursday evening. Application of Alden Knights, for permission to enlarge his slaughter house, granted under the provisions of law applicable to such cases. E. Prior was licensed an auctioneer. The Registration of voters was referred to the Selectmen.

CHESS.—There was a chess tourney in Woburn on Wednesday evening, between some ex-members of the Woburn Chess Club, and six gentlemen from Stoneham. The former resigned at the 66th move.

G. A. H.—Post 75 of Stoneham, the two Posts, Post 33, Thursday evening. The two Posts propose a field day together about the first of October, on which target shooting, base ball, &c., will be indulged in.

There will be services at the Albion house on Sunday, at 4 o'clock, P. M., preaching by Rev. E. Mills. These services are to be continued every Sunday for the present.

DEAR OLD HOMESTEAD.—This is the title of a pleasant song by Miss Anna C. Hills, published by F. W. Holmick, Cincinnati, O., sent by mail for 40 cents.

Clarkson Biles will meet his East India client in Lyceum Hall, Oct. 31st.

A genuine Ivers Buggy is the best and cheapest carriage to buy.

ANOTHER.—The Methodist Society are to hold a Fair. See announcement.

Dedication of Boston Monument.

After years of waiting, Boston has at last dedicated the finest soldier's monument in the country, and last Monday nearly thirty thousand men were in line, and moved through the streets to the Common, where the formal ceremonies were observed. The Grand Army turned out in great numbers, and many of the old war regiments were represented in the line, and it is doubtful if so many veterans of '61-'65 are seen together in Boston again. The militia of the State escorted the procession, under the command of Gov. Rice, who was mounted on a white horse. In the 5th Regiment was the Woburn Mechanic Phalanx, Captain A. L. Richardson, with 40 men. The Grand Army composed the 1st Division, and was commanded by Horace Binney Sargent. Post 33 marched with the posts of Middlesex County, and had 55 men in line. T. H. Hill commanding. On the march through Boston Highlands, Post 33 was invited into the store, 2123 Washington Street, where Mr. Timothy Mead, and his sons, C. H. and S. A. Mead, treated them most hospitably. The march was long and fatiguing, and it was after four o'clock when the procession reached the Common. The exercises at the Common were well devised and carried out quite satisfactorily, with the exception of the unveiling of the monument, which task the wind took upon itself in advance of the proper persons. Gen. Hooker was in a carriage, and his ruddy countenance beamed with pleasure as he received the hearty greetings of his old "boys." Gen. Marston, who went out in command of the 2nd N. H., was mistaken by many for Joe Hooker, and received many cheers, which, however, he was too modest to appropriate to himself. Gen. Cleland seemed to have changed more than Hooker, but his reception was as hearty as ever, and on the Common, where the veterans were massed, he received a perfect ovation. The pleasantest feature of the whole affair, was the re-union of old comrades. As Dr. Holland expresses it, "A few moments spent together in the presence of death, weave bonds that only death can break," and the feelings cherished by battle comrades are such, that the unions like the one of Monday afford them the highest pleasure. The addressers were good, especially that of Gen. Devens. We enjoyed the opportunity of listening to his eloquence from a position on the platform, and we shall never forget his closing sentences, which were addressed to his late companions-in-arms. "Comrades," said he, "it is the last time that we, who have marched under the flag, and been the soldiers of the Union in its mortal struggle, shall gather in such numbers as meet to-day. We are an army to whom can come no recruits. The steady, resolute artillery of time hurls its deadly missiles upon us, and each hour we are fewer and weaker. But, as we stand together thus, as we remember how nobly and bravely life's work was done, and how bright the day brought to consummate, let us believe that the tie which binds us to them, in a great and holy cause, is not wholly dissolved. Their worldly task is done, their solemn oath, which we took side by side with them, is performed. For us, life brings each day its new duties and responsibilities. In the classic mythology, which was the religion of the ancient world, it was said that the heroes were demigods. Raised above the race of man, and yet not so far that but that the example might be imitated, they sought to animates those who yet struggle with life's mortal surroundings, and should these, our heroes, while the dust of their conflict is yet on us, inspire us to loftier purposes and nobler lives. And as we leave them to their glorious repose, and their pure and noble fame, let us go forth exalted by these hours of communion with them. Above them, as we depart, we utter the ancient form of words, and yet in a formal way, which conclude the proclamations of the State whose children they were, 'God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.' And to this we add, with notice of form and solemnity, the prayer which was in their hearts, and upon their lips when they died: 'God save the Union of American States.'"

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room. It was organized by the choice of Horatio Colliamore as chairman, and Geo. M. Chapman, secretary. The only business transacted was passing a vote directing the Secretary to procure of the Town Clerk copies of all amendments to the By-Laws, adopted since their publication in 1873, and a vote that all persons desiring a change in any of the By-Laws may have an opportunity to be heard at the next meeting of the Committee, which will be held by adjournment on the second Thursday in October, in the Selectmen's Room.

A correspondent of a Boston paper, telling about the recent meeting of the Chief Engineers of the United States, at Nashville, Tenn., says:—

One incident of our trip was very pleasing. We were invited to visit the residence of Mrs. James K. Polk, at Nashville, and while there Chief J. R. Hopkins, of Somerville, Mass., sat down to the piano, and sang a ballad which so affected the hostess that the tears fully trickled down her cheeks.

Those who ever heard Chief Hopkins sing, will readily believe the above.

NEW BY-LAWS.—The Committee on revising the Town-By-Laws, chosen at the annual meeting in April, met on Thursday evening, the 13th inst., in the Selectmen's Room

HOW IT IS DONE.—The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich;" the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second (good health) by using a resounding effort from any of the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of Argus Flower will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Sold by W. W. Hill.

Married.

In Melrose, Sept. 19, by Rev. William S. Barnes, James W. McCrillis of Woburn, and Miss Louis Jones of Melrose. — In Melrose, Sept. 19, by Rev. William S. Barnes, William D. Grammer of Woburn, and Miss Mary A. Simonds of Burlington.

Died.

Date, name, and age, inserted free; all other notices 10 cents a line.

In Woburn, Sept. 15, Harry L. son of Isaac and Daniel F. Briggs, aged 6 months, 26 days.

In Woburn, Sept. 18, Margaret, daughter of Patrick and Bridget McDonald, aged 6 days.

In Woburn, Sept. 19, Anna, daughter of William Clegg, aged 16 months, 20 days.

In Winchester, Sept. 16, Dora B., daughter of Wm. P. and Sarah C. Warren, aged 4 years, 7 months, 21 days.

In Malone, N. Y., Sept. 16th, Willie, son of Alonso D. and Nellie F. Carpenter, aged 17 years, 2 months.

FAIR!

The ladies connected with the Methodist Episcopal Church and Congregation of Woburn, will hold a fair.

In the Vestry of their Church,

On Wednesday & Thursday Evng's

September 26th and 27th.

To which the friends of the society are cordially invited. There will be found the usual attractions viz:

Cake, Fruit, Fancy,

Farmers' and Pound Tables,

Candy, Ice Cream & Oysters.

Good Music may be expected.

Admission only TEN cents.

REDUCTION

THE WOBURN GAS LIGHT CO.

WILL SELL

COKE at $3 per chaldron

Until further notice

A. THOMPSON, Sup't.

225

HOW DA SHINE

A GREAT DISCOVERY!

By which you will only pay give them that brilliant polish, power to do laundry, saving time and labor in ironing more than it ever cost. Sold by A. ELLIS, Woburn.

Matchless Soap.

We have also received the Matchless Soap, and are now prepared to redeem all Tickets brought to our store.

132

BOSTON BRANCH STORE,

131 MAIN STREET, - - WOBURN.

HALL TO LET.

Post 25 G. A. R. having recently leased the Hall No. 101 Main St., Woburn, for Business, it being the second Hall in size in town, and the same with two large ante rooms, and all modern conveniences, will it to responsible parties of reasonable terms. — Inquiry of T. M. Dyer, P. S. SIMMONS, N. T. TABOR, J. HOWARD NASON.

GEORGE H. CONN,

Insurance Agent,

No. 168 Main Street,

WOBURN.

Represents First-Class

AMERICAN and FOREIGN

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES.

ALSO,

The CITIZENS

Mutual Fire Ins. Co.,

OF BOSTON,

Better known as the "OLD BRIGHTON," now paying 60 per cent. dividend.

90

All kinds of Property insured at the Lowest rates.

No charge for Policies.

OFFICE HOURS from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. Office closed Friday evenings.

BOSTON OFFICE:

5 Merchant's Exchange, 53 State St

OIL CARPETS.

The best assortment of Oil Carpets we ever have now for sale at the old stand,

OPPOSITE THE COMMON.

W. WOODBERRY.

BILLHEADS, Cards, Circulars, Note and Letter Heads, and every variety of printing neatly and promptly executed at this office.

NEW FALL STYLES!
NEW FALL STYLES!!
NEW FALL STYLES!!!

Just received from New York.

G. R. GAGE & Co.,
Merchant Tailors,
No. 171 Main Street, Woburn.

Middlesex Agricultural Society.

EIGHTY-THIRD

ANNUAL CATTLE SHOW

AT

CONCORD, MASS.,

Thursday & Friday, Sept. 27 & 28, 1877.

Order of Arrangements.

FIRST DAY, THURSDAY, SEPT. 27.

At 11 o'clock, A. M., precisely, meeting of Judges in the Hall of the Agricultural Society.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, A. M., trial of Working Oxen and Farms.

At 11:45, A. M., trial of Horses on the track, as follows:—1st, Breeding Mares; 2d, Colts; 3d, Family and Mated Horses; 4th, Gentleman's Driving.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, P. M., a Match Game of Base Ball, on the Society's Grounds, between the Arlington Club, of Arlington, and the Young American Club, of Woburn.

At 2 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 2:30, P. M., a Match Game of Base Ball, on the Society's Grounds, between the Arlington Club, of Arlington, and the Young American Club, of Woburn.

At 3 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 3:30, P. M., a Match Game of Base Ball, on the Society's Grounds, between the Arlington Club, of Arlington, and the Young American Club, of Woburn.

At 4 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 4:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 5 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 5:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 6 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 7 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 8 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 9 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10:30, P. M., a Match Game of Base Ball, on the Society's Grounds, between the Arlington Club, of Arlington, and the Young American Club, of Woburn.

At 11 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12 M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 2 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 3 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 4 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 5 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 6 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 7 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 8 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 9 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 11 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12 M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 2 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 3 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 4 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 5 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 6 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 7 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 8 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 9 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 11 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12 M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 2 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 3 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 4 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 5 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 6 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 7 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 8 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 9 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 10:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 11 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12 M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 12:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1 P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will examine all animals and articles.

At 1:30, P. M., the opening of the various Books, immediately after which they will

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. H. Nichols, Burlington, Mass.

Contributions solicited.

435.

BOUQUET OF FLOWERS.

By S. A. E.

1. A small animal and wearing apparel.
2. A young girl and covering for the head.
3. A pleasant expression and a sharp instrument.
4. A color and a hollow body for sound.
5. The fifth of the year and an article used in cooking.
6. A bird and to press forward.
7. A useful animal and a girl's name.
8. Lose the remembrance of, a personal pronoun, and to entangle.
9. A mirror.
10. Deity of shepherds, and the first two letters of a word meaning to contract.

436.

NUMERICAL ENIGMA.

BY "EAGLE EYE"

I am composed of nine letters.
My 1, 2, 3, 4, is a fish.
My 5, 6, 7, 9, is a plant.
My 8, is a consonant.
My whole is a town.

437.

DIAMOND.

BY KUER KUSS.

A letter; an animal; a repetition; a bitter plant; a letter.

438.

WORDS SQUARE.

BY SCRAPS.

An animal; a male name; a kind of dance; a female name.

439.

CROSS WORD ENIGMA.

BY CUTE.

In potato, not in vine;
In counter, not in sign;
In ale, not in drink;
In water, not in brine;
In town, not in civie;
Find two isles in the Pacific.

440.

BY NUTMEG.

1. 102 and rate.
2. 202 and taper.
3. 555 and robe. Birds.
4. 1001 and page.
5. 1051 and fango.

A collection of amateur journals for first complete list of answers.

441.

WORDS SQUARE.

BY HARRY A. MILTON.

An animal; animal; a plant.

442.

DIAMOND.

BY GEO. G. RAPHY.

A numeral; an animal; fruit of cedar trees; an animal; a town of East Africa; to demand; a letter.

443.

HOURL GLASS.

BY P. LEO.

A male name; a male name; a male name; in Benedict; a male name; a male name; a male name; Centrals, a male name.

ANSWERS.

426.

A L A M O

U T I C A

E L A N D

E N N I S

A A R O N

427.

P

C A T

C O C O A

B A Y

L

428.

Carduusbenedictus.

429.

T E A

E A R

A R M

430.

G

C A L

C A L E B

G A L I P O T

L E P I D

B O D

T

431.

B R O C K E T

H E R R I N G

C A R I B O U

K N D C K E

S A C K B U T

M I N E R V A

W H I T L O W

432.

T

E R A

T R A I N

R E N D T

R A M S

C O B

S A T I N

F L O W E R

T E D E

D E N

L E R R R

C A R A C

T E W

433.

L

V I M

L I V I D

M I X

D

434.

Tope-t.

435.

PRIZES.

Journal six months for first complete list of solutions.

Eastern Star one year for complete list, No. 2.

Little Lilliputian one year for complete list, No. 3.

12 pages of choice music for best incomplete list.

EDITOR'S DESK.

S. A. E. Hope to hear from you often. N. B. We have received a copy of Puzzled in a Nutshell, containing a complete history of the art with the names, noms-de-plumes and addresses of our Mystic Knights. This book is of value to all puzzlers, and can be obtained for the moderate sum of 25cts. A deduction of 40 per cent. will be allowed on orders for three or more copies. Address H. E. Juergens & Co., Charlotte Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEADHEADING ON THE NEWSPAPER.—The Rome Sentinel rises to explain, and its language is plain, and is as follows:

"There is no other business on which the public levies such heavy contributions as on the newspaper publishing business. An organization is getting up some kind of festivities, for example. It pays for the use of grounds, pays for music, pays for refreshments, gets $2 worth of tickets and $4 worth of bills printed either at a newspaper office or some where else, and then expect free advertising from the paper to an extent actually worth from $2 or $3 to $10. The mere announcement of a picnic, sociable or festival is an advertisement and ought to be paid for. The result is that generous proportion of the profits of nearly all entertainments of this kind is money which rightfully belongs to newspaper publishers. Then, after the thing is over, the managers will come in with a long string of resolutions, with which to rob the publisher of more valuable space. The truth of it is that space in a newspaper represents money. It is worth money to the publisher. There is no more reason why he should give it away than why a merchant should give away his goods. Part of a space of the paper is sold to business men for advertising purposes, the rest of the space is devoted to interesting reading matter. On the last the publisher depends for the attractions which shall sell his paper. Yet the space represents cash to him. The business man who buys space to the amount of $2 often buys a gratuity of local space to the amount $1 or $2 or even more. The managers of festivals, picnics or other home entertainments may not buy one cent's worth of space, but all the same expect the free gift of several dollars' worth of space. The minister, who never advertises, may want space to the amount of a dollar or two weekly, for the advertisement of coming sermons. The politician, even though he forgets to keep his subscription paid up demands column after column of valuable space free, and rarely so much as says thank you for it. For all this the newspaper man, taxed beyond any other business man, enjoys the high distinction of being regarded as a deadhead by two-thirds of his neighbors.

THE TRAMP IN NATURAL HISTORY.—The Norwegian lemming is an animal about the size of a mouse. It lives under stones in the summer, under snow in the winter. It is a savage little beast. It hisses and bites. About once in ten years they emigrate, in the autumn, in large armies. They march in straight line. They cross lakes and rivers. They go through hay stacks and corn stacks, rather than go round. Nothing stops them—not fire, cascades, or swamps. If a man stands in the way they will jump at him as high as his knees. If struck, they will turn around and bite and bark like a dog. Foxes, lynxes, owls, hawks, weasels will follow and destroy large numbers of them, but it does not check them. They continue their course until they reach the sea, into which they plunge, as persistent and progressive as ever, until the waves drown them, and exterminate them at last.

A ship once sailed for fifteen hours through a swarm of lemmings. They are the dread of the country, and formerly the priests launched the terrors of the church upon them, which did little good, although a cloud will frighten them. When attacked they get into a rage, and immediately back up against a stone, in order to prevent an assault in the rear. The rump of the animal is bare of hair in consequence of this habit.

The cause of these migrations has never been discovered; whether it is the relief of a surplus population, or a desire to seek a warmer climate, is not known. As a matter of fact they multiply very rapidly after one of these emigrations, rather than before—so fast, indeed, that they alarm the human population.

These emigrations are always to the westward, and always end in the Atlantic ocean. A late writer on the subject, who has studied their habits, conjectures that it is an inherited instinct; that, formerly, these animals emigrated for the sake of a milder climate. They found it on the continent which once existed, as geologists suppose, where the Atlantic ocean now rolls and tumbles. That continent has disappeared, but the instinct remains; and annual migrations of the lemming testify to the former existence of the continent.

Without being committed to the theory about lemming, it occurs to us that if, by some means, such an obstinate instinct to "go West" could be implanted in the tramp, it might, in time, relieve the country of a moving nuisance.—Gloucester Advertiser.

WOOD CHOPPING.—The styles of axes differ with nationalities, a Canadian chopper preferring a broad, square blade, with the weight more in the blade than elsewhere, the handles being short and thick. A down-east logger, one from Maine, selects a long, narrow head, the blade in crescent shape, the heaviest part in the top of the head above the eye. New York cutters select a broad, crescent-shaped blade, the whole head rather short, and the weight balanced evenly above and below the eye, that is, when the handle goes through. A western backwoodsman selects a long blade, the corners only rounded off, and the eye holding the weight of the axe. The American chopper, as a rule, selects a long, straight handle. The difference in handling is that a down-easter takes hold with both hands, of the extreme end, and throws his blows easily and gracefully, with a long sweep, over the left shoulder. A Canuck chops from directly over his head, with right hand well down on the handle to serve in jerking the blade out of the stick. A Westerner catches hold at the end of his handle, the hands about three inches apart, and delivers his blow rather direct from over the left shoulder. In fact, an expert in the woods will do better with a hand adze than with an axe.

LOVING FRIENDS.—Never cast aside your friends if by any possibility you can retain them. We are the weakest of spendthrifts if we let one drop off through inattention, or let one push away another, or if we hold aloof from one for petty jealousy or heedless slight or roughness. Would you throw away a diamond because it pricked you? One good friend is not to be weighed against the jewels of all the earth. If there is coldness or unkindness between us, let us come face to face and have it out. Quick, before the love grows cold! Life is too short to quarrel in, or to carry black thoughts of friends. It is easy to loose a friend, but a new one will not come for calling, nor make up for the old one.

LOVING FRIENDS.—Never cast aside your friends if by any possibility you can retain them. We are the weakest of spendthrifts if we let one drop off through inattention, or let one push away another, or if we hold aloof from one for petty jealousy or heedless slight or roughness. Would you throw away a diamond because it pricked you? One good friend is not to be weighed against the jewels of all the earth. If there is coldness or unkindness between us, let us come face to face and have it out. Quick, before the love grows cold! Life is too short to quarrel in, or to carry black thoughts of friends. It is easy to loose a friend, but a new one will not come for calling, nor make up for the old one.

BEAUTIFUL THOUGHT.—At the edge of a valley, at the foot of a mountain, or on the verge of a mighty forest, when the air is still and calm, the least breath of music or swell of sound travels afar, and comes back over the quietude with a clearness that is magical. So, when the heart is big with emotion, or the mind calmly ponders some truth only half grasped, how a little tone of love, or sympathy or encouragement will bound over the heart's valley, up to its mountain peak, and through its trackless forest, and return with four-fold vigor, and seem, not as an echo, but a tone direct from the very chambers of Heaven.—Earl Marble.

ABOUT AS USEFUL A THING AS WE CAN HAVE IN A LONG RUN IS BREATH.

DEADHEADING ON THE NEWSPAPER.—The Rome Sentinel rises to explain, and its language is plain, and is as follows:

"There is no other business on which the public levies such heavy contributions as on the newspaper publishing business. An organization is getting up some kind of festivities, for example. It pays for the use of grounds, pays for music, pays for refreshments, gets $2 worth of tickets and $4 worth of bills printed either at a newspaper office or some where else, and then expect free advertising from the paper to an extent actually worth from $2 or $3 to $10. The mere announcement of a picnic, sociable or festival is an advertisement and ought to be paid for. The result is that generous proportion of the profits of nearly all entertainments of this kind is money which rightfully belongs to newspaper publishers. Then, after the thing is over, the managers will come in with a long string of resolutions, with which to rob the publisher of more valuable space. The truth of it is that space in a newspaper represents money. It is worth money to the publisher. There is no more reason why he should give it away than why a merchant should give away his goods. Part of a space of the paper is sold to business men for advertising purposes, the rest of the space is devoted to interesting reading matter. On the last the publisher depends for the attractions which shall sell his paper. Yet the space represents cash to him. The business man who buys space to the amount of $2 often buys a gratuity of local space to the amount $1 or $2 or even more. The managers of festivals, picnics or other home entertainments may not buy one cent's worth of space, but all the same expect the free gift of several dollars' worth of space. The minister, who never advertises, may want space to the amount of a dollar or two weekly, for the advertisement of coming sermons. The politician, even though he forgets to keep his subscription paid up demands column after column of valuable space free, and rarely so much as says thank you for it. For all this the newspaper man, taxed beyond any other business man, enjoys the high distinction of being regarded as a deadhead by two-thirds of his neighbors.

ABOUT AS USEFUL A THING AS WE CAN HAVE IN A LONG RUN IS BREATH.

Clothing, Hats, &amp;c.

A. GRANT,

Merchant Tailor

AND DEALER IN

READY-MADE

CLOTHING

—AND—

GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS.

Made to order and warranted to fit.

NO. 169 MAIN STREET,

Woburn, Mass.

Orders by mail promptly attended to.

196 Main Street. 196

WOBURN.

Opp. Post Office.

T. MORRIS

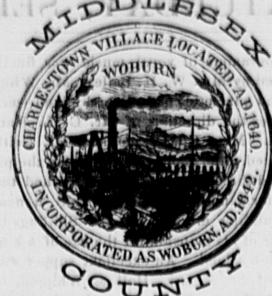

Keeps on hand a large assortment of

PARLOR, DINING ROOM

AND

CHAMBER

WOBURN

JOURNAL.

VOL. XXVII.

WOBURN, MASS., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1877.

NO. 39.

Florists.

S. W. Tucomby & Sons,
FLORISTS,
101 TREMONT STREET,
BOSTON, MASS. 13

Professional Cards.

J. P. WOODHAN, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
OFFICE:
At the late residence of Dr. E. Cutler.
Office Hours—2 and 7 P. M. 14

JOHN G. MAGUIRE.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
192 MAIN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS. 9

Charles Day Adams,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
7 Court Sq., Boston, 172 Main St., Woburn,
10 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M., 6 P. M., 9 A. M.,
Residence, Corner of Pleasant and Main Streets, Woburn.

GEO. W. NORRIS,
COUNSELLOR AT LAW, AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
OFFICES—33 State Street, Boston, and at Residence,
Corner of Pleasant and Main Streets, Woburn.
Cases, and actions pending in the State Courts. Accounts adjusted, and general law business attended to with promptness and fidelity. 15

B. COFFIN,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
NO. 4 NILE BLOCK, BOSTON.
Entrance from Court Street and 33 School Street.

CHESTER W. CLARK,
General Collection Office,
61 COURT STREET, BOSTON.
Room 2, 18
Overdue Notes and Demands collected in all parts of the United States and Canada.

REMOVAL.
DR. C. T. LANG,
DENTIST.
NO. 7 RAILROAD STREET,
WOBURN. 73

J. O. GOODWIN,
Civil Engineer & Surveyor,
Office—Husk's Coal Office, Winchester.
Estates divided and laid out to the best advantage.
Streets surveyed and graded.
All work guaranteed to be accurate. All orders left on the slate will be promptly attended to. 33

Photograph Gallery,
10 Tremont Row, Boston.
(Over George H. Maynard's Jewelry Store.)
Club Pictures to schools and families. 12 tickets for $10. Copying of all kinds at lowest rates. 20

H. S. DUNSHEE, — Artist.

Auctioneers.

WILLIAM WINN,
AUCTIONEER,
BURLINGTON, MASS. 39

Sale of Real and Personal Estate attended to on reasonable terms. Orders left at the JOURNAL, or Woburn, promptly attended to.

E. PRIOR,
AUCTIONEER,
Office, 89 Court Street, Boston.
Orders left at H. F. Smith's Tea Store, 154 Main Street, Woburn, will receive prompt attention. 40

Musical.

JOHN C. BUCK,
TEACHER OF
PIANO FORTE & REED ORGAN,
AT HIS RESIDENCE, 27
Fairmount Street, Woburn.

Miss J. A. Campbell,
desires a few pupils on the 28
PIANO FORTE,
and will also teach TEMPO. Terms reasonable to suit the times. For particulars call at her residence, No. 70 Main Street, near Green St.

Machinists.
ESTABLISHED 1865.
Parks & Freeman,
MACHINISTS,
And Manufacturers of
Leather Machinery,
GLASING, STONING,
Polishing and Pebbling Jacks, etc.
Mill and Steam work of all kinds. Shaving, Pulley, Gearing, Steam, Water and Gas Fittings, Tanneries and Currying. Shop fitted up at short notice.

97, 99, and 101 Main Street,
WOBURN, MASS.
All orders promptly attended to. Copartnership formed January 1st, 1877. 78

JAMES BUEL & CO.,
MACHINISTS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
STEAM ENGINES,
Bolters, Shafting, Pulleys, Gearing,
and all kinds of Machine work. 29

130 MAIN STREET.
J. BUEL.

Business Cards.

JOHN BRYANT,
PAINTING, GLAZING, KALSMINING,
PAPER HANGING, &c.
Corner of Main and Salem Streets, Woburn, Mass. 33

CHARLES HURD,
CLOTHES
CLEANED, REPAIRED AND DYED. Felt Hats and Ladies' Slips cleaned.
WILM STREET, WOBURN.
Next door to Hose House. 84

STEPHEN H. CUTTER,
TOWN BILL POSTER
AND DISTRIBUTOR.
WOBURN, MASS.
Orders left at Porter's Cigar Store, 139 Main street, promptly attended to. 88 Has control of all Bill Boards in town. 88 Orders by mail promptly attended to. 36

L. A. BRUCE,
HOUSE, SHIP AND SIGN PAINTER,
52 So. Market, cor. Commercial St.,
BOSTON. 86
Gilding, Graining and Paper Hanging done with neatness and dispatch. Paints of all kinds constantly on hand.
Residence:—Woburn Street, Winchester.

T. A. B. NORRIS,
Sign and Carriage
PAINTER,
133 NO. 17 WINN STREET,
WOBURN, MASS. 20
Whitewashing and all kinds of Jobbing
promptly attended to. 20
Residence, cor. Main and Main Streets, Woburn.

JOHN O. SINCLAIR,
Masur, Plasterer & Stucco Worker.
Washing and all kinds of Jobbing
promptly attended to. 24

George H. Conn,
INSURANCE AGENT,
NO. 168 MAIN STREET, 21
WOBURN, MASS.

CENTRAL HOUSE
Livery, Hack & Boarding
STABLE,
212 MAIN STREET, WOBURN,
G. F. JONES, 22 PROPRIETOR.

E. K. WILLOUGHBY,
and Job Carpenter,
WALNUT ST., NEAR MAIN, WOBURN.

Boots, Shoes and Rubbers.
180 Main Street, Woburn.
82 Grammar Bros. Boots and Shoes constantly on hand.

M. ELLIS & CO.
BUILDING MOVERS
—AND— 26

CONTRACTORS.
WINN STREET, WOBURN.

New Fish Market.
J. H. RIGGS,
6 Railroad Street.

will furnish the citizens of Woburn, the best quality of all kinds of fish at reasonable prices. A share of proportion is respectfully solicited. 172

LADIES' AND GENTS'
BOOTS and SHOES

Made to order. Half soiling and heel $1.00
JOSEPH LEATHÉ, JR., 185
241 Main Street, — Woburn.

Watchmakers, &c.
G. F. SMITH & CO.,

Watchmakers and Jewelers,
DEALERS IN

Watches, Clocks & Jewelry.
No. 187 Main St., Woburn, Mass.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry promptly repaired and satisfaction guaranteed. 37

KEROSENE OIL STOVES,
A COMPLETE

Apparatus for Cooking
At less than one quarter the expense of

WOOD and COAL,
FOR SALE BY

L. THOMPSON, Jr.,
Dealer in

Hardware, Cutlery,

Cooking and Parlor Stoves,

Manufacturer of 68

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

213 Main Street,

WOBURN, — MASS.

Concrete.

Concrete Paving.

WALTER BATES.

is prepared to receive orders for Concrete Paving at low price of 60 cents per yard.

Orders may be left at PORTER'S CIGARSTORE

No. 139 Main Street. 30

Poetical Selection.

A FACT.

When trade grew slack
And notes fell due,
The merchant's face
Grew long and blue.

His dreams were troubled
Through the night
With sheriff's bailiffs
All in sight.

At last his wife
Unto him said:
"Rise up at once—
Get out of bed;

"And get your paper,
Ink and pen,
And say these words
Unto all men:

My goods I wish
To sell to you,
And to your wives
And daughters, too.

"My prices are
So very low
That all will buy
Before they go."

He did as by
His wife advised,
And in the papers
Advertised.

Crowds came and bought
Off all he had;
His notes were paid,
His dreams were glad.

And he will tell you
To this day,
How well did printer's
Ink repay.

He told us
With a knowing wink,
How he was saved
By printer's ink.

Selected Story.

A GOOD TURN.

It was not intended in the Magilvray family that Miss Alice of that name, should marry Eugene Descamp. Not that young Eugene was not good enough for Miss Alice, but that, being exceedingly pretty, bright and attractive, she might do better, as the phrase goes, and the Magilvrys were greatly in need of her doing better. In their old days they used to be somebody; now owing to disaster, poverty, ill-luck, and lack of enterprise, they were nobodies. If Alice, the flower of the family, should have a success matrimonially, it would bring her much less lovely sisters into connections where they, comparatively speaking, might do well, and her brothers where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers

where some sort of business chance might meet them. Mrs. Magilvray begged many a weary hour in speculations on the advantages that would follow a brilliant marriage on Alice's part; she saw her other girls in the splendid dresses and jewels that the wealthy brother-in-law would give them; she saw her own home made yearly more delightful by the delicate but expensive little attentions of Alice herself; and she saw business chances actually throwing themselves at the boys' feet. It all depended on Alice's yet meeting with this millionaire of a lover in posse before she became fairly entangled with anybody else; and her brothers where some

Woburn Journal.

John L. Parker, Editor and Proprietor.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY,
At No. 204 Main Street, Woburn, Mass.

Subscription, $2.00 a year, payable in advance. Single copies, 5 cents.
For 15 cents a line. Religious notices, 10 cents a line. Obituary notices, 10 cents a line.
The figure printed with the subscriber's name on the list, shows to what time the subscription is paid. If any error is observed, please notify the office at once.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1877.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

	Page	Col.	No.
Wilmot,	3	2	2
O. Dinsen,	3	2	7
A. C. & E. G. Bullard,	2	3	2
Dramatist,	3	1	3
Utility and Brilliance,	3	1	7
Novelty,	3	4	1
Board Wanted,	2	7	2
Annual Meeting,	2	7	1
Protest Notice, Patty Parker,	1	1	4
F. S. Burgess,	3	1	4
W. H. S. G. A. Meeting,	2	7	4
Lost,	1	1	4
Dissolution of Co-partnership,	3	1	5
A. Card, Methodist Society,	2	7	5

THE CROPS OF 1877.

The immense crops of the year are now so nearly all gathered that a close estimate can be made both of the quality and quantity, and while we hear of suffering and starvation in some parts of the lands and the sad ravages of one of the most cruel wars of modern times are causing immense destruction and waste in the East, our own country blessed with peace and a promising revival of most of the great industries and consequent improvement in commercial affairs, has an immense crop of the staple products, in many cases surpassing those of any former years. The toiling millions now employed at prices which seem hardly remunerative when compared with war prices, will with economy be able to meet the demands of the inclement season far more easily than in times when starvation prices rule.

Prices must rule low unless the foreign demand should exceed all present calculations. The sharper and speculator will, no doubt, still be on hand to improve even the smallest excuse for a rise, but the total product is too large for the greed of the most avaricious even to control beyond reason, and with low prices a large demand for export, peace and prosperity throughout the country, we may well take courage and believe that the closing months of 1877 are to witness a strong advance toward the good times so long promised but which till very recently have seemed to be reserved for the distant future. We hope the reasonable expectations of all may be realized, and learning experience from the past, let prudence, industry and integrity be the controlling influences in all the varied affairs of life.

SELECTMEN.—A sub-committee on sewerage met with the Boston Water Board in a very pleasant conference, in regard to the Mystic Valley sewer. They will make their report to the whole Board at the next regular meeting. Preparations are being made for the registration of voters, due notice of which readiness will be given. It is exceedingly important that voters should see that they are registered when the time shall arrive, as Sec. 3 of the statute in regard to registration, reads as follows:—"No name shall be added to a voting list in any town, unless it has been recorded in said register."

COLT.—At Wilmington, last Friday, Mr. E. O. Soles exhibited on the street his handsome and promising colt, "Glendower Patchen." This colt is two years and four months old, stands fifteen hands, and one and three quarters inches, and weighs eight hundred and fifty pounds. He already shows a good gait, and is very stylish. He attracted much attention as he was driven up and down the road, and excited many favorable comments. Mr. Soles has refused one thousand dollars for him.

MIDDLESEX NORTH.—The fair of this society was held at Lowell on Tuesday and Wednesday. The show of cattle was not quite up to the highest standard, but the hall exhibit was excellent. On Wednesday a clam-bake was served to six hundred guests. Speeches were made by Gov. Rice, C. L. Flint, John D. Long, Geo. A. Marden, and others. The attractions outside of those usually offered, were a base ball game and a foot race. Norman Taylor ran five miles in 28.32. There was a large attendance both days.

BASE BALL.—A picked nine of Woburn, and the Red Stockings, of Stoneham, played a match game last Saturday, resulting in the defeat of the former by a score of 23 to 3.

Last Saturday the Shamrocks went to Melrose and won a game from the Alfreys of that place. Score, 11 to 9.

At Montvale last Saturday, the Gen. Worths, of Stoneham, and the Centennials, of Lynn, played a game for the amateur championship. The former won the game by a score of 9 to 6.

REFORM CLUB FAIR.—The friends of temperance should bear in mind the Fair to be given by the Reform Club assisted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, at their rooms for three days, commencing Tuesday, Oct. 2d. These organizations make an earnest appeal for contribution and patronage.

COURT RECORD.—William J. Gillespie, drunk, second offence, $10 and costs. Wm. Manning, drunk, second offence, $10 and costs, battery, $3 and costs. George Chino, drunk, $3 and costs. James Quirk, drunk, $3 and costs. Martin O'Brien, drunk, $3 and costs. Alice Burrill, drunk, $3 and costs.

DRAMATIC.—M. Allen's Dramatic Combination give an opening entertainment at Lyceum Hall, Wednesday evening, Oct. 3d. The Idiot Witness and Loan of a Lover will be presented. See advertisement.

CRUSHED.—Willie McDonald had his finger caught in a moulding machine, Monday morning, at Russell's shoe stock manufactory, and lost the nail and the end of his finger.

ADJOURNED.—The Sheriff's Jury, summoned in the Winchester case, met Tuesday and viewed the premises in Winchester, and adjourned till next Wednesday.

INSPECTION.—Post 75 G. A. R., of Stoneham was inspected Monday evening by Assistant Inspector A. P. Barrett. A delegation of Post 35 went over.

INDIANS.—There is a camp of Indians located on the banks of the old Middlesex Canal, where it crosses Main St., North Woburn.

BIG SUNFLOWER.—A sunflower, having a circumference of forty-five inches, adored the premises of Mrs. McCabe, on Mt. Pleasant St., the first of the week.

SICK.—Mr. L. B. Russell has been confined to his home at Lynn for a week by an attack of rheumatism.

ALMSHOUSE.—Rev. S. H. Winkley will conduct the services at the Almshouse next Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30.

SEMI CIGARS.—Everybody that has tried Curtis's semi cigars pronounces them the best five cent cigars they ever smoked.

BAND CONCERT.—The National Band will give a concert on the Common next Friday evening.

FIRE.—On Monday evening, at about 12 o'clock, Mr. E. S. Bullard, residing off New Boston Street, was awakened by the continued barking of his dog in his barn. He went out and quieted the restless animal, and shortly after returning to the house he was startled by a crackling sound from the barn. Dressing and returning to the barn, he found it thoroughly afire. An alarm was quickly given, but the barn was not saved on account of the rapid progress of the flames. The house was near the barn and damaged to the amount of $75. Two horses and a cow were luckily in a pasture near the barn, and a pig in a pen outside. His breeding utensils, a pung, sleigh and other personal property were burned. A light harness was removed from the barn, and all the furniture from the house. There had been a fire in a brick fireplace in the barn during the afternoon, which had been carefully extinguished after having been used, from which, however, the fire may have originated.

The there was $1000 insurance on the barn and $1500 on the house in the North American Co.

CATHOLIC FAIR.—A very successful Fair commenced Sept. 10th, and ended Wednesday evening of this week, in Lyceum Hall, under the auspices of the St. Charles Temperance Society. The object was to raise money to build a Temperance Hall, on land donated by Father Qualeay, on Main Street. There were five tables filled with useful and fancy articles, and a refreshment table. The Jackson Guards, of Charlestown, Captain Murphy commanding, drilled in the hall last Friday evening. The Wakefield Cadets drilled Saturday evening, and the McClure Battalion Monday evening. Mr. Frank McDonald was voted the silver mounted whip, as being the most popular driver. Miss Mary A. McGuire received the prayer-book voted to the most popular young lady. Mr. J. W. Ellard took the cane as the most popular young man. William Breslin, the currier's knife, to the most popular currier. Philip Hoskins won the revolver, given for the best ten shots with an air gun.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.—On Monday evening the relatives of Mr. J. L. Pinkham executed a skillfully-planned and genuine surprise upon him and his wife on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage day. The friends came from Boston, Salem and Revere, took possession of the house, and spread a bountiful table. After having enjoyed the literary and social pleasures usually incident to similar occasions, they returned to their homes, leaving behind as evidences of their presence and regard, a fine china tea-set, an elegant reclining chair and a silver cake basket containing one hundred and fifty silver half dollars.

THE NURSERY.—On Monday evening the relatives of Mr. J. L. Pinkham executed a skillfully-planned and genuine surprise upon him and his wife on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage day. The friends came from Boston, Salem and Revere, took possession of the house, and spread a bountiful table. After having enjoyed the literary and social pleasures usually incident to similar occasions, they returned to their homes, leaving behind as evidences of their presence and regard, a fine china tea-set, an elegant reclining chair and a silver cake basket containing one hundred and fifty silver half dollars.

GOOD TEAM.—There are few young men who have the good fortune to be able to put out on the road summer or winter, with a neater team, single or double, than Mr. William F. Greenough, of East Woburn. He was out Monday evening with a gray and a chestnut mare, which made a fine team and a good team.

CARELESS HANDLING OF A GUN.—One day this week one of Charles Pierce's sons snapped a gun which "he didn't know was loaded," and a moment after he was sure it wasn't, for he had just seen a partition mutilated by the charge. Luckily no one was hurt.

THE MOSAIC CARPETS.—The Mosaic Carpets advertised in our columns today are indeed a "Novelty," whether price, style or quality is considered. Sixty-four cents per square yard is but a trifling price for these goods, and it is well worth the price charged for a "Sample Yard," which will make a useful rug, to see what can be procured for the money. Send $1.20 to Learned, Hartley, & Co., Boston, and be convinced.

THE BEST WORK IS THE CHEAPEST.—The best work is the cheapest, so is Ivers Buggy.

WILMINGTON.

INSTALLATION.—Rev. D. P. Noyes will be installed as pastor of the Congregational Church, Friday evening, Oct. 5th. Rev. Daniel March, D. D., of Woburn, will preach the sermon.

WINCHESTER.

SURPRISE.—On Tuesday evening last, some fifty of Mr. J. Frank Baxter's former pupils gave him a grand surprise and reception at his residence on Park Street. A ring at the door was followed by a call for Mr. Baxter. The latter appearing was the signal for "three cheers," which were lustily given. Then entered the pupils with their flowers, fruits and goodies, of course, —taking complete possession of the rooms, to the utter surprise of their teacher. All quickly and quietly arranged, Master Blaisdell presented for the same two large, beautiful and neatly framed engravings entitled "The Voyage of Life," and "The Orphan's Rescue," using the following well-chosen words replete with feeling:—

MR. BAXTER.—We are here to-night to express our confidence in you as a man, and our gratitude to you as a teacher. We know that hundreds of others have expressed a similar sentiment, and many more would be glad to grasp your hand and bid you God speed. In behalf of these, your former pupils, we come here to present to you this memento of our affection and regard. May it remind you, as it has thousands of others, that in the stormy passage of life there is ever some good angel near to guide and protect us.

DRAMATIC.—M. Allen's Dramatic Combination give an opening entertainment at Lyceum Hall, Wednesday evening, Oct. 3d. The Idiot Witness and Loan of a Lover will be presented. See advertisement.

CRUSHED.—Willie McDonald had his finger caught in a moulding machine, Monday morning, at Russell's shoe stock manufactory, and lost the nail and the end of his finger.

ADJOURNED.—The Sheriff's Jury, summoned in the Winchester case, met Tuesday and viewed the premises in Winchester, and adjourned till next Wednesday.

INDIANS.—There is a camp of Indians located on the banks of the old Middlesex Canal, where it crosses Main St., North Woburn.

BIG SUNFLOWER.—A sunflower, having a circumference of forty-five inches, adored the premises of Mrs. McCabe, on Mt. Pleasant St., the first of the week.

SICK.—Mr. L. B. Russell has been confined to his home at Lynn for a week by an attack of rheumatism.

ALMSHOUSE.—Rev. S. H. Winkley will conduct the services at the Almshouse next Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30.

SEMI CIGARS.—Everybody that has tried Curtis's semi cigars pronounces them the best five cent cigars they ever smoked.

BAND CONCERT.—The National Band will give a concert on the Common next Friday evening.

CONCORD CATTLE SHOW.

The eighty-third annual exhibition of the Middlesex Agricultural Society opened auspiciously. The weather was cool and pleasant, and the attendance very large on the opening day. There was an excellent showing of fruit, flowers and vegetables, which were tastefully arranged in the large exhibition hall. There was also a very creditable exhibit of needle-work, fancy articles, Serton, carving, etc., and the usual array of relics of "ye olden time." The forenoon was taken up with a trial of working oxen, horses and colts on the track. The annual meeting of the society was held at 1:30 P. M., the Hon. John Cummings of Woburn, presiding. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Hon. John Cummings, of Woburn; Secretary, Benjamin W. Brown, of Concord; Treasurer, Richard Barrett, of Concord; Vice Presidents, John B. Moore, of Concord, and Henry Davis, of Cambridgeport. The only change in the Board of Trustees were the election of C. H. Tilton, of Ashland, in place of W. F. Ellis; George Hill, of Arlington, in place of Andrew Wellington; Warren Heustis, of Belmont, in place of Thomas S. Hittinger; Edward Reed, of Burlington, in place of William Winn; Edwin Wheeler, of Concord, in place of Richard Barrett; Charles G. Somers, of Somerville, in place of George O. Brastow; C. L. Viles, of Waltham, in place of Jonas Viles; William Winn, of Woburn, in place of George Russell, and the election of Asa Clement, of Dracut, as a new member.

At two o'clock there was a match game of base ball for a purse of $25, between the Young Americans of Waltham, and the Unknowns of Arlington, which was won by the Young Americans by a score of 9 to 2. Horner and O'Brien, of Woburn, played pitcher and catcher with the Unknowns. In the first inning there was a very neat piece of double play, in which O'Brien threw to second and put out a man running from first, and the ball was returned to O'Brien, who put out another running from third. The Unknowns, however, were overmatched in the Waltham Club.

The track was in poor condition for trotting, and the two races were not very interesting. The following are some of the premiums awarded for horses:—

HORSES AND COLTS.—Best four-year-old colt, J. R. Farnum of Waltham; best three-year-old colt, J. H. Orne of Winchester; best two-year-old colt, E. O. Soles of Woburn; best yearling colt, George Barker of Littleton; best colt under one year, G. A. Noble of Bedford; best matched pair of horses, John Cummings of Woburn; best family horse, Morton Alger of Cambridge; best driving horse, Josiah Welsh of Hudson; best breeding mare, G. W. Dunn of Weston.

There was a large attendance from Woburn on Thursday, the "Commonwealth" going over, besides many private teams. This Friday morning the weather is threatening, and it may affect the attendance. A large number have gone over, however.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NICHOLAS MINTURN.—A study in a story, by J. G. Holland. Scribner, Armstrong & Co., New York. $1.15.

It is hard to imagine how the author could have added to the attractions of this work. The experience of the hero Nicholas in the thousands form in which the almost numberless acts of fraud, deception, hypocrisy, and their long train of attendant evils are shown so life like that the reader almost imagines himself the victim of them. The history of the Coats family gives a truthful picture of the shadow without the substance, the tinsel and show too often found which in comparison with solid character is like the basest metals when placed by the side of pure gold.

The villain Benson is one of the long list of those who in the past few years have been the bubble and their black record laid bare before an indignant public, while the sufferings of widows and orphans financially ruined show on every hand. In fact the whole story is so thoroughly interesting that the reader will find himself spell-bound and unwilling to make any delay till he has reached the last of its over four hundred pages. The book is very nicely bound and is a valuable addition to the long list of publications of this enterprising firm so well known to all readers.

The Nursery for October opens with the parrot that played truant. A baby lay is good, and so is the picture of a chestnut.

There are directions how to draw a goose, and Emma and her dolls will please all the little tots. The cat with a bird on its back, and the big-eyed owl, and we shan't try to name all the pretty pictures, but we wish all the little folks could see this number. J. L. Shorey, publisher, 36 Bromfield Street, Boston.

The RICHARDSON MEMORIAL.—Of this volume, the full title is "The Richardson Memorial, comprising a full history and genealogy of the posterity of the three brothers, Ezekiel, Samuel and Thomas Richardson, who came from England and united with others in the foundation of Woburn, Mass., in the year 1647; of John Richardson, of Medfield, 1679; of Amos Richardson, of Boston, 1640; of Edward and William Richardson, of Newbury, 1653; with notices of Richardsonsons in England and elsewhere." By John Adams Vinton, author of the Vinton Memorial, of the Giles Memorial, of the Upton Memorial, of the Symmes Memorial, of the Green Family, and other Genealogical Works." Portland. Printed for the subscribers by Brown, Thurston & Co., 1876.

The compiler of this work was induced to undertake it, partly from attachment to his wife, who was by birth a Richardson of Stoneham, and partly by the representations of several members of the Richardson family.

Among the subscribers to the work were Roswell M. Richardson, Mayor of Portland, William A. Richardson, of Washington, D. C., formerly Secretary of the Treasury, George C. Richardson, an eminent merchant of Boston, the successor of the great firm of the Lawrences, Charles A. Richardson, of Boston, the managing editor and chief editor of the Congregationalist, Albert Lewis Richardson, of Boston, Albert Lewis Richardson, of East Woburn, the three sons of the late General Alford Richardson, of Cambridge, Thomas F. Richardson, of Boston, etc. It contains nearly one thousand pages octavo, and is beautifully printed on tinted paper, and is adorned with sixteen fine portraits on steel, of prominent members of the various families. Among them is that of Major General Israel Bush Richardson, who was in nearly all the important battles of the Mexican War, and in the War of the Rebellion, down to the time of receiving his fatal wound, which was at the sanguinary battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862. In this battle he led the left wing of Sumner's corps, in the very hottest of the fray. The volume contains notices, some of them quite extended, of more than nine thousand Richardsonsons and their children, and nearly as many more connected with the family, bearing other names. Of the volume, the New England Historical and Genealogical Register for January, 1877, speaks as follows:—"Rev. Mr. Vinton has no superior as a compiler of genealogies. He has produced many valuable books in this line, but in our opinion, the Richardson Memorial surpasses them all. Upon it the author bestowed immense labor

Puzzle Column.

Address all communications for this column to M. Nichols, Burlington, Mass.
Contributions solicited.

444.

PRIZE GEOGRAPHICAL DIAGONAL.
By NUTMEG TO BROWNE.

With compliments.

1. A county of N. Carolina.
2. A county of Alabama.
3. A county of Florida.
4. A county of Mississippi.
5. A county of Louisiana.
6. A county of Tennessee.
7. A county of Arkansas.

Diagonals: From upper left to lower right, a county of Ohio; from lower left to upper right, a county of Iowa; from the upper left to center and thence to upper right, a county of Virginia; from the lower left to center and thence to lower right, a county of Illinois.

445.

DIAMOND.

By S. A. E.

A vegetable; an article of wearing apparel; a weight; a model; idolater; a weight; a consonant.

446.

TRIPLE CROSS WORD ENIGMA.
By H. A. MILTON.

First in most, second in love.
Third in strike, fourth in knave.
Fifth in ocean, sixth in prance,
Seventh in arode, eighth in prefer,
Ninth in tile, tenth in painter,
Eleventh in tickled, I tell you true,
Best writer ever I knew.
You will find with him united,
Two good books he indited.

447.

DIAMOND.

By KUEER KUSS.

A consonant; an animal; a guide; an animal; a consonant.

448.

PRIZE STEPLADDER PUZZLE.
By SCRAPS TO BROWNE.

```
0 0 0
0 0 0
0 0 0 0
0 0 0
0 0 0 0 0
0 1 0 0 0
0 0 0 0 0 0 0
0 2 0
```

1. Savor. 2. A bird.
Steps: across: beginning at the top. A birdie name; skill; a fruit; a farming utensil; a town of Penn; a town of Mass; a town of Conn; a musical instrument; a boy's nick name. Down: a letter from "Brownie"; a trench; a french measure; a county in Utah; a little boat; to dance; a basket; a male name; to open; a boy's nickname.

Eastern Star one year for first solution.

449.

PRIZE TRIPLE CROSS WORD ENIGMA.
By CUTE.

First in rattle, not in toy;
Second in rattle, not in noise;
Third in rattle, do not be annoyed,
But search for a hidden Rhomboid.
A silver coin for first solution.

450.

HALF WORDS SQUARE.
By N. TERTAIN.

A puzzler; a tree; a river of France; a boy's nickname; two letters from Ireland; one letter from England.

ANSWERS.

455.

Fox-glove.

2. Maiden-hair.

3. Smilax.

4. Blue-bell.

5. May-flower.

6. Lark-spur.

7. Exales.

8. Forget-me-not.

9. Ladies-delight.

10. Pansy.

436.

Charlotte.

437.

F

C U R

F U G U E

R U E

E

438.

H A R E

A B E L

R E E L

E L L A

439.

O C E A N

P E L E W

440.

1. Ictera.

2. Accipiter.

3. Love Bird.

4. Magpie.

5. Flamingo.

441.

B A T

A P E

T E A

442.

M

C A T

C O N E S

M A N A T U S

T E T T E

S U E

S

443.

A N T H O N Y

E N E A S

I R A

B

B E N

J A R E D

M A T T H E W

P R I Z E S.

Southern Star one year for first solution to No. 448.

Journal three months for first complete list of answers.

Puzzler's Own one year for complete list to No. 2.

***
Pretty girls are the guide-boards that point the way to the State of Matrimony.

PIGS IN COURT.—A learned jurisconsult, M. Berriat St. Prix, examining the archives of the old French criminal courts, found more than sixty accounts of trials in which swine or other animals were placed at the bar—as we should call it—as criminals, or offenders accused of crime. These occurred at various dates, from the twelfth century down far into the seventeenth, the later centuries of the Middle Ages, and the earlier of the modern. The Church had been accustomed to pronounce anathemas on some occasions against certain noxious vermin, such as field mice, May bugs, caterpillars, snails, and others hurtful to the farms and gardens. But the criminal trial of animals was a different thing altogether. The instances referred to by M. Berriat St. Prix related mostly to offenders of the porcine genus, but some applied to bulls and cows and other animals. One of the trials took place in the year 1266. The officer of justice of the Monastery of St. Genevieve, brought to trial a hog that had killed and partly devoured a poor little infant, at Fontenay aux Roses, near Paris. The culprit, found guilty, was sentenced to the punishment of being roasted to death—an example of roast pork which will probably be rather new to most English readers. Again, in the year 1385, a magistrate of Falaise, in Normandy, after a formal examination into the facts, condemned a sow to be mutilated in the leg and in the head, and then to be hanged for having killed and partly devoured an infant. Of course the prisoner at the bar was neither asked nor expected to give evidence in her own defense. The executioner was furnished with new gloves on the occasion. Again, the just and upright officer of the Abbey of Beauvais, near Beauvais, instituted a formal inquiry into a charge brought against a bull of having viciously killed a maid-servant thirteen years of age, in the Seigneurie of Cambray, a dependency of the Abbey. The facts were investigated, the animal found guilty, sentence passed, and the bull put to death by hanging. So far as appears, the four-footed beasts condemned after these curious trials, were not put out of the world in the usual way; they suffered the more ignominious death of folios. Just before the close of the fifteenth century, in the time of our Henry VII, a zoological trial,—if the term may be used—was held, concerning which M. Berriat St. Prix gives us some of the technical modes of procedure. It was held before the bailli, or judicial officer of the Abbey of Josaphat, near Chartres. "Monday, April 18, 1499, an inquiry was held before us at the request of the procurer of Messieurs the Monks of the Abbey of Josaphat, against Jehad Delalande and his wife, prisoners in the jail of this abbey, by reason of the untimely death of a child named Gilon, about a year and a half old, which child had been duly nursed and nourished by its mother. The child was murdered by a pig, about the said Delalande and his wife. Considering the charge brought, and the evidence taken, we have condemned and do hereby condemn the said pig for the reason and facts established, to be hanged and executed by our executioner, in the jurisdiction of Messieurs our Superiors, and by virtue of our definitive and lawful power. Given under the countersign of the said bailliage, the year and day above named.—Signed, C. Brisez." There is no statement that Delalande and his wife bore any part of the punishment inflicted on their porcine property.—All the Year Round.

***
The IRON DISAPPEARED.—A correspondent of the Springfield Republican writes from Charleston: "Dr. Shepherd pointed out to me the position of Gen. Gilmore's 'swamp angel' battery, and said that the other day his workmen dug up one of the unexploded shells in the medical College yard. It was rather large for a war souvenir, and about as dangerous as a rattlesnake. The cap was perfect, all ready for the light tap that would explode it. No soaking would ruin the powder filling, and so, after looking it over, he had it carefully and deeply reburied, he hopes beyond resurrection. A negro, some time ago found one of them, and thought he would dig it up and sell it for old iron. He got a sledge hammer and struck it on the point. It exploded, blew the roof of the house off, and dealt destruction in every direction, but strangely, Sambo was not injured beyond being stunned by the concussion. He aroused himself, and, looking wildly around, exclaimed, 'Lordy massy, what's dat iron!'"

***
A young woman from Worcester, possessed of a sharp tongue and a disposition to use it, called on a Mrs. Browne, wife of a notoriously dishonest speculator, who had turned his dishonesty to a good pecuniary account. She inquired, innocently, if she were related to the Browns, the noted banker in Wall street. "Indeed we are not—they spell their name without an 'e'!" was the reply, with an indignant toss of the head. "Oh, that makes no difference, my dear; it is quite probable that Mr. Browne's grandfather could not spell his name at all; and yet if all reports are true, he was more honorable than his grandson."

THACKRAY'S GENEROSITY.—I remember being in the room during one of Thackray's visits to Captain Morgan's house, when a lady instituted a comparison between the author of "Vanity Fair" and Dickens, somewhat to the disadvantage of the latter. "Ah," said Thackray, shaking his splendid gray head, "it's very kind of you to say that, but you know Dickens's slice of pudding is much larger than mine."

They were trifling words, jestingly spoken, but the face and manner of the speaker gave me, child as I was, a surety which I have never lost, that however bitter might be Thackray's scouring of the faults of his fellows, his great heart never harbored an ungenerous or envious thought.

HOODLUM.—"Somebody accounts for the singular, but expressive word, "hoodlum" in this way. A newspaper man in San Francisco, in attempting to coin a word to designate a gang of street Arabs under the leadership of one Muldoon, hit on the idea of dubbing them the hoodlum; that is, simply reversing the leader's name. In writing the name, the strokes of the n did not correspond, in height, and the compositor took it for hoodlum. Hoodlum it is, and probably ever will be."

***
Nothing more thoroughly knocks the romance out of a man at the seaside hotel than to be awakened by what he supposes to be the sonorous breathing of the billows on the strand, and to discover a moment later that it is only the sonorous breathing of a slumberer in the next apartment.

***
At a social gathering at Meriden a young man proposed the formation of a Shakespeare club. But his ardor was somewhat dampened by the discovery that there was only one person in the room who had ever heard of Shakespeare, and that was a young woman who thought it was something like parlor croquet.

***
A reporter for a Wisconsin newspaper writes: "Those who personally know our esteemed fellow citizen, Col—, will regret to hear that he was brutally assaulted, but not killed."

***
The health journals say that we must sleep with our heads toward the north in order to be healthy. By and by a man will need the services of a civil engineer to pass that grown men from foreign land when he sleeps in a strange bed.

parts took the places in American workshops for which American boys have been educated. Where now are those neglected, cheat ed boys? Some of them in jails and almshouses. Some will be found lounging on the benches in public parks, vainly waiting for something to turn up. Others, willing enough, are advertising for situations where they can make themselves generally useful.

—New York Times.

***
MR. CALDWELL ENRAGED.—Old Mr. Caldwell is very deaf. The other Sunday in the midst of the services, Mr. Hoff, who sits immediately behind Mr. Caldwell, saw a spider traveling over the latter's bald head. His first impulse was toudge him and tell him about it, but he remembered that Mr. Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Caldwell quite a severe blow. The old gentleman turned around in a rage to see who had dared to take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain with gestures the cause of the occurrence. But Caldwell was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough,